The 4th Year

...in the "new" Emporia High arrived to find that first freshman class of 1978 finally approaching their senior year. Memories of the way things were done at the "old high school" were completely gone. But other memories still crossed our minds.

Being the first freshmen in this six million dollar complex, we had our ups and downs, good times and bad. Perhaps our most painful memory was remembering with sadness the tragic accidents of James Garcia, Mark Schumann and Tim Duby, all from the class of '78. And we remembered the seniors and juniors complaining that the freshmen always seemed to be in their way. However, there were good times too. We remembered the sell-out musical, "South Pacific." And we knew we'd never forget the day most of us walked out of class because our '76 football team captured the State Championship. Finally, none of us would ever forget the energy crisis that put a slight chill over us all with the lowering of room temperatures.

Four days of enrollment in August signaled the end of our luxurious summer and ushered in a new class of freshmen facing four (long or short) years of high school.

Fall seemed to come early with heavy rains and early frost...just perfect for football games. Striving to save our champion status, our fans packed the stands with bigger crowds than ever before.

Then, without an invitation, the winter months were upon us with snow and freezing temperatures seeming to seep through the walls of the building and through the heaviest sweaters. But we still trudged on to school every morning to the chilly classrooms.

Although our building tried to hide it from us, we knew spring had finally arrived. Spring fever hit most of us with an accumulation of absences and trips to the office. But, much to our surprise, another summer did arrive. All of us had made it through the four seasons and seniors had survived all four years.

Participation in sports and activities seemed to reach an all-time high during that fourth year here. One tradition that carried on from the "old" high school was the Powder Puff football game, with the senior women defeating the juniors on October 9. The Variety Show, sponsored by the Kayettes on September 28, was still another tradition from the "old" high school. All profits were donated to the American Cancer Society.

Additional traditions continued were the Pigskin homecoming activities. However, tradition had to be broken on the crowning of Queen Lennie Armstrong. A downpour throughout the entire Pigskin football game against Hayden October 28 postponed the actual crowning of the queen until Saturday night at the dance. Despite the downpour, Emporia passed Hayden in a 7-6 battle.

For the first time in Emporia High history, partially due to Title IX, women joined the Cross Country Team. Participation in all men's and women's sports remained high through those four years.

While most of the athletic programs were well underway, various other school and outside activities helped make the fourth year more memorable.

Fashions and fads came and went the first four years while others persisted at the "new" Emporia High.

Within these years the skirt length was lowered from the upper thighs to below the knees. Gauchos and bright suspenders made the fashion scene in the hallways along with the traditional blue jeans and T-shirts.

More and more of us joined the work force...at grocery stores, hospitals, fast food chains, filling stations, clothing stores and on farms. If we happened to have a night free of homework, we probably had to go to work.

High schools have always had their share of different "groups," and although we all got along fairly well, our "groups" continued to congregate in different areas. Cowboys met in the parking lot before school and at noon, smokers drifted to the smoking area, debaters congregated in the library and "jocks" continued to hang around the senior locker area.

Student Life

(1) Members of the Wildlife Backpacking Club hike down the Rio Grande Mountain Range during the backpacking trip July 23-30. (2) Rhonda Wessel, soph., enjoys the lazy, hazy days of summer by riding her horse, Misty. (3) Concentration seems very important to Cheryl Stafford, sr., during a summer tournament game against Greeley. (4) Summer often finds many students working on farms. Greg Nelson, sr., disks soybeans at his farm. (5) "The Young and the Restless" captured a large high school audience during the summer. Liz Wilson, sr., and Cindy Stead, sr., religiously follow the daytime drama.

We Work, Loaf, Travel On Lazy Summer Days

As we entered the summer of '77, days grew longer, nights clearer and temperatures higher. Sleeping late was a habit easily developed by some of us. Others chose to swim, play tennis and golf whenever the time seemed right. For others, the ever present problem of money intervened and soon individual students were working hard at McDonalds, the Holiday Inn, on farms and at various other places. School groups found that moneymaking projects could begin even before school did. For example, members of the Drill Team made $73.00 for new uniforms with a car wash.

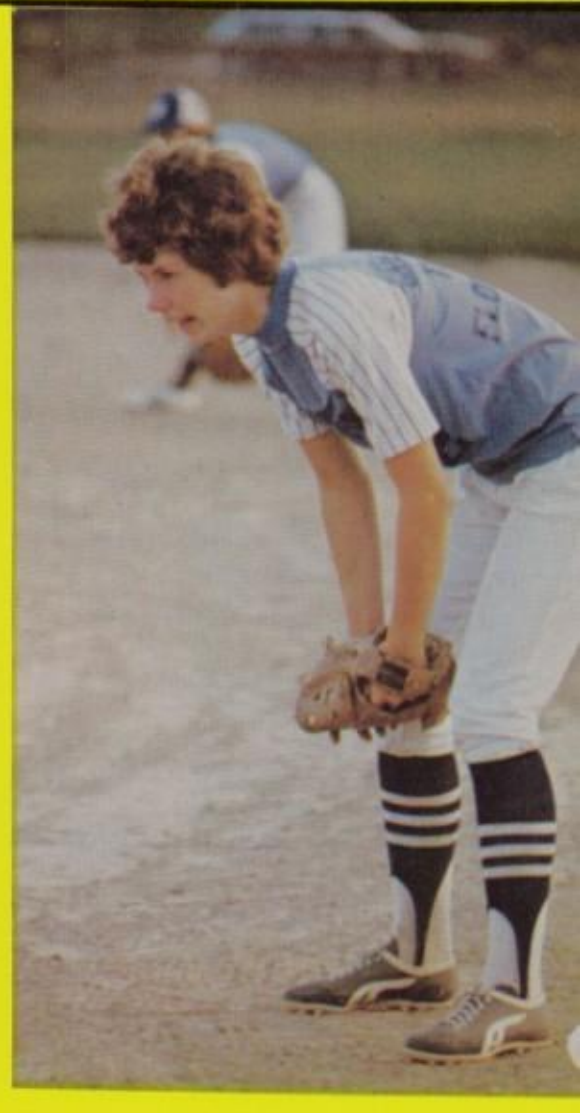

Softball and baseball leagues claimed many of us. In the Senior High Women's League Wildfire placed first with an 8-1 record. The men's Legion team finished with a 28-20 record.

Some of us spent part of the summer traveling. Forty government students, sponsored by Lyle Brechiesen, traveled to Topeka and toured the Capitol. Journalism students attended workshops at Kansas University and Bethany College in Lindsborg. The cheerleading squad attended camp at Kansas University. Some students even traveled out-of-state. StuCo officers, accompanied by Arvina Lumley, attended a leadership conference in Boston. Four band members and Band Director David Hodges traveled to New Orleans. Really getting away from it all, twenty-one German students, sponsored by Chuck Peoples, traveled to Germany for ten days.

When summertime had almost slipped away from us, on August 16, an American legend named Elvis Presley died. The entire nation paused to mourn for the "good ole country boy."

Our days of sleeping late, swimming, playing ball, loafing and traveling drew to an end. Rainy, cloudy days descended over us just before the start of the coming school year. All of a sudden it seemed as if summer had just started...and then it was over.

Speed Bumps Slow Traffic; Parents Attend Orientation

The reality of school hit us like a hard bump....We sped out to school during those four days of enrollment, only to be quickly slowed down by newly added speed bumps!

Next came orientation. Orientation is always a somewhat painful adjustment for new students, but that adjustment was made easier by the orientation for parents of freshmen and sophomores.

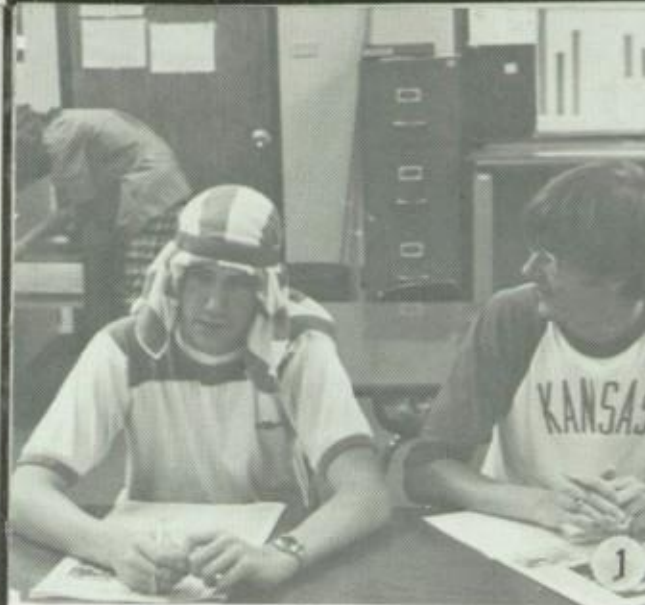

Then we all began to settle into the routine of school. We worked math problems, dissected frogs, blew glass, baked cakes, read short stories, wrote compositions, sanded bread boards, lifted weights, listened to tapes and records, viewed filmstrips and...yes...we started taking tests.

Choosing our leaders came soon. StuCo elections, with more students running than ever before, were highlighted with bright, colorful posters appearing all over the halls. More color hit the halls in the form of spirit day costumes: hat day, overalls day, nursery school day and backwards day.

As classroom activities became harder and more involved, activities during and after school also picked up. Earning $72.00, the Drill Team continued their moneymaking projects with a bake sale in the Flint Hills Mall. Kayette Variety Show money went to the American Cancer Society. Math Club members sold mums for Pigskin, the junior class sold T-shirts and sophomores washed cars.

Music filled the air the fourth year in the new building. Marching at a Kansas City Chiefs game and attending ESU Band Day topped fall activities for band members. The Annual Fall Vocal Concert came and went, and the new recreation center became a perfect place for weekend dances.

Finally, it was time for Pigskin.

Lennie Captures Crown; Rain Drenches Festivities

Fall activities just before Pigskin kept most students extremely busy. Kayettes started their annual Holly Drive October 21, and the junior class continued school moneymaking projects by planning a bake sale at the mall October 29. Finally it was time for Pigskin.

"It can't rain on Homecoming!" we all screamed, especially the queen candidates. But it did. It rained...and rained...and rained. The band played on, the twirler still twirled, the cheerleaders cheered...but the queen wasn't crowned that night. Disappointed queen candidates returned home early to change out of long, velvet dresses into sturdy blue jeans for a rainy game. Queen Lennie Armstrong had to wait until the Pigskin Dance on Saturday to receive her crown and title.

Recalling memories of an earlier rainstorm game with Seaman, we hid under grandstands, under umbrellas and under blankets. However, there was no escaping from this rain. It soaked our shoes, our pants and threatened to seep down to our bones. Some spectators, who had learned their lesson during that previous rainy game when rain caught hundreds without raincoats, hats or boots, huddled under ponchos.

In a soggy, slippery mud battle, we overcame Hayden 7-6 after realizing that the crowning ceremonies would have to be postponed.

We knew the end of fall was near when we set our clocks back for Central Standard time. Looking back over the first nine weeks, we realized they had disappeared at an amazing speed.

Vacation Welcome Break; Winter Sports Commence

As the second nine weeks got underway, our fall activities began to slow down a bit.

Grade cards greeted us the first week after homecoming, with 57 of us making the straight A honor roll, 61 making the A average honor roll and 329 making the B average honor roll.

Ending a successful season, the Women's Volleyball Team placed second in state. And after our 21-0 football win against Highland Park, we were assured of a berth in the state playoffs. Community and school supporters rallied in the parking lot for a rousing send-off for the team before the Highland Park game. Later, braving cold, wet weather, supporters gave the team another rally before the Bishop-Carroll game; however, Bishop-Carroll ended our season when they defeated us 12-0.

Although some activities were slowing down, others were going strong. Future Business Leaders of America (FBLA) attended a conference in Kansas City. StuCo members presented skits on the different aspects of Veteran's Day in addition to arranging for Mrs. Al King to speak to the student body during a Veteran's Day Assembly. Drama students brightened our evenings with "Mrs. McThing," presented November 16 and 17. Three Emporia photographers met with members of the Student, Administration, Faculty Examiners (S.A.F.E.) committee to discuss senior picture prices in Emporia.

Following a current trend back to the nostalgic era of the Fox Trot and the Jitterbug, the Stage Band returned to the sound of the "dance bands" with their December 1 performance. Orchestra's Fall Concert featured the "Brandenburg Concerto No. 3 in G" by J.S. Bach and "Country Club" by Scott Joplin.

Returning from Thanksgiving vacation, we knew winter activities were approaching, and we were looking ahead to basketball, swimming, wrestling, the Christmas program and a nice long winter vacation.

(1) Varsity basketball players participate in an intra-squad scrimmage November 30. (2) During the play "Mrs. McThing" Clark Greenlee (Nelson) looks on as Paul Fredrickson (policeman) threatens to arrest Todd Fredrickson (Dirty Joe) and Eric Vandervelde (Stinker). (3) Wendy Woods, sr., is cross-examined by an opponent at the debate tournament November 16 and 17 at J.C. Harmon. (4) Two members of the MidAmerican Woodwind Quintet, Steven Brausen and Jim Fleisher, perform for the Emporia High Band and Orchestra November 17 before they begin a clinic held at the high school. (5) Community football supporters Steve Sauder and Winky Bush participate in the pep rally before the November 4 game against Highland Park. (6) During a state playoff game with Bishop-Meige, Penni Wright, jr., spikes the ball as Sonya Houghton, sr., watches.

(1) Arranging the refreshments for the Bake Shop tea on December 21 are Judy Tibbets and Julie Stone, soph. (2) Travis and Troy Chapman, sons of drama teacher Kent Chapman, relax before their performance in the Christmas program December 19 and 20. (3) Decorating the school Christmas tree are StuCo members Cheryl Stafford, sr., and Todd Cannon, soph. (4) Tom Mains, fr., and Debbie Meinholdt, jr., check the file at the judges' table during the Silver and Roses tournament January 6. (5) Pat Hart, soph., puts up the sophomore Christmas window in Mr. Lumley's office. (6) Special Education class gave a Christmas tea on December 20 for previous graduates. Carol Brown, jr., assists Danny Zabriskie with his refreshments.

Winter Offers Vacations; Farmers Stage Parades

As the winter season entered into full swing, we were swept up in a whirlwind of activities.

StuCo members got up early to decorate the school Christmas tree before classes began one morning.

Many of us attended rehearsals for the 42nd annual Christmas Program. Students from grades 6-12 participated in the program which was December 19 and 20. Amid Christmas Program practice came club and class Christmas parties as the holidays drew near.

Men's wrestling, swimming and men's and women's basketball seasons were going strong with over half the season left.

The senior class received first prize for their Christmas window decoration entitled "Christmas Memories," with the freshman class placing second. In another contest, the sophomores were victors of the Legs contest sponsored by the seniors.

Kayettes' annual Holly drive was completed when the holly arrived on December 7.

Journalism classes, sponsored by Eileen Peoples, traveled to Topeka on icy roads and streets to tour Jostens American Yearbook Company and the "Topeka Capital-Journal".

The 29th annual Silver and Roses debate tournament was held January 6. Students from 36 schools attended from all over the state, with Fort Scott High School taking first.

On the national scene, farmers received much attention by staging parades and going on strike to make their grievances known. Locally farmers traveled to Topeka to illustrate their problems.

With a new semester just around the corner, winter continued with freezing temperatures but no sign of snow.

Lewis, Torrey Selected As Winter Sports Royalty

"1978 Winter Sports King and Queen are ... J.L. Lewis and Liz Torrey." With this announcement, the 1978 Winter Sports festivities were underway. After Norman Reynolds and Spartan Club officers, President Deb Carder, Vice-President Jackie Stibal, Secretary Tammy Turner and Treasurer Val Creswell, presented the crown, robe, roses and plaque to the King and Queen, the second half of a close game against Washburn Rural was played. With a definite height advantage, the Jr. Blues were surprised with an unexpectedly tough contest. At the final buzzer, Washburn came out on top by a margin of 60-57.

Activities culminated the following evening with a dance at Lowther South. The theme, "How Deep is your Love," was carried out with red, white and pink streamers and hearts of the same color. Seniors Julie Beran and Liz Wilson made silk flowers for centerpieces on the tables. "They were hard to make, but we did it for a good cause. They made the tables look nice," commented Julie.

The backdrop was white tissue paper with a red heart and "How Deep is Your Love" spray painted in black.

Pop and cookies were provided by the Kayettes. "Monarch," a local band, provided the music.

Clean-up was completed Sunday morning by a faculty member and three students.

Due to several close men's and women's games, spirit seemed higher and attendance at games increased as we entered into the middle of the winter sports season.

Winter Activities Continue; Lice Infest Student Body

Winter weather kept us cold with sub zero temperatures and many snowy days.

As winter sports slowly wound down, many clubs earned money by working at the concession stand during basketball and wrestling meets.

The men's basketball team traveled to Olathe for the Olathe invitational. The women's basketball team sponsored the 4th annual Glacier's Edge tournament, with Wichita-Carroll winning.

An annual winter concert was held by the band on January 19. Featured numbers included "Walt Disney Band Showcase" by Floyd Werle and "Emperata Overture" by Claude Smith.

On Friday, February 3, newspaper and yearbook classes traveled to Manhattan for a regional contest. Tom Gress received first place for sports feature writing and Jill Bedner received third for feature writing.

For a change of pace "Atlantis," a navy band from Memphis, Tennessee, played at an assembly February 6. They played a combination of rock and roll music from the 50's and hits from the top ten.

50's spirit week was held February 6-10. Bobbysocks day, ponytail day, and made-in-the-shade day highlighted the week. 50's day climaxed the week, with students and faculty dressing up as The Fonz, Laverne or Shirley.

On February 23 and 25, the musical "110° in the Shade" was presented. Double casting was used in the parts of Lizzie Curry and Snookie Updegraff because of the shortage of female roles.

On the local scene, up to eight inches of drifting snow closed all schools outside of town and most schools in eastern Kansas. If we weren't outside fighting snowdrifts, we were inside worrying about catching head lice as that Emporia epidemic continued to thrive.

As winter drew to an end, the warmer weather seemed to just slip away from our grasp while it continued to freeze us with bitter cold and bone-chilling wind.

(1) Senior Kathy Klein participates in 50's Day while working on an experiment during chemistry class. (2) John Erikson, soph., and Rusty Ames, soph., go to their seats before the start of the band concert January 19. (3) "Atlantis," a navy band from Memphis, Tennessee, performs for the student body February 6. (4) "Boogieing" to the Don Kile Trio at the Junior Dance are Juniors Regi Harris and Lendi Grimsley. (5) Working at the concession stand during the game against Washburn Rural are Leslie Milton, jr., Nadine Dolezal and Mitzi White, jr.

(1) Liz Potter, sr., rebounds during the championship sub-state game against Wichita Heights, while Donna Pierce, sr., looks on. (2) Posing with the puppets she designed is Kim Jones, sr. (3) Directing the band at the clinic held March 15 and 16 is Robert Foster. (4) Stephanie Walford, sr., registers to vote at Lyon County Government Day. (5) Doing research for the Model U.N. trip to Friends University is Tim Coen, jr.

Women Take Sub-State; March Enters Like Lion

As the end of winter neared, longer days and shorter nights welcomed the entrance of spring.

Government students attended Lyon County Government Day on February 22. Attending a trial, visiting the jail and visiting different offices in the courthouse highlighted the day.

On March 2, 3, and 4, we hosted the men's and women's sub-state basketball tournament. Wichita Heights won the men's division and we won the women's.

F.B.L.A. attended a regional conference at Emporia State University on March 8. Schools from surrounding areas also attended.

A band clinic was held March 15 and 16, with a concert ending the activities March 16. Four guest clinicians, Harold Keen, Jay Wanamaker, Bob Duffer and Robert Foster attended. Mr. Foster, Director of University of Kansas Bands, was the guest conductor.

Model U.N. attended a three-day competition against area high schools and colleges at Friends University on March 17. U.S.S.R., Yugoslavia, West Germany and Brazil were the countries represented.

Black Market sponsored a dance March 17 at the Recreation Center. "Power Ax," a local band, provided the music.

On March 18, stage band traveled to Kansas University for an invitational contest. They were selected, along with 11 other bands from the Midwest, to attend.

Spring vacation found many of us in Colorado skiing. Others spent a relaxing week at home.

Generous as we were, we began to share our lice epidemic with other Kansas high schools, as reports of head lice came in from 50 other Kansas counties.

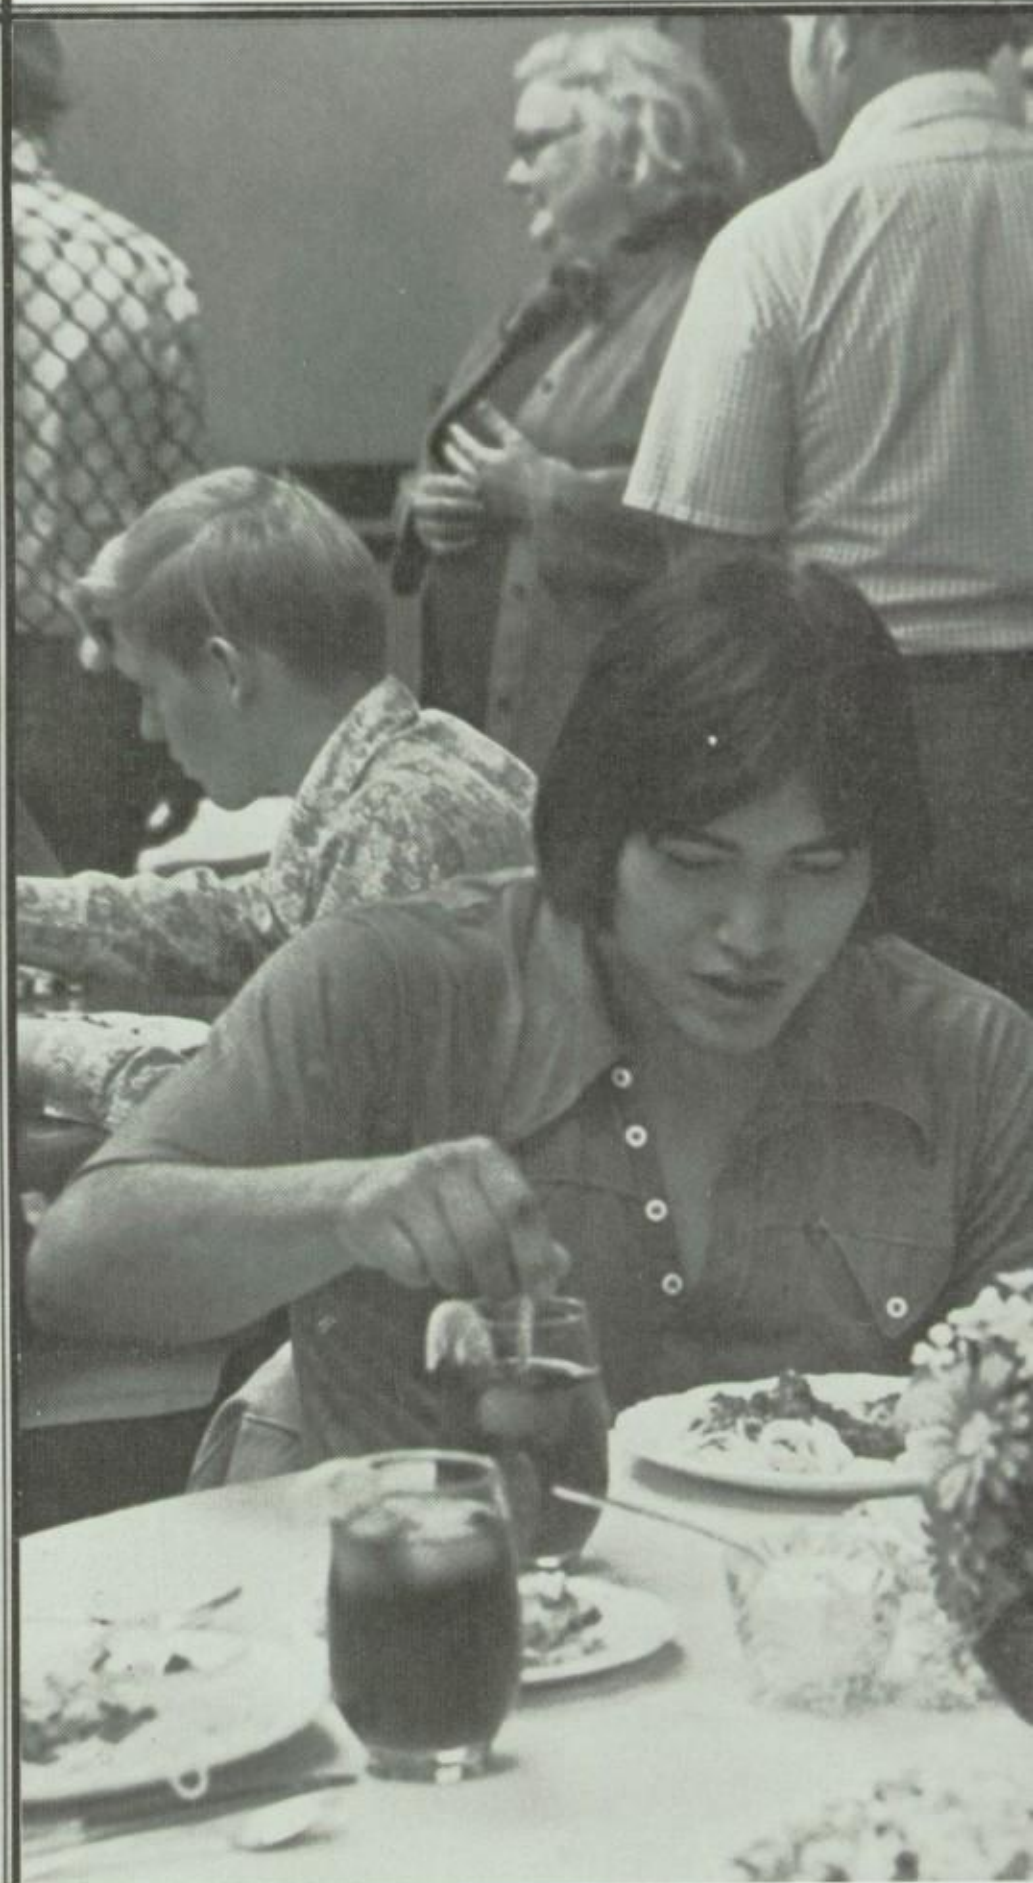

Worldwide, the Panama Canal Treaty and the railroad derailments were the topics of many conversations.

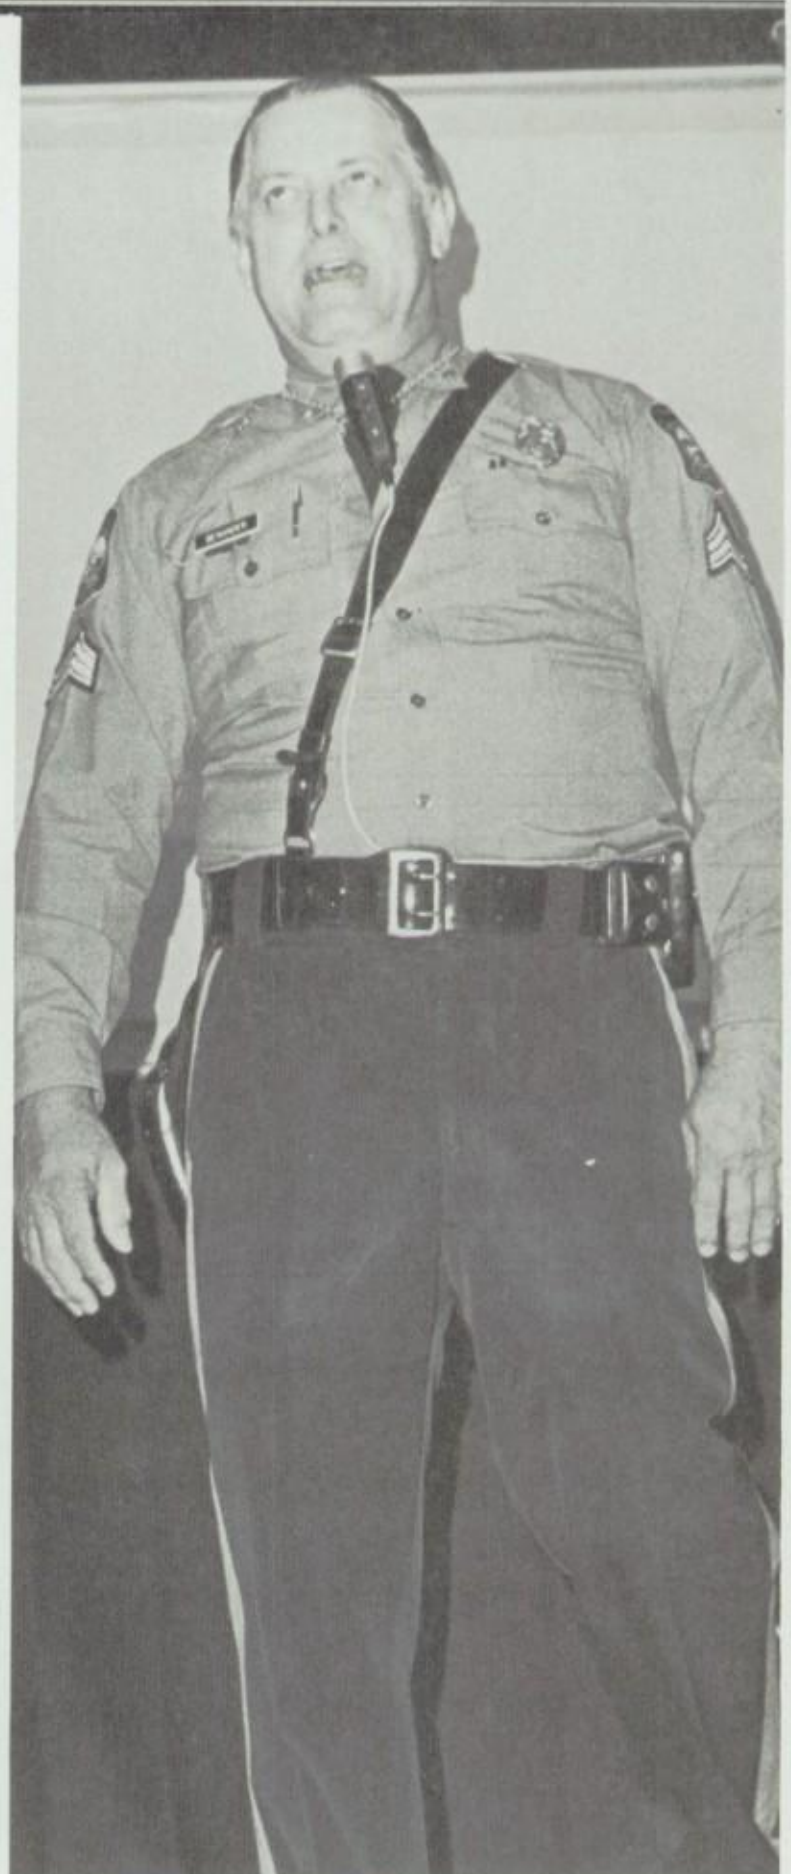

Although the calendar indicated that spring was upon us, we refused to believe it as the cold weather continued.

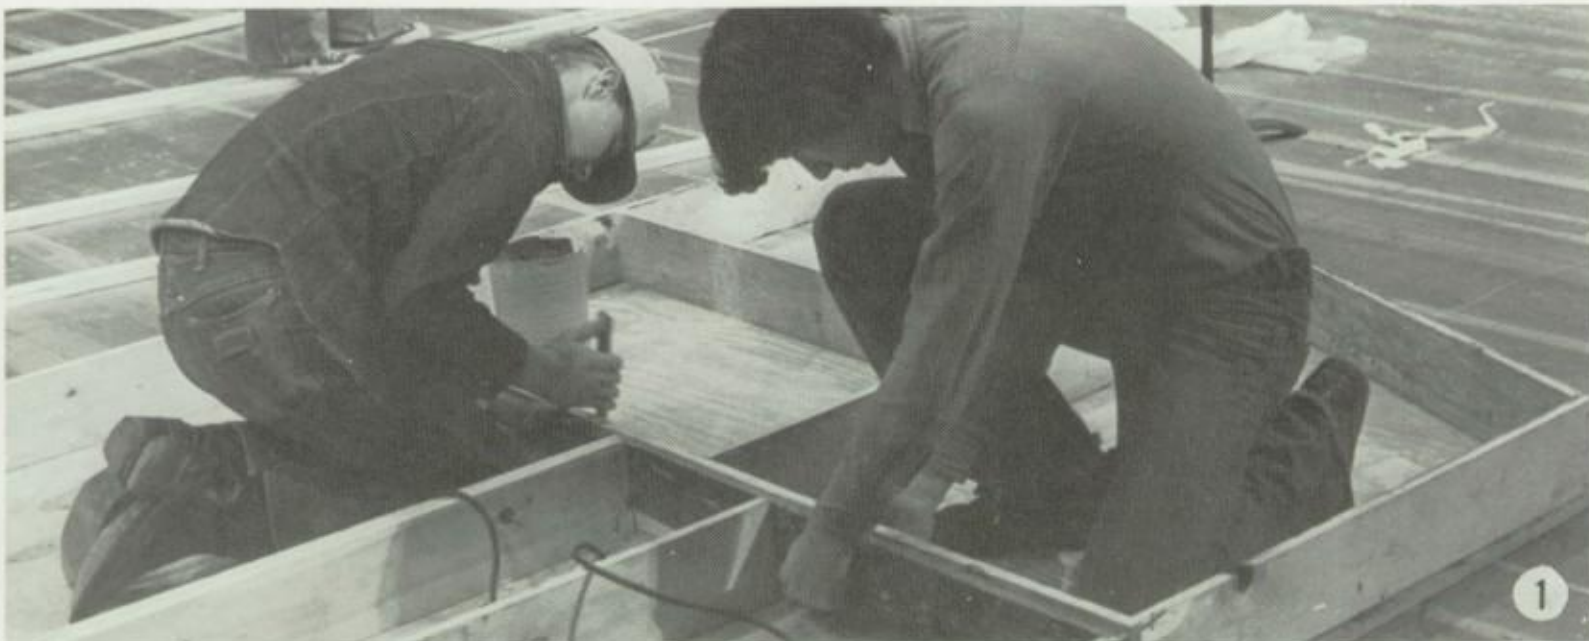

Academics

Art, Drama, Music Students Keep Involved with Shows

Participating in shows highlighted the year for the Art, Drama and Music Departments.

Art work was entered in the Scholastic Art Show in Wichita and judged with work from other high schools in the state. The best art work was then sent to New York for national competition.

Small pewter items were made by Jeff Creswell and Becky Hartzler. Jeff made a dragon and Becky made a horse for the show.

Demonstrations of glass blowing were shown by Roger Ward to glass blowing classes.

Drama II was offered for more advanced drama students. They designed sets and worked on acting scenes.

There were casts of approximately twenty in both the fall show, "Mrs. McThing," and the spring presentation, "To Kill a Mockingbird."

Performances were frequent in the Music Department. The Chorale presented several concerts, the musical, "One Hundred and Ten in the Shade," performed at the Christmas program and made their annual trip to Topeka to sing on television.

The Marching Band appeared at all the home football games, Emporia State University Band Day and at Arrowhead Stadium where they marched at halftime of a Chiefs' game.

During the concert season, the band was divided. The Symphonic Band was made up of the 55 more advanced players and was evenly balanced in each section. Members presented several concerts, participated in their annual Band Clinic in March and were invited as the guest band at Emporia State University's band clinic on February 14. The Concert Band also presented several concerts and participated in the annual band clinic.

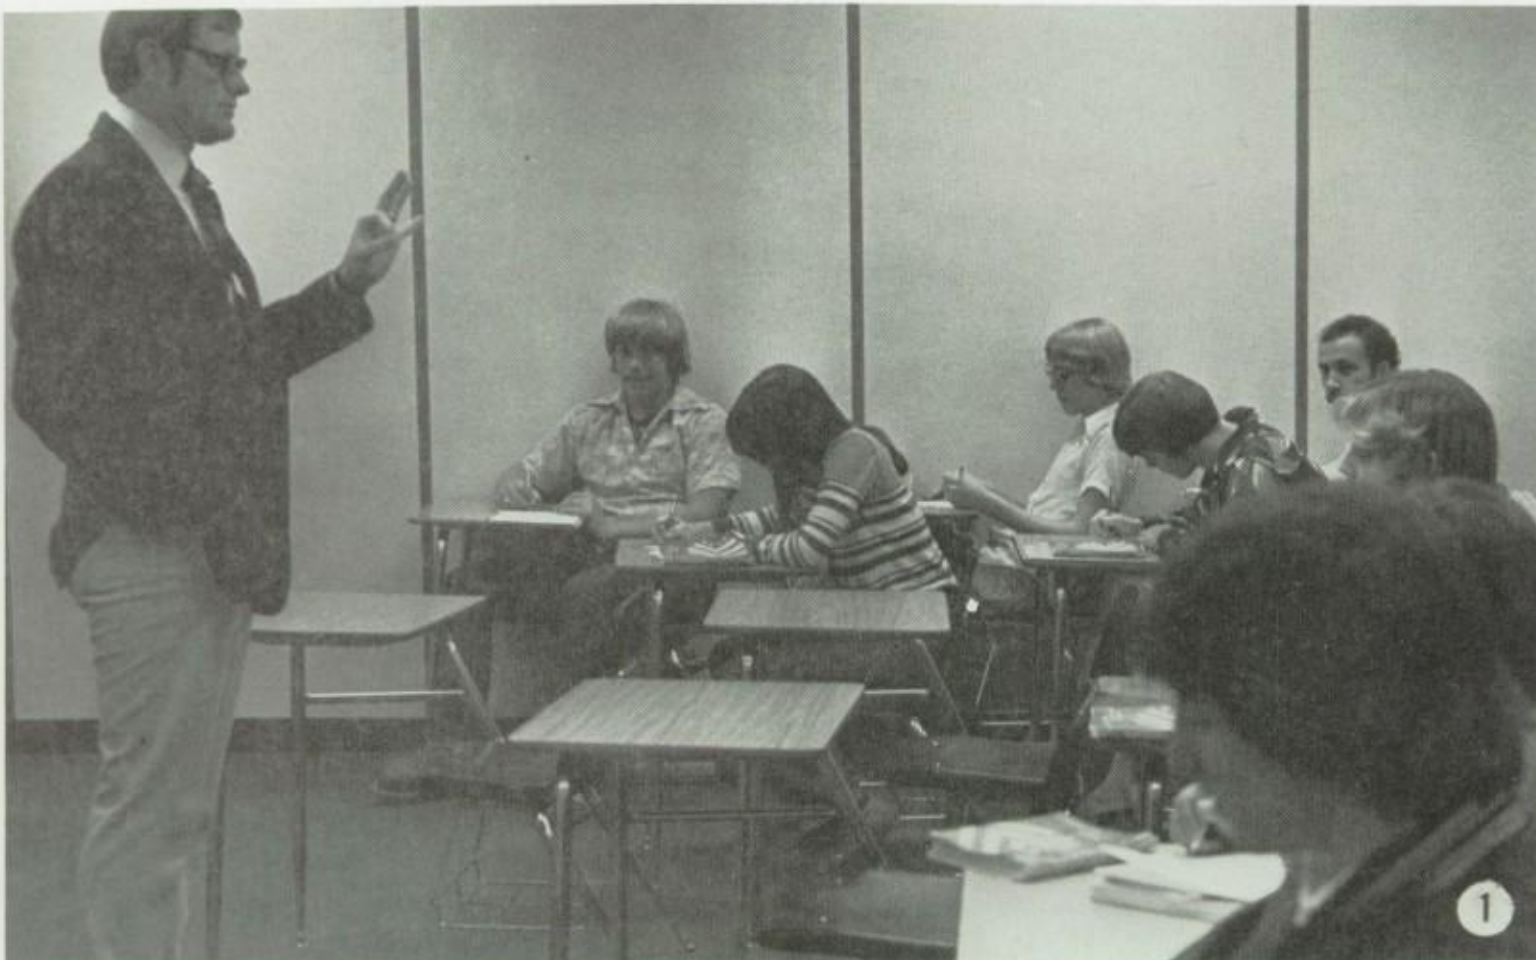

A new sound system was purchased by the Music Department. It included a turntable, receiver, two speakers, two microphones and a set of headphones.

Other new equipment included a Yamaha electric piano and speaker, a Selmer E-flat clarinet, a Ludwig Concert Bass Drum and a tamtam.

Two Departments Undergo Extensive Teacher Changes

Teacher changes sparked the Social Studies and Business Departments.

A new part-time position in the Social Studies Department was filled by Bill Linhart and one hour was taught by Tom Fowler. Ann North was also added to the staff.

Because there were new government textbooks, units about state and local government were added to the course of study. New textbooks were also used in Mexican American Studies, Indian Studies and Women Studies.

World Geography was offered for the first time and was taught by James Keller. A course about the Soviet Union was offered and will not be offered again until the 1979-80 school year.

Field trips included trips to Abilene to tour the Eisenhower Library, to Topeka to the State Legislature and to the County Courthouse and City Government Building.

During the first semester, the Business Department underwent major teacher changes. Beverly Toso took a leave of absence, so Jan Bradbury moved into her position. Ann Fagg was hired to fill the vacant position. Mrs. Toso then returned for the second semester.

Six electric typewriters were purchased by the Business Department, making a total of ten. The department is trying to slowly convert to all electric typewriters.

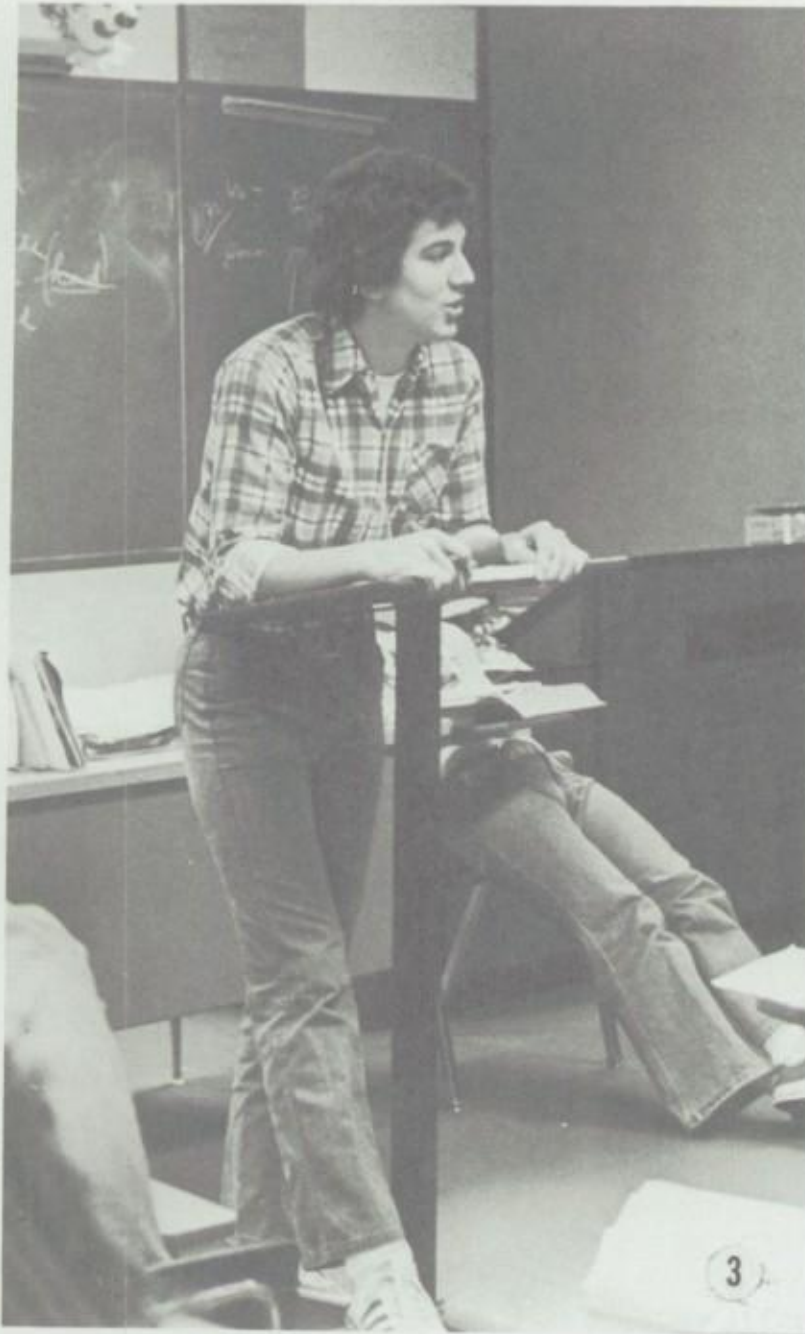

General Business students worked on a career unit. They learned to use the library as a source to investigate careers. They also learned to keep simple books by figuring a practice set.

Data Processing students visited the Computer Center at Emporia State University and Management Advisory Computer Systems.

Both Language Departments Use Class Related Projects

Class projects kept students busy in the Language Arts and Foreign Language Departments.

After reading five books in Bestsellers class, the students were required to do a creative project relating to one of the books. They read a variety of books, including two mysteries, a suspense thriller, a war story and a true account of a teacher in a school for seriously emotionally disturbed children.

Slide shows were compiled as projects for Candy Hodge's composition classes and Teena Winter's Oral Interpretation class. Mrs. Winter also had her students enrolled in the Women in Literature class bring in a popular song and explain their interpretation of its image of women.

Working together, the Language Arts Department and the Art Department chose several paintings to be purchased by the library.

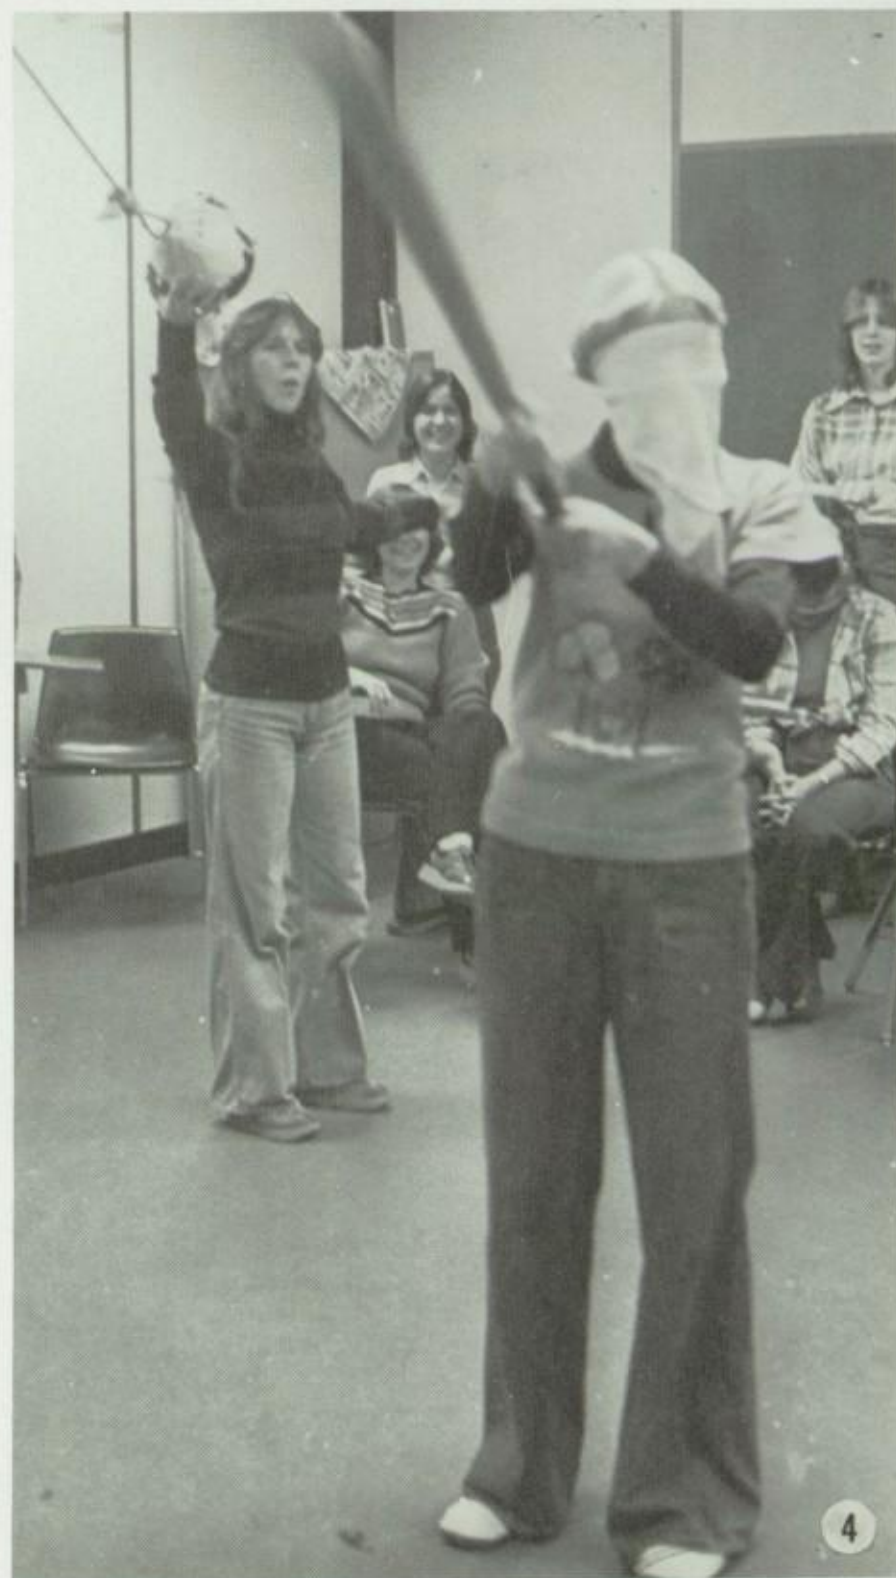

Five classes were open for students that will not be offered again until the 1979-80 school year. These classes were Women in Literature, Fiction's World of Horror, Shakespeare, Introduction to Novel and Biographies.

Twenty-four Spanish students and Sponsor Tom Fowler spent a week in Mexico during the spring. They visited Mexico City, Guadalajara, Tlaquepaque and Puerto Vallarta. Fourteen Garnett students and their sponsor went on the trip with the Emporia students.

Each area of the Foreign Language Department worked on class projects during the Christmas season. Pinatas were made in the Spanish II and III classes, and Saturnalia, the Latin Christmas, was celebrated in the Latin classes. The French students had a Christmas party and brought French pastries, including petits fours, buche de Noel (cake), and choux a la creme (cream puffs). They also sang Christmas carols in French.

Advanced French students made a slide show about the geography of France and wrote the script in French. French II students planned menus and cut pictures of food out of magazines and labeled the dishes.

German students spent time discussing their trip to Germany, taken the past summer, and Mrs. Melba Herrick and Mark Stuart gave presentations to the classes about Germany.

(6) French II students Gretchen Fisher, soph., Sabra Lambert, soph., Susan Johnson, soph., and Ann Bloxom, jr., listen to their French lessons over the headphones.

Science, Math Departments Make Some Major Changes

Change seemed to be the key word in both the Science and Math Departments.

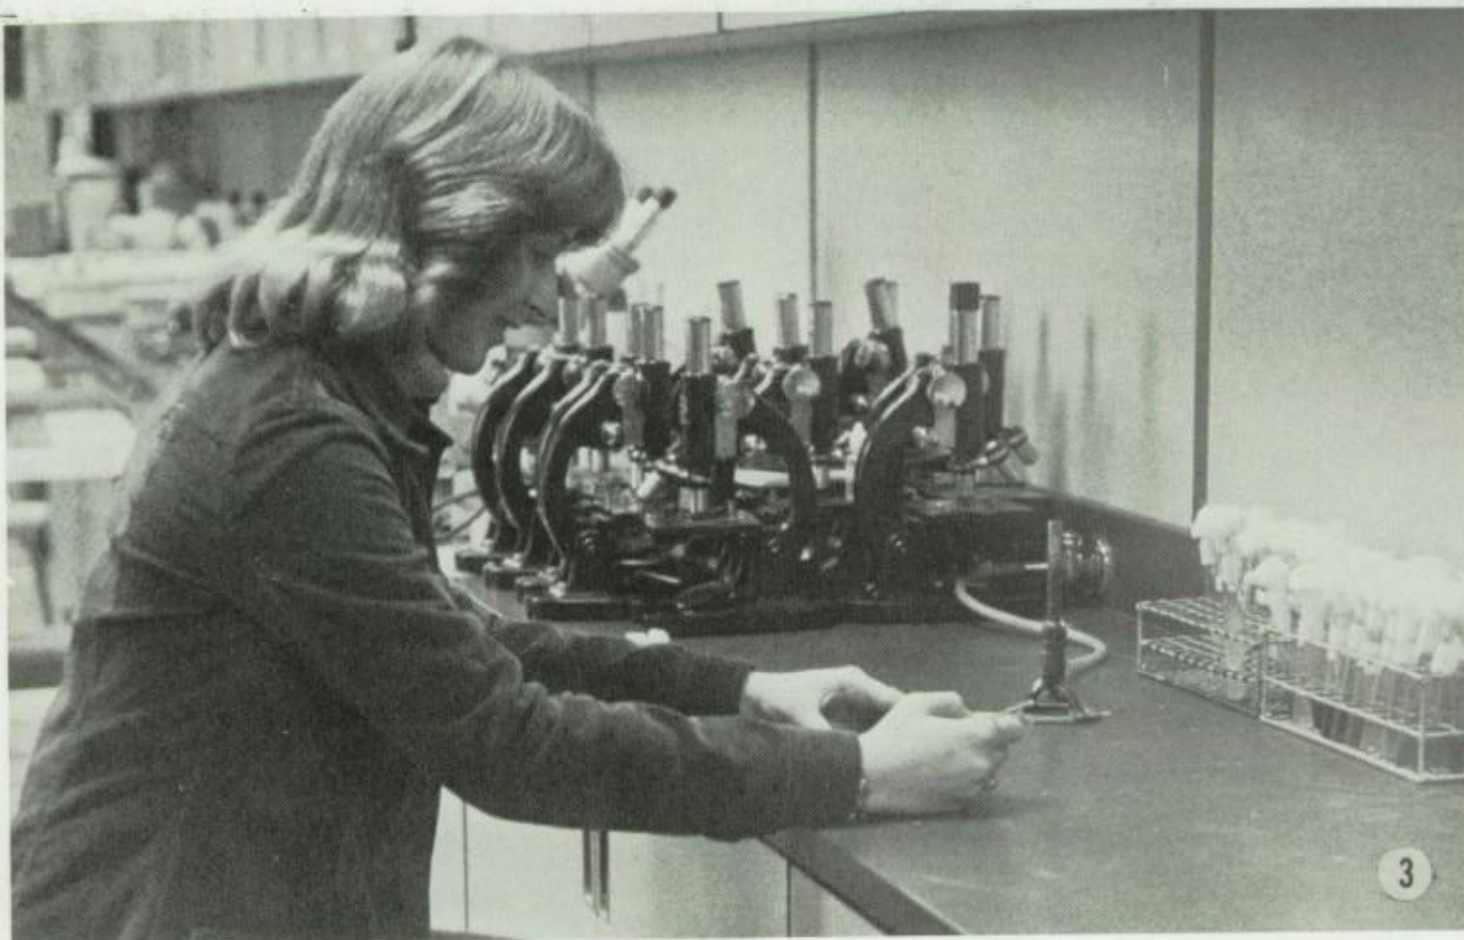

Frank Nelson and John Harclerode changed the way they taught biology. They combined their classes and adopted a team teaching method. One teacher organized and taught while the other was a helper. "This way," said Mr. Nelson, "each of us could teach the units we are most interested and best in."

Slides and pictures were taken of the Wildlife, Conservation, and Backpacking Club's trip to Colorado for use in the science classes. Mr. Harclerode applied for a mini-grant and used the two hundred dollars he received for taking slides and pictures of the trip. When a specimen wasn't available, the slides were shown to the science classes.

Another change was the addition of Ann Clark as the physics and photography teacher.

Fifty-two math students attended Math Day at Emporia State University on October 31. Nineteen students also entered contests either individually or as a member of a team. The categories entered by individuals and teams were Algebra, Geometry and Trigonometry. Although no individual medals were won, the Algebra team won a third place trophy, the Trigonometry team also placed third, and the Geometry team took seventh. Fifty-five schools participated in the Math Day. Math students also traveled to Pittsburg in the spring for another contest.

A course about the metric system was offered for the first time by the Math Department. Metric terminology was introduced and problems were worked using the metric system instead of the American system. Metric measuring devices were purchased, including meter sticks, Celsius thermometers, and metric scales and volume sets.

Special Education, Phys. Ed. Participate in New Activities

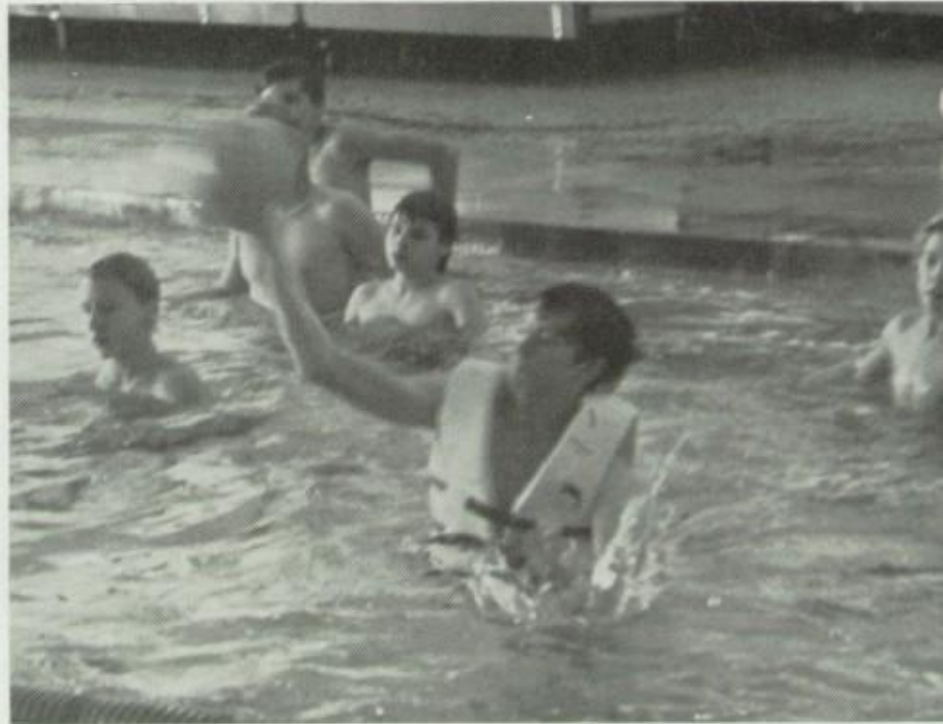

New activities enhanced the Physical Education and Special Education curriculum.

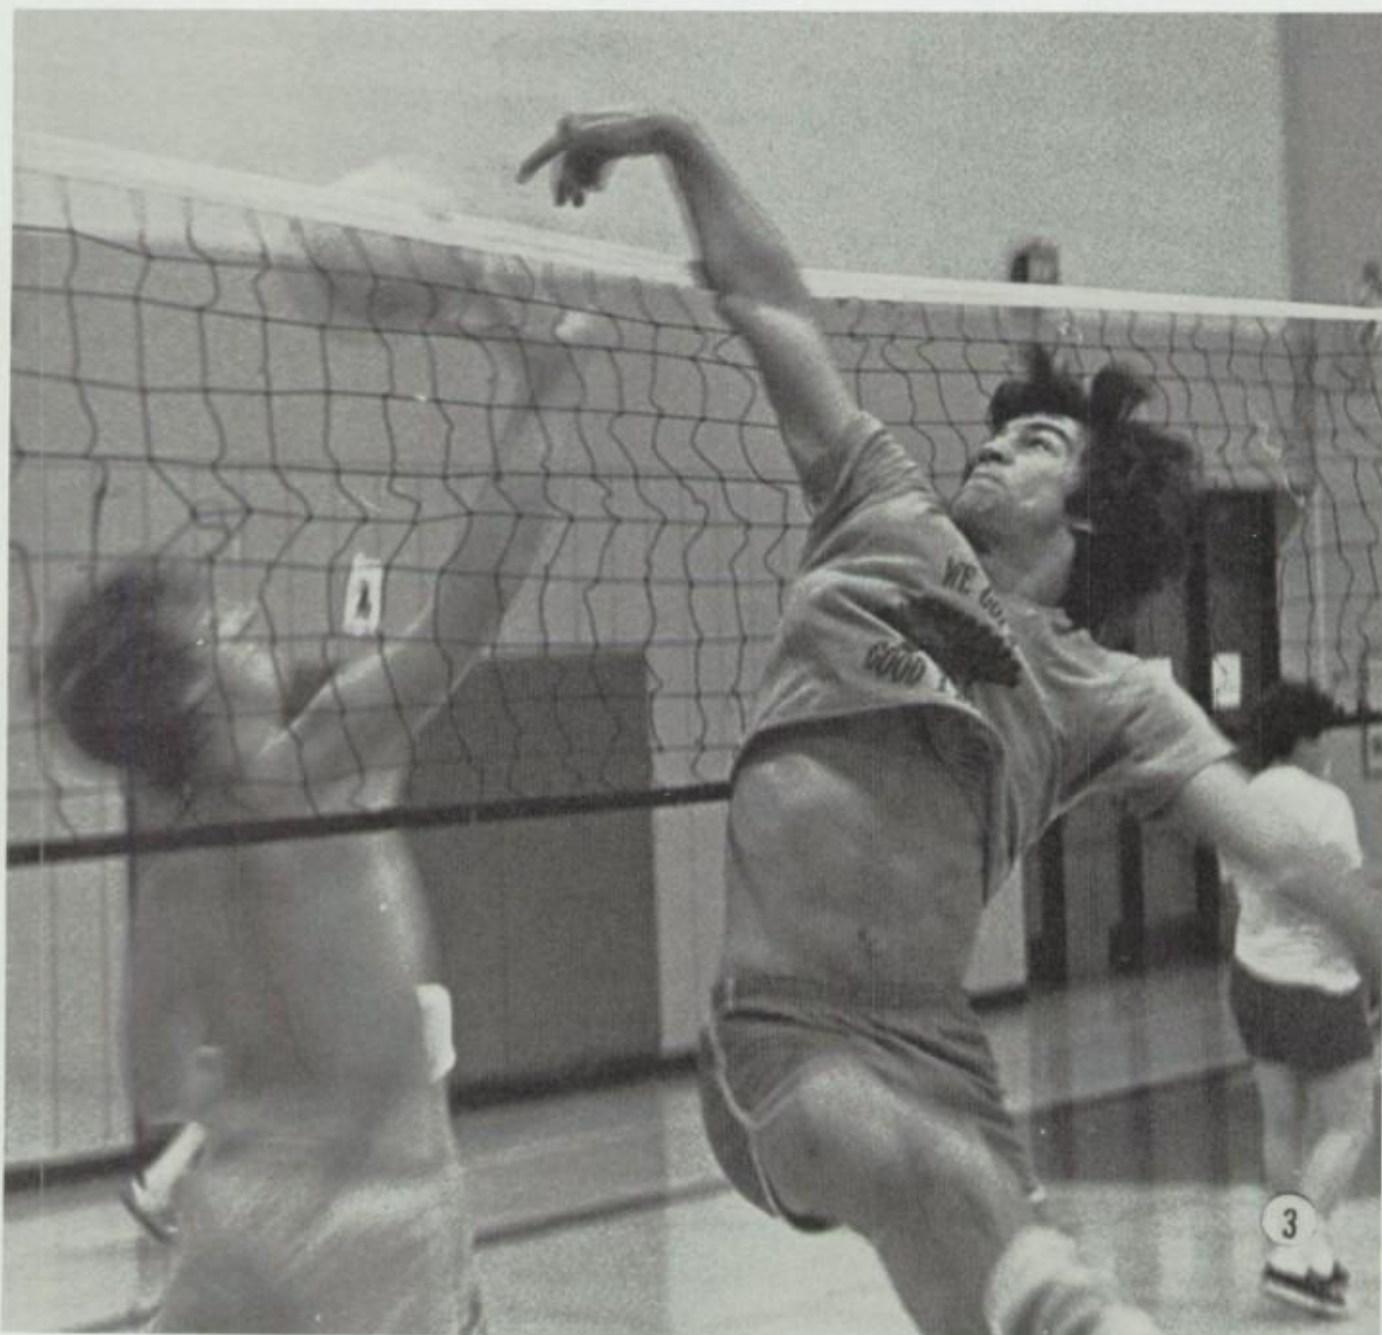

Freshman and sophomore physical education classes under the instruction of Norma Hodges and Linda Fox participated in a bowling unit for five weeks. The students were bused to Bluestem Bowl three days each week for their classes.

A new dimension of learning was added to the special education curriculum. The students were involved in a music class with Maxine Mitchell and a physical education class with Norma Hodges. They worked on basic hand and eye, foot and eye coordination skills by running up and down stairs, jumping, walking backward, and bouncing, rolling and kicking balls. This was the first time these students were ever offered an opportunity like this. "It was good for the kids to have a break in their day and they really enjoyed it," commented special education teacher Jeline Harclerode.

Plants were also studied in Mrs. Harclerode's class. A mini-grant was approved by the school board and money was given to Mrs. Harclerode to supplement her classroom activities. The money was used to set up a greenhouse situation. The students learned about making cuttings, rooting plants, watering and transplanting. They also sold plants for profit. Through the mini-grant, the students were able to develop some leisure time skills.

A literacy test was given to all the Learning Resource students at the beginning of the year to determine each student's weaker areas; therefore, Glenna Harrison could help each student develop more skill in those areas.

Home Economics, Ind. Arts Schedule Classes Differently

Scheduling changes helped students make better use of time and equipment in the Home Economics and Industrial Arts Departments.

The Wise Cook class was the only lab class scheduled during third hour, making it possible for the students to spend more time in the lab. They were able to include a large unit on canning and freezing. The students canned apples, peaches, tomatoes, carrots and pickles. The canned goods were used in other foods classes to reduce the cost of labs for the department.

Two elderly residents from a local nursing home spoke to the Social Living class during their unit on aging. Other speakers who came to the class talked about alcoholism, adoption, abortion, changing roles, crime, teen-age marriage, divorce, rape, family living and mental health. The class also visited the mental health center.

After visiting the house built by the Building Trades class at the Vo-Tech school, the Contemporary Housing class selected a decor for the house, including floor and wall coverings.

Introduction to Woodworking underwent a scheduling change. It was extended to a semester because of the need for time to work on class projects.

Cathy Bishop was selected by the industrial arts teachers as the Outstanding Student in industrial arts. She was recognized at Emporia State University on November 15.

Several industrial arts students planned some unique projects. Doug Hall made a paperweight by putting flowers into an internal carving in a piece of clear acrylic plastic, Paul Lechner built a series of auto ramps on which a car can be driven so work can be done to the underside. Robert Jehle and Greg Leeds built an engine stand to hold an engine while it is being worked on.

A 17 game winning streak was broken for the Varsity Football team with the 5 point loss to Leavenworth October 14.

"The team was tremendously disappointed," said Head Coach Dave Hugg. A second loss by 8 points to Washburn Rural October 21 was another blow. However, according to Coach Hugg, the team reacted well. "They reacted like true winners and continued to work hard after both losses," he said.

Coach Hugg explained that two reasons for the loss to Washburn Rural were the turnovers and mistakes plus a good Washburn team.

Coming back after two defeats, the Spartans beat Hayden 7-6 in what seemed like an instant replay of the team's 1976 game. Wet weather and low scores plagued both teams. The Spartans then traveled to Highland Park, skunking the Scotties with a 21-0 victory.

Offense, according to Coach Hugg, was strong and explosive. "We were able to take advantage of weaknesses in the opponent's defense," he said. However, weaknesses for the offense included fumbles and pass interceptions.

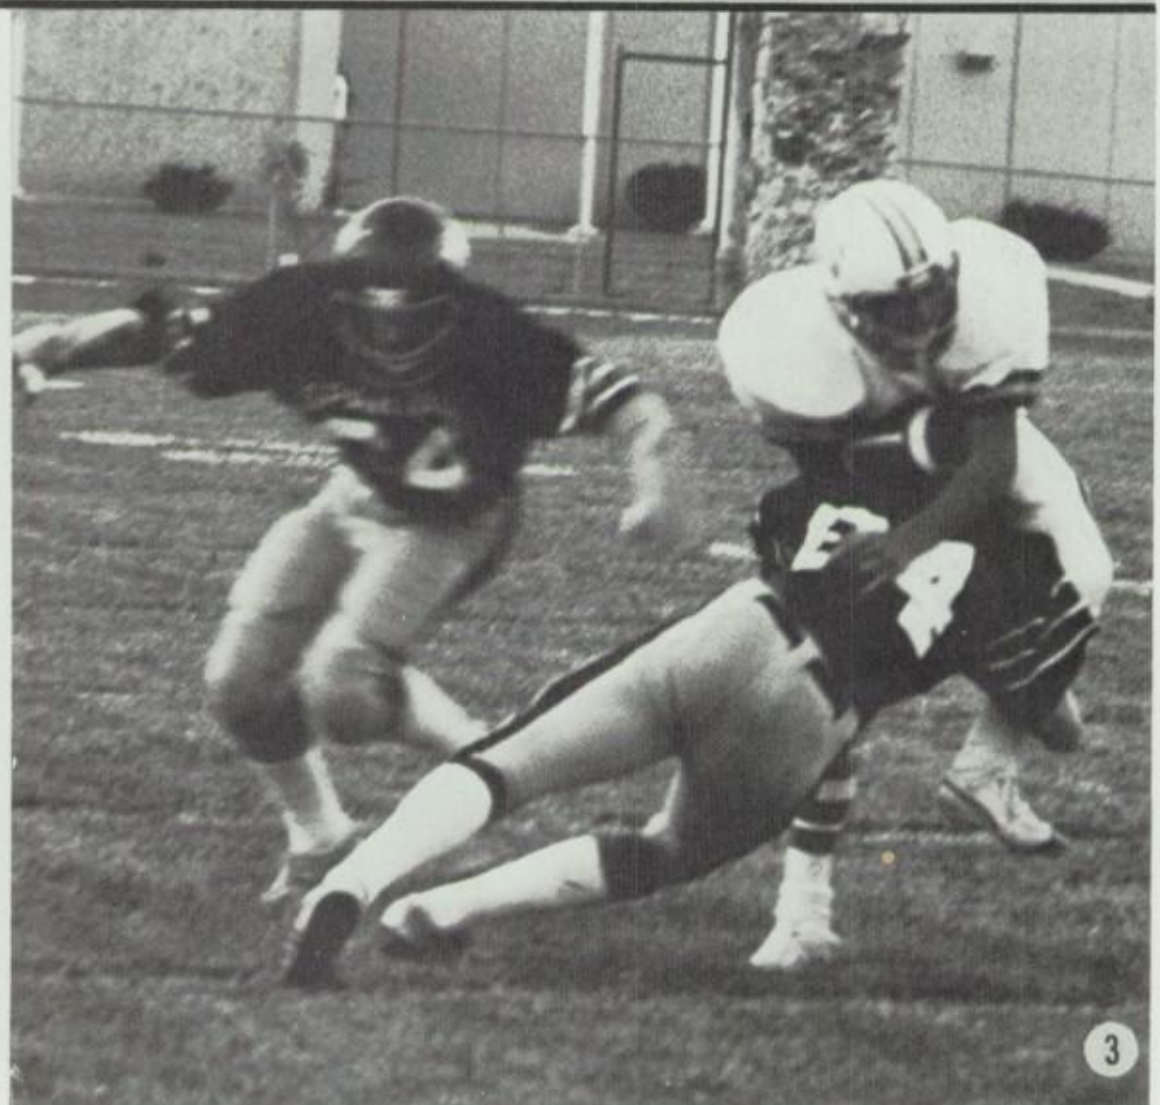

A strong defense gave up very few touchdowns. However, Coach Hugg indicated that one problem for the defense was playing against big "grind it out" teams.

According to Coach Hugg, community support of the team was "great at the end of the season." Community pep rallies before the Highland Park and Bishop Carroll games sent the team off in good style.

Going on into the first game of the playoffs, the Spartans were defeated by Bishop Carroll on November 5, thus ending their season with a 6-3 record finish.

Ten Spartans qualified for the All League Teams: nine were seniors and one a junior. Offensive team members from Emporia were Bill Albin, sr., as tail end; Russ Bastin, sr., as split end; Paul Dorathy, sr., and Chris Solis, sr., on interior line; Mike Davis, sr. and Bruce Blaylock, jr., as backs; John Ek, sr., as quarterback. Qualifying for the defensive team were Fred Harder, sr., as line back; Mike Smith, sr., as secondary; Pete Bautista, sr., as a lineman.

A disappointing 3-4 record ended the season for the Junior Varsity football team.

According to Coach Jerry Troxell, the reason for the losses was that the team ran into good competition.

Juniors on the team gained good experience for the future and the few seniors mixed in provided leadership.

"Although Junior Varsity players weren't regular starters on the Varsity, they did get some Varsity ball," said Coach Troxell.

Freshmen, Soph. Post 6-1 Season

After the disappointing 7 game losses as last year's freshmen, the Sophomore Football team came back this year to win 6 games and lose only 1 to Highland Park on September 22. The Scotties won the game by only 2 points.

"We dominated both offensive and defensive statistics," commented Head Sophomore Coach Terry Westbrook about the one game they lost.

According to Coach Westbrook, the turnover from last year's poor season was due to early personnel changes and the installation of the triple option. He explained that the team started developing an aggressive attitude. "We taught technique and confidence," he said.

After the loss to Highland Park, the team had a 5 game winning streak.

Sophomore Joe Witten was the only sophomore who played Varsity. He played all year long as a defensive end.

With their 6-1 season, the Freshman Football team encountered only one loss to Manhattan on October 13.

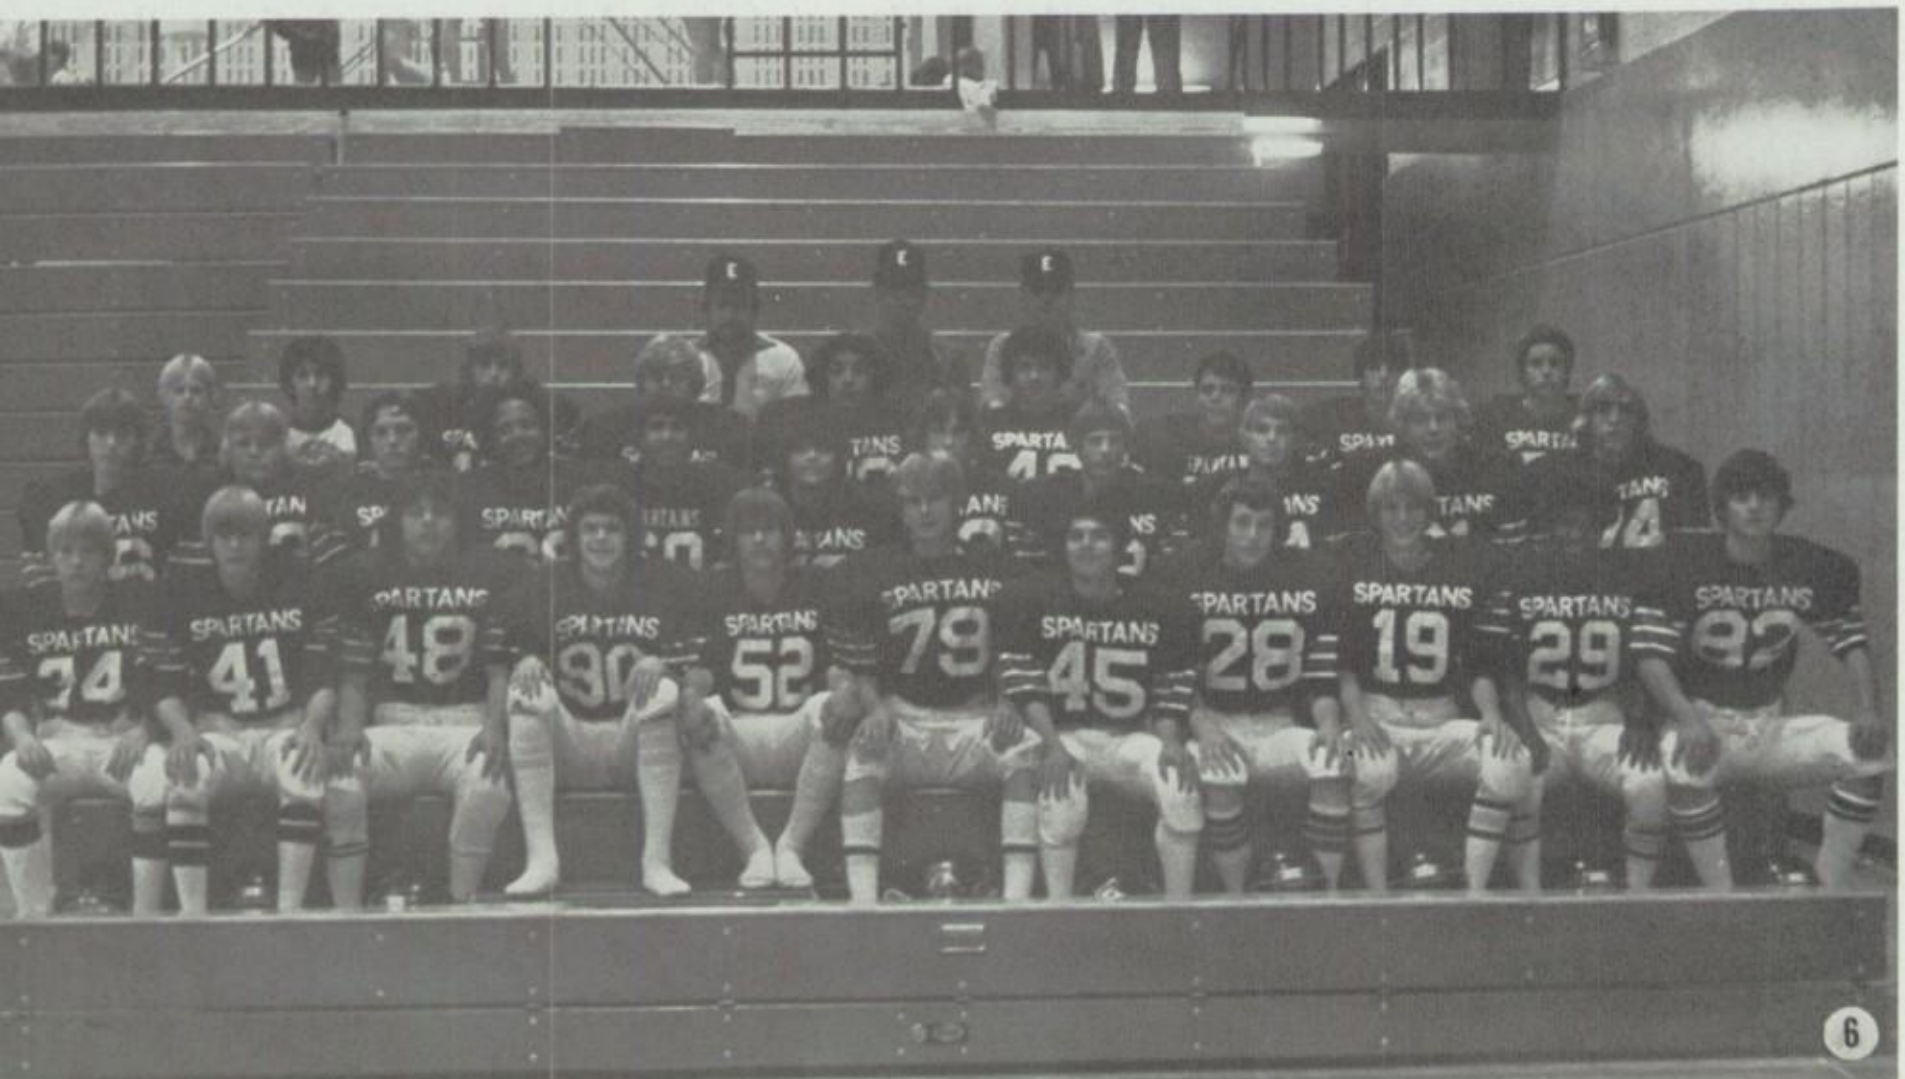

"The only team that scored on us beat us," said Assistant Freshman Coach Larry Williams. He went on to comment that the Manhattan team said the Emporia freshmen were the best they had played against all year.

One contribution to the 28-0 loss to Manhattan was the knee injury of fullback Donnie Gutierrez.

"We made good progress each ballgame," said Head Coach Jerry Brown. "The kids were preparing themselves for the future."

Coach Brown further explained that development of the offensive line was the key to their success and that the defense held the team together.

"At the freshman level we're trying to make improvements for the future," said Coach Brown. "There's a chance for some players to go on to varsity."

Volleyball Records 16 Wins, 5 Losses

(1) The volleyball team displays the first place trophy won at sub-state on October 22. (2) Warming up before the October 4 Manhattan game are Sharon Collinge and Cheryl Stafford. (3) WOMEN'S VARSITY VOLLEYBALL; BOTTOM ROW: Jean Hamman, Kim Turney, Sharon Collinge, Gretchen Fisher. SECOND ROW: Joi Ralston, DeAnna Koch, Brenda Seaton, Dana Ginavan, Krista Bailey, Penni Wright. THIRD ROW: Coach Harold Rains, Tammy Turner, Nan Hanna, Sonja Houghton, Val Creswell, Trainer Linda Goza. FOURTH ROW: Lois Barb, April Nelson, Liz Potter. (4) Sharon Collinge, soph., helps Penni Wright, jr., take off her knee pad. (5) Liz Potter, sr., sets up the ball while Nan Hanna, soph., and Lois Barb, sr., stand ready for a return.

After winning sub-state at Newton on October 22, the Women's Volleyball team went on to capture second at state, which was held in Emporia October 29. Winning the first two matches over Derby and Manhattan, the team lost the third match to Bishop Meige.

According to Coach Harold Rains, the most successful win was over Bishop Carroll. "We played our best game and won sub-state, which entitled us to go to state."

First places were received at Wichita East on September 10, Centennial League on September 27 and sub-state October 22.

"We had a tremendously successful year. Our team started this season playing very well, then slumped at mid-season. Our players displayed tremendous character to end our season in such a successful manner," stated Coach Rains.

The team's most disappointing loss was to Hayden, which meant they tied for the league title rather than winning it by themselves.

Women who lettered were seniors Lois Barb, Sonja Houghton, April Nelson, Liz Potter and Tammy Turner; juniors Deanna Koch, Joi Ralston and Penni Wright; sophomores Nan Hanna and Sharon Collinge and freshman Dana Ginavan.

The volleyball season ended with a record of 16 wins and 5 losses.

Freshmen Compile Season 4-2 Record

"B team had mostly new players this year, but everyone tried hard and worked together well. Sometimes our inexperience showed and that's when we lost," stated Junior Deanna Koch. "B team is supposed to be a learning experience and I think we all learned a lot. We should have a better season next year," she concluded.

The most successful win was against Atchison on September 6. They won the first two games, thus winning the match.

Although the season began with a win, the last game was a disappointing loss to Council Grove.

Players on the B team practiced with the varsity team.

The season ended with a record of two wins and seven losses.

Winning their first match over Fort Riley on September 20 started the Freshman Women's Volleyball team off to a good year.

"It was a hard win but it showed us if we didn't give up and if we worked hard we could win," stated first-year Coach Norma Hodges.

The team played Junction City on September 27 and October 4 and won both matches.

Coach Hodges commented, "The team always worked hard. They never gave up."

Outstanding players were Dana Ginavan and Sandy Dennison. "The team did well even though we lost a little height," commented Sandy.

The final season's record was four wins and two losses, with the team placing fourth at the Manhattan Invitational.

Five Women Join Cross Country

(3) Moving ahead of his opponent from Topeka West is Jim Sterbenz, sr., at regionals in Manhattan. (4) Coach Pat Sands consults Deneise Brown, soph., at a practice session on October 20. (5) Deneise Brown, soph., begins practice without a grumble. The girls usually ran about 4 miles for their practice. (6) Both Men's and Women's Cross Country teams, under the direction of Coach Sands, line up for practice behind the school. (7) CROSS COUNTRY TEAMS; FIRST ROW: Tom Gress, Wes Jones, Jeff Bradley. SECOND ROW: Cliff Greenlief, Dale Tidwell, Alfie Lopez. THIRD ROW: Kelly Jarvis, Patty Herrick, Deneise Brown. FOURTH ROW: Jim Sterbenz, Peter Torrey, Lon Tidwell. FIFTH ROW: Jeff Meyer, Jay Hotchkiss, Paul Rowe. TOP ROW: Debbie Brown, Tina DePaepe

Five women joined the Cross Country team for the first time ever. "I think the girls should have Cross Country," explained senior runner Wes Jones, "but they should not run with guys. It would be to their advantage to have their own coach," he concluded.

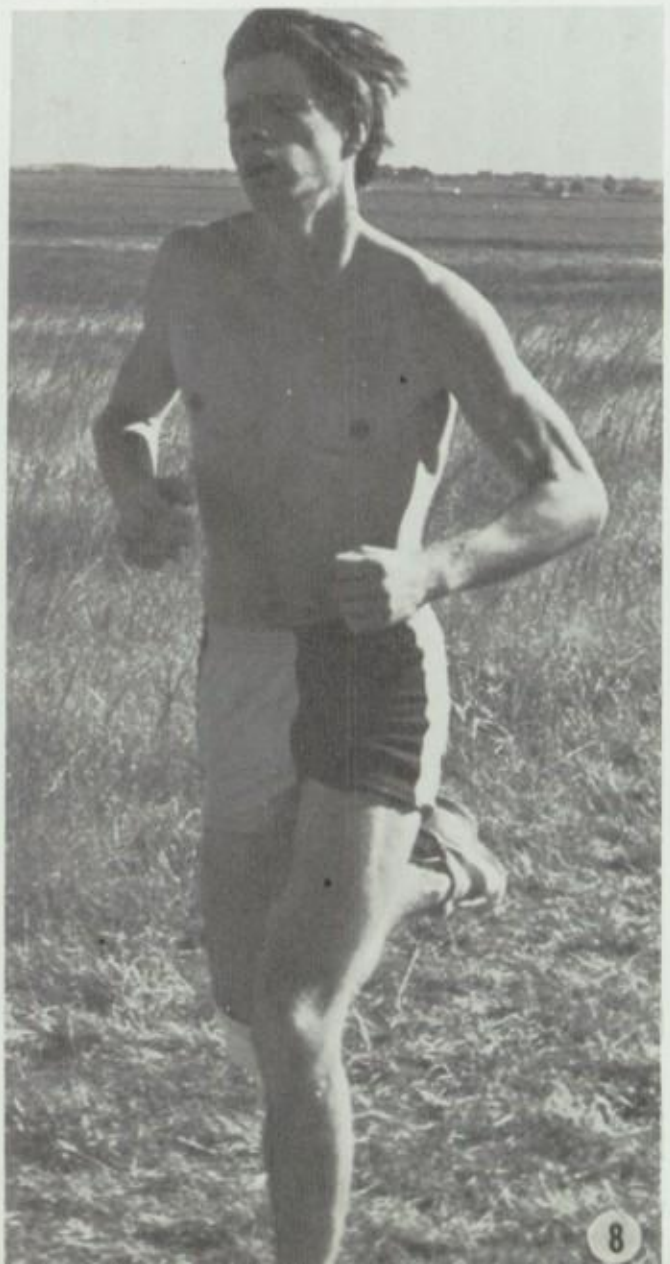

Although the men and women had separate teams and competition, they did practice together. Senior Kelly Jarvis commented that she liked to practice with the guys, but she didn't think they were so pleased about it.

Practice for the men included four miles in the morning and seven in the evening. The women usually didn't run in the morning and ran three to four miles in the evening.

Capturing third in the Centennial League tournament Friday, October 14, was the high point for the men's team. "I felt they ran to their potential," said Coach Pat Sands. Best performances for the women were taking first at their first two meets at the Hayden Invitational and the Wichita Heights Invitational.

Although the men's team lost nine seniors for next year, Coach Sands indicated he was not worried about next year's team.

Golfers Win Fourth Tennis Team Builds

(1) Lisa Bradley, fr., displays good form in her backswing. (2) Using her wood during the Emporia meet on September 23 is Janice Bosiljevac, jr. (3) WOMEN'S VARSITY GOLF: Becky Hartzler, Lisa Bradley, Coach Lawrence Eudaley, Margaret Woodbury, Karen Burns, Janice Bosiljevac, Dawn Delavan, Sheryl Garrett. (5) Hustling to return a ball at the October 6 meet in October is Sophomore Pat Hart. (5) Displaying the second place trophy won at regionals on October 19 are juniors Karen Burns, Margaret Woodbury and Becky Hartzler. (6) WOMEN'S VARSITY TENNIS; FIRST ROW: Leslie Milton, Pat Hart, Lendi Grimsley, Jamie Roberts, Pam Longbine, Mary Hahn, Brenda Klein, Coach Jim Keller. BACK ROW: Janet Perkins, Sherry Allen, Denise Plumlee, Keri Nail, Brenda Rice, Michelle Anderson, Jill Bedner, Debbie Bodkin.

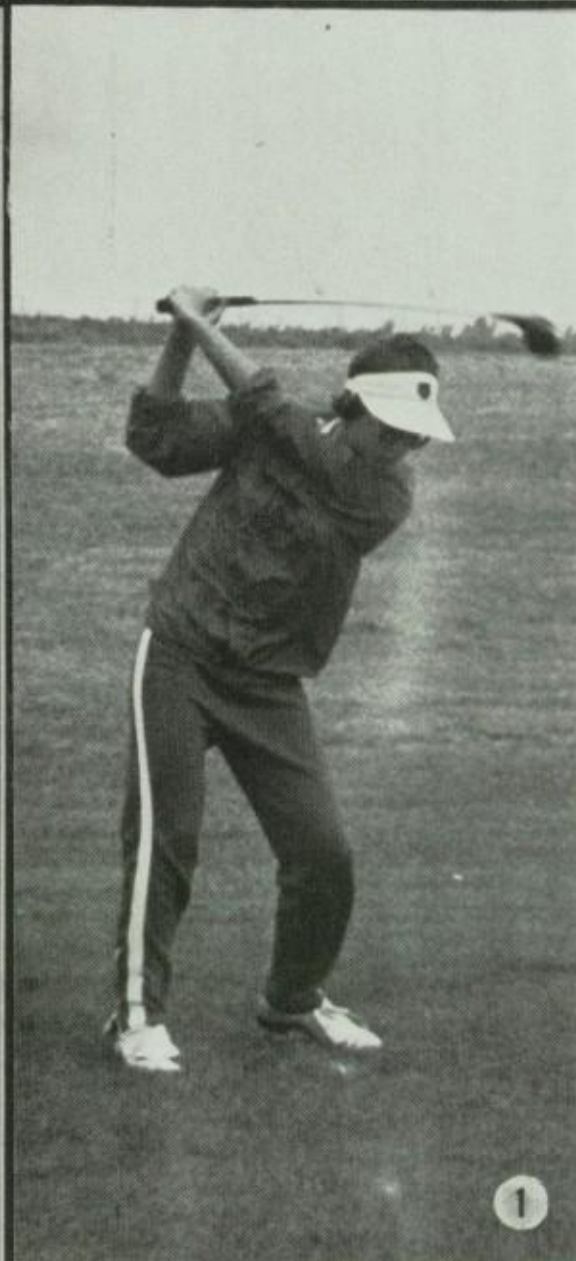

Placing fourth in state topped off a successful season for the Women's Golf Team. This was the second consecutive year the team went to state, which was held this year in Emporia. Taking second in regionals at Wichita with a 387 entitled the team to go.

"Our two most successful meets were state and regionals, due to the hard work that went in previous to the tournaments," commented Coach Eudaley. The team shot their best rounds at state with a score of 361 the first day and a 357 the second day.

A new system of taking the best four scores out of six was put into effect at regionals and state.

"This was the best season ever. Each girl improved as the year progressed, culminating in a record two rounds at state meet," said Coach Eudaley. "Lisa Bradley established herself as one of the top five golfers in the state. Prospects for next year are good as we lose only Dawn Delavan who lettered four years in golf," he concluded.

The team accumulated a total of 54 medals and 3 trophies. Trophies were captured at Fredonia, regionals and state.

Despite inexperience, the Women's Tennis team progressed during the season. Next year's outlook is good, as this has been a building year and every member will return.

At Manhattan on September 15, the tennis team took second.

They won over Seaman on September 23, in a competition which was held here.

"The team has a lot of potential. I think that in time and with more coaching we will have a great team in the coming years," stated Jamie Roberts.

Outstanding players were Leslie Milton and Pat Hart. Pat Hart took second in number two singles at Newton.

Coach Keller commented that "if the team would practice during the summer they would be much improved."

Women who lettered were juniors Lendi Grimsley, Mary Hahn and Leslie Milton; sophomore Pat Hart; and freshmen Sherry Allen, Pam Longbine and Jamie Roberts.

Size was a major weakness for both Varsity and Junior Varsity Men's Basketball, according to their new coaches, Varsity Coach Bill Linhart and Assistant Varsity and Head Junior Varsity Coach Bob Spinner.

"I never had a bunch of kids that worked any harder," said Coach Linhart. "They were a little short on talent, but not on enthusiasm."

The Spartans ended their season with a 10-10 record. According to Coach Linhart, there were many disadvantages they had to work around. A few were lack of size, poor free throw shooting and lack of depth. Even though they did have many disadvantages, according to Linhart they had a great attitude toward hard work.

Their most successful win took place against Highland Park; it was a win they wanted and needed. "They were an enjoyable bunch of kids to coach," Linhart explained. "They played with great effort and almost always had a positive attitude toward work. The program has made progress and this is a tribute to our kids and the effort they put forth," he concluded.

Junior Varsity finished the season with seven wins and nine losses. Although they did not succeed in having a winning season, they showed promise for the future. Their most successful win occurred during the Highland Park game, which they won with the score of 42-41 with no time left on the clock.

According to Coach Spinner, Emporia's lack of height was a disadvantage all season, but they made up for that with their quickness. Another disadvantage was the fact that they had five sophomores on the team.

"I enjoyed working with them very much," said Coach Spinner. "We have some individuals that have the potential to become very fine basketball players. The Junior Varsity, combined with returnees from last year's Varsity, have the ability to be a successful ball club."

Challenges Faced Because of Injuries

Both Sophomore and Freshmen Basketball teams experienced injuries and hard times during their seasons.

Although the Sophomore Basketball Team finished their season with a losing record of 1-12, according to Coach Casey Quinlan they looked ahead to the future with anticipation. "Our most damaging disadvantage was the fact that most of the valuable guys played on the Varsity and Junior Varsity teams," said Coach Quinlan. Because of this, the Sophomore Team was very inexperienced. Another disadvantage occurred when Danny Hall and Dan Bolz both suffered from shoulder separations.

"It's not if you win or lose on the scoreboard; it's if you win or lose in your heart," said Coach Quinlan. "This all reflects on an athlete's attitude. With all factors taken into consideration, attitude has got to be the key to real winners."

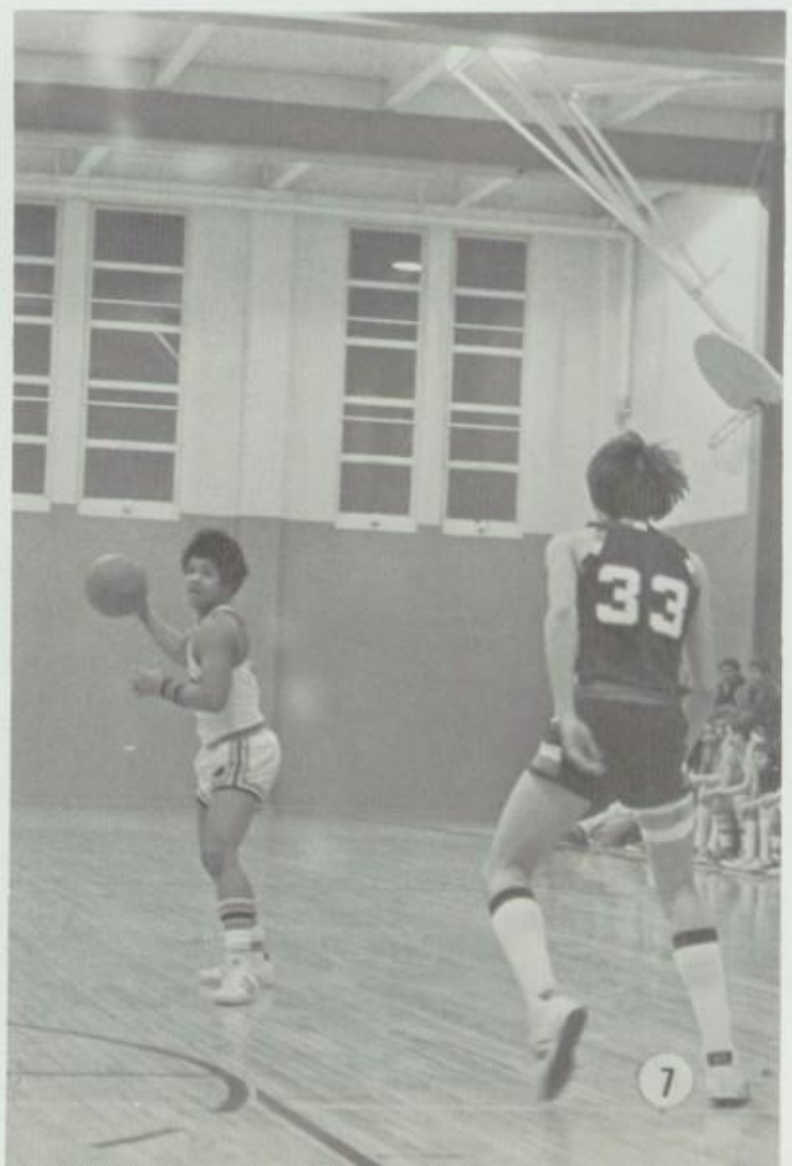

"I enjoyed working with these young men. I see brighter days ahead for each and every one," concluded Coach Quinlan.

Freshmen achieved a record of 7-7 for their first season at the high school. They started off the season slowly when they lost their first home game against Ottawa. Their most successful win was against Junction City, who had beaten them twice before.

"There were many disadvantages we had to cope with, such as lack of height and having to compete against larger schools," said Coach Bob Clements. Another disadvantage occurred when Matt Hurt, a starter, broke his foot. Despite the disadvantages, the team members also had a strong advantage in their shooting ability. One of their most outstanding players was James Stone, who, according to Coach Clements, was a tremendous ball handler and an excellent shot.

"There was a lot of talent there," said Clements. "It just needed to be developed."

Women's Varsity Masters Sub-State

(1) Senior Liz Potter proudly displays the third place trophy captured at the Glaciers Edge Tournament on January 28. (2) Attempting a jumpshot during the Leavenworth game on January 20 is Junior Joi Ralston. (3) Guarding their Seaman opponents on February 10 are Senior April Nelson and Senior Liz Torrey. (4) Donna Pierce, sr., closely guards her opponent on January 20. (5) WOMEN'S VARSITY BASKETBALL; FRONT ROW: Coach Lloyd Steele, Liz Torrey, Marty Foster, April Nelson, Cheryl Stafford, Donna Pierce, Liz Potter, Val Creswell. SECOND ROW: Jean Hamman, Joi Ralston, Sandy Dennison, Becky Torrey, DeAnna Koch, Lois Barb, Raja Lewis, Lin Goza. (6) The Spartans alertly scramble for a rebound during the Leavenworth game. (7) Attempting a basket while being closely guarded on January 20 is Senior Marty Foster.

Conquering Sub-State enabled the Women's Varsity Basketball Team to travel to State. In the first round of Sub-State, held at Emporia, the Spartans trounced Ottawa 93-37. This was the most points ever scored by the Spartans in one game. Scoring honors went to April Nelson for 21 points and Raja Lewis contributed 19 points. On March 4, E-High battled Wichita Heights in the championship round of Sub-State for a place in the State tournament. The Spartans won with a score of 58-43 by taking advantage of their defense and rebounding. "We played good ball at Sub-State. It was the best we had played all year," said Coach Lloyd Steele.

Traveling to Junction City on March 9, the team lost a close game to Salina South, 51-50. E-High trailed the first three quarters until the final period, when the Spartans outscored South 19 to 11. "We were happy to get to State, although we wanted to go farther. The team was under a lot of pressure," said Steele.

Emporia's five regular starters were Marty Foster, April Nelson, Donna Pierce, Liz Potter and Joi Ralston. The main substitutes were Freshman Sandy Dennison and Senior Liz Torrey. Senior April Nelson averaged 20 points per game most of the season and Senior Liz Potter averaged nine rebounds per game.

The Spartans beat the Leavenworth Pioneers 55-46 on January 20. Liz Potter repeatedly stole the ball from the Pioneers and scooped in rebounds. In the second half, she grabbed the ball away six times and converted two steals into baskets. April Nelson scored 30 points, with 13 of them in the fourth quarter. She hit 10 of 13 attempts at the free throw line for 77 percent.

Slipping by Highland Park on February 3 allowed the team to improve their league record. Capitalizing on the Scots' mistakes enabled the Spartans to connect 8 of the 16 free throw attempts and tie the score at 24 going into halftime. However, at the end of the game the score was still tied at 43 points. In overtime, Liz Potter sank a 15-foot jump and April Nelson made two points at the free throw line.

(6) Looking down court on December 2 for an open teammate to pass to is Sophomore Sharon Collinge. (7) Trying to block a pass from her Lawrence opponent on December 2 is Sophomore Jean Hamman.

Posting the best record of any B team in the league, the Junior Varsity Team compiled a 14 win, 2 loss season.

Getting off to a good start, the Junior Varsity Team won the first game of the year against Lawrence with a score of 32-25. They were the only team to beat them during the season.

Sophomore Jean Hamman led the team in scoring and defensive steals during the year. Leading in rebounding was Junior DeAnna Koch.

The team lost only two games, one to Hayden on December 13 and the other to McPherson on February 13.

"The thing that disappointed us the most about our two losses was we didn't please ourselves with how we played; however, each time you lose you should learn, so our losses turned into learning situations for us," commented Coach David Hodges.

One of the responsibilities of the B team program is to help people progress in their playing ability. "The playing potential of this group of girls is very high if they want to put out the effort," stated Coach Hodges.

Defeating Patton with a score of 51-33 enabled the Freshman Women's Basketball Team to take first place in the Northern Hills Tournament. Lisa Bradley was named the most valuable player in the tournament and, along with Dana Ginavan and Jo Potter, was voted to the all-tourney team.

"I look for almost all of these girls to become the heart of Emporia Women's Basketball. Some will become varsity players as soon as next year. They have improved and should contribute a lot to the overall girls' program at Emporia," commented Coach Lloyd Steele.

Averaging 12.4 points per game was Jo Potter. Lisa Bradley averaged 12 points per game.

E-High closed out their season with a 52-30 win at Junction City. The Spartans were down 9-6 after the first quarter but led 20-17 at the half and 38-21 after the third quarter. Marlina Lopez scored 17 points and Heather Houchin added 14 more.

The freshmen ended their season with a record of 12 wins and 3 losses.

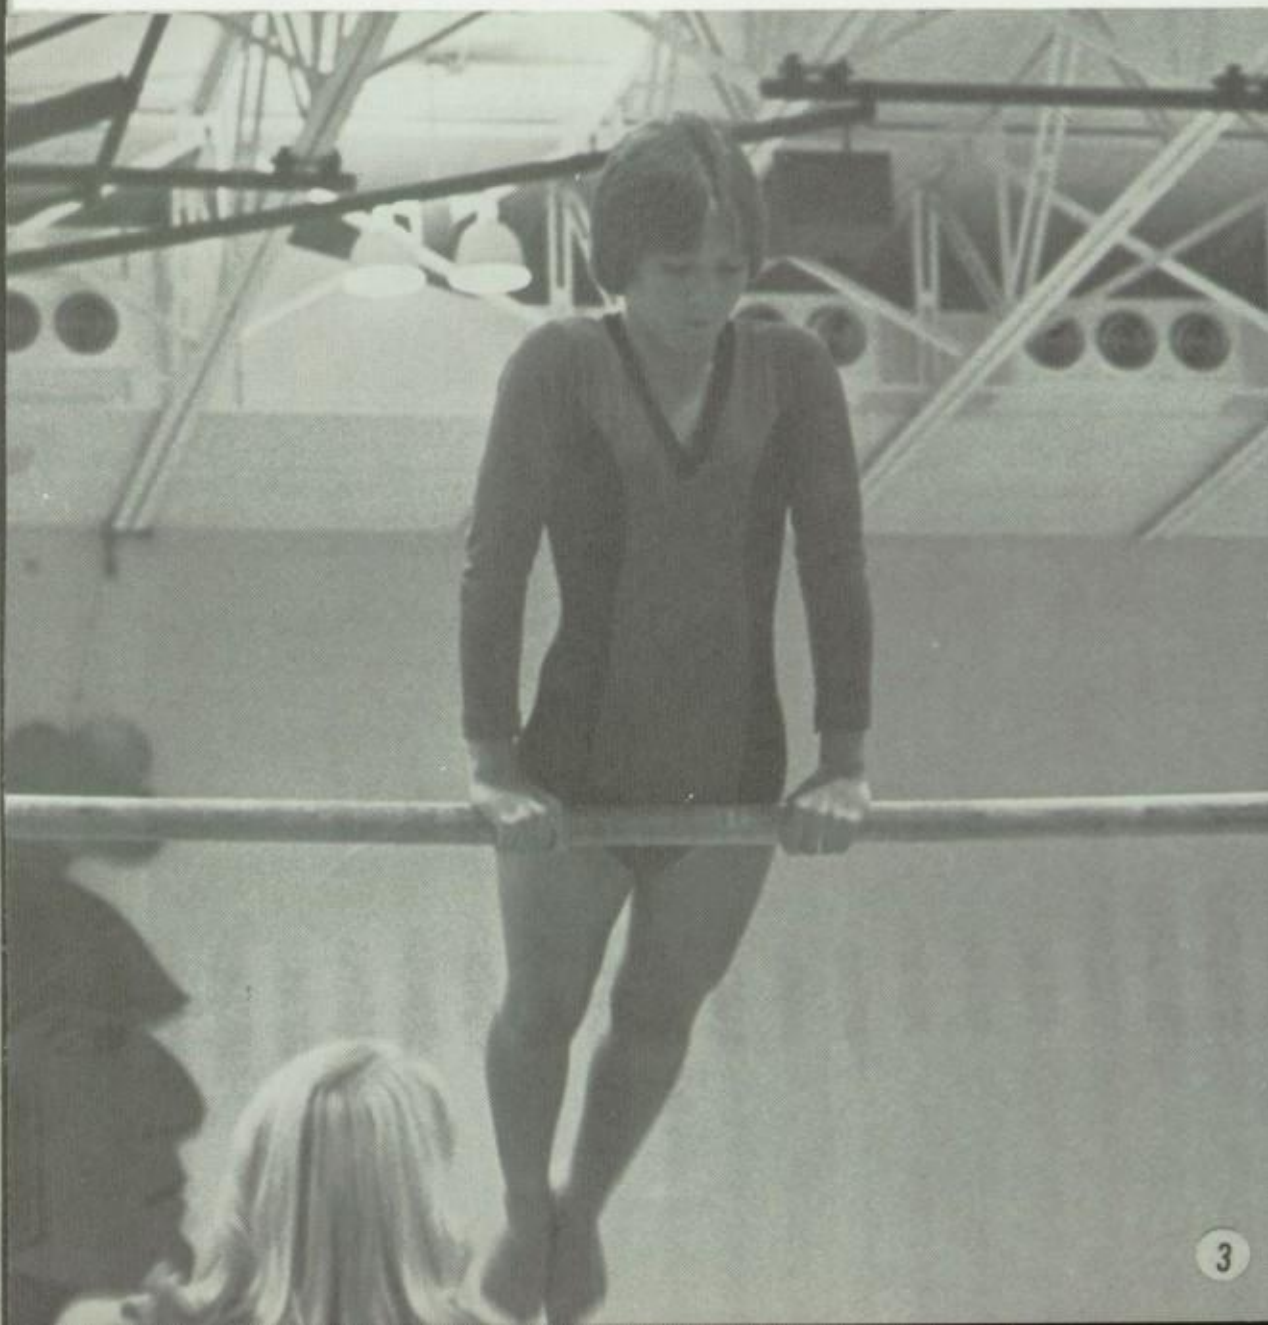

Gymnasts Capture Fourth at Regionals

Dawn Delavan and Jill Johnston traveled to state after the Women's Gymnastic team took third at Centennial League and fourth at regionals.

Coach Fox stated that Centennial League was the most disappointing loss. They had beaten every team in the league at least twice and some four and five times. Jill Johnston was not able to compete in league because of a pulled ligament in her foot.

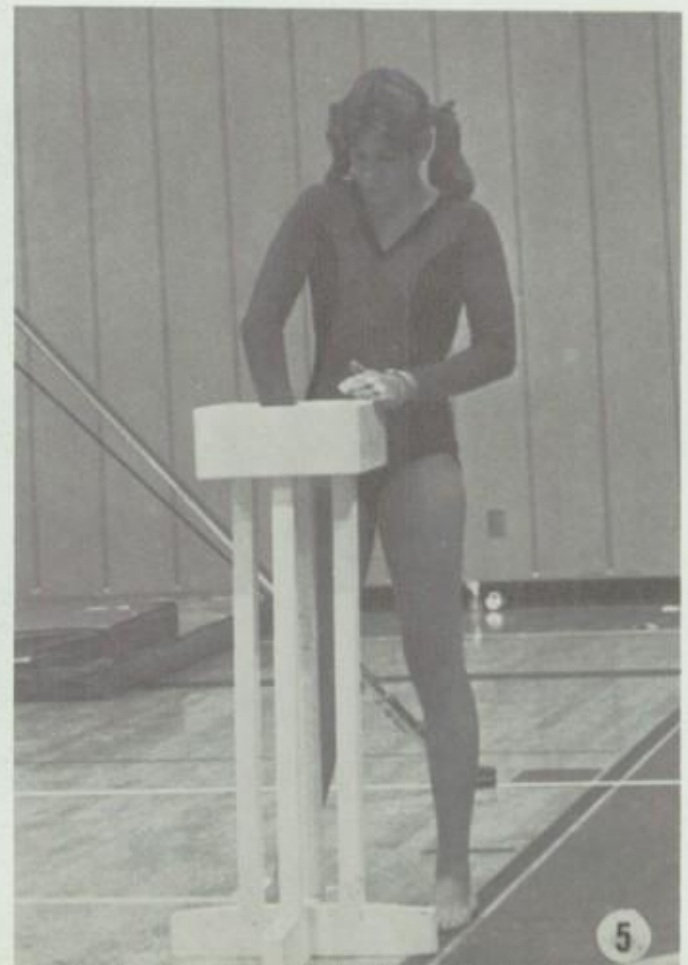

Trophies were captured for second place at Highland Park on September 22, Seaman Invitational on October 26 and Emporia Invitational on November 1.

"The girls' gymnastic team did a good job this year," commented Coach Fox. "We were hurt toward the end of the year with Johnston's injury, but the girls who had to fill in did their part. The team seemed to work more as a whole this year and although we lost two key all arounds, we have a fine group of underclassmen coming up," she concluded.

According to Coach Fox, the most successful win was the Wichita South meet. Even though they took fifth, the team was less than three points from second. The team took first on the beam.

In most of the meets, seniors Dawn Delavan and Jill Johnston placed in the top three all around positions.

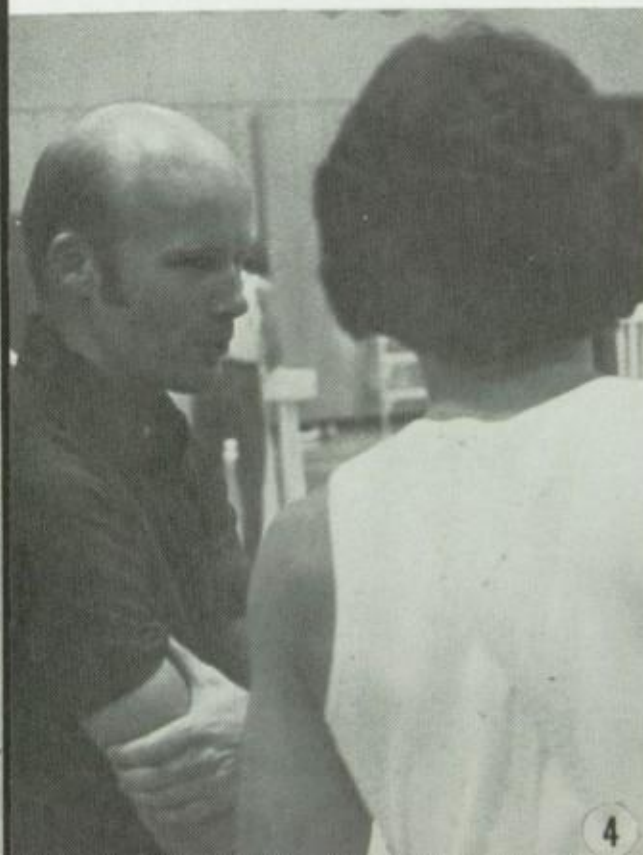

Young Gymnasts' Prospects Good

Two gymnasts capped their team's season by placing in state competition at Salina South November 19. Senior John Dase captured second in vaulting while Junior Van Walker came home with ninth place in vaulting.

A small, young team became even smaller after Senior Ken Peach moved to Colorado. Ken had been in the program for four years and had served as co-captain before moving. "The team lost an excellent leader for the young gymnasts," explained Coach Bob Wilburn.

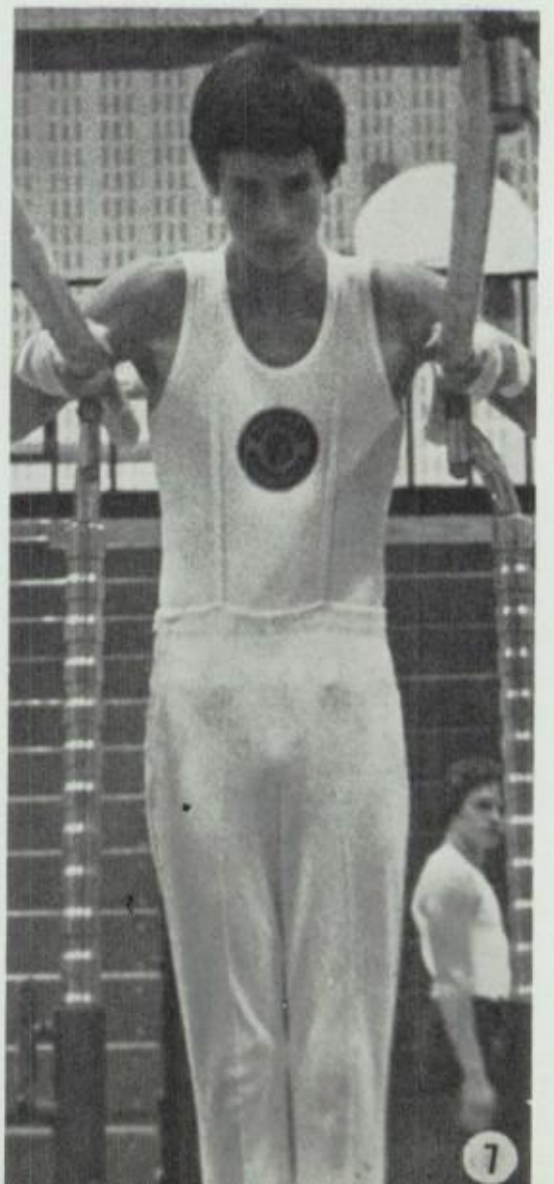

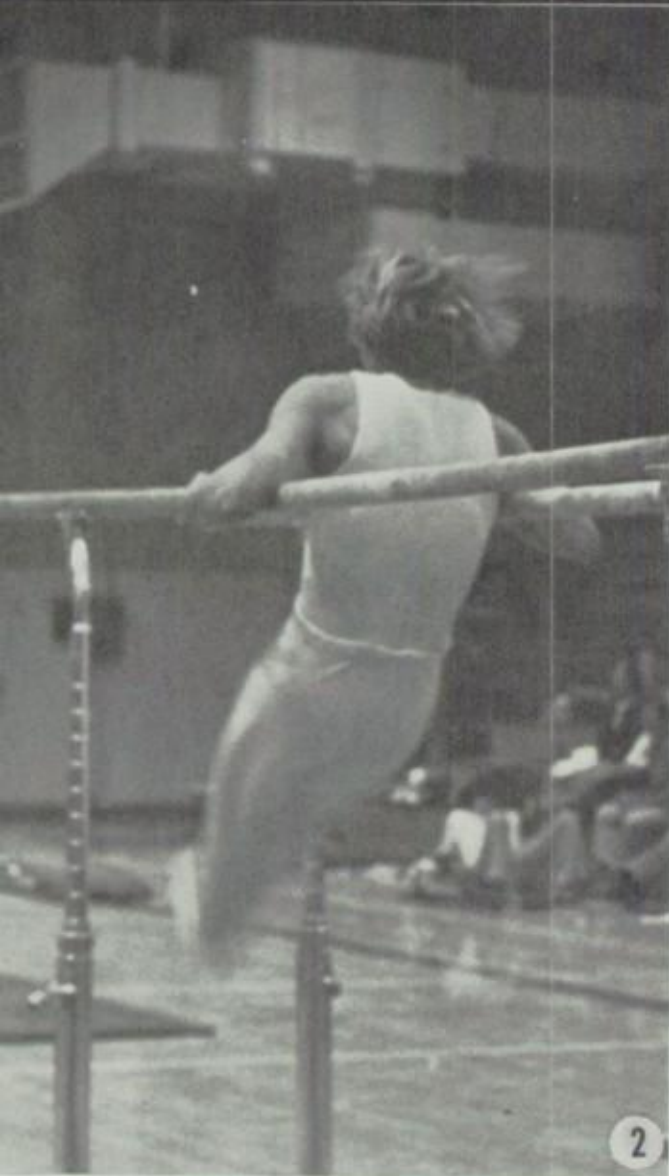

According to Coach Wilburn, the team lacked depth. "Not having individuals to fill the bottom positions hurts the overall team performance," he said. "Usually these positions are filled with younger people and as they improve they make the other performers improve to hold on to their positions."

Competition results at the Atchison Invitational September 29 were a disappointment for team members. The team lost to two teams they had previously beaten; however, Coach Wilburn commented that the men worked harder after the defeat. Good overall effort at the Highland Park Invitational October 12 paid off as the team defeated Topeka West after losing to them at the Atchison Invitational.

"We have an improving team," said Coach Wilburn. "We have one senior, so we are lacking experience, but the outlook is really good. We have people that want to win," he concluded.

Young Swimmers Show Enthusiasm

(7) Ann Bloxom, jr., takes a breath as she moves across the pool practicing the butterfly.

Young, enthusiastic Men's and Women's Swim Team members spent many hours at early morning practices.

Placing second at the 4A Invitational highlighted the men's season. Sophomore Doug Blevins was the top contributor, taking two firsts and participating in the first place relay medley.

Doug Blevins, Marc Campbell, Mike Greenlief, Roger Brickell and Ray Wright qualified for the State Meet in Manhattan. Doug placed fifth in the 100 yard backstroke and ninth in the 100 yard freestyle. The team finished 16th in a field of 26.

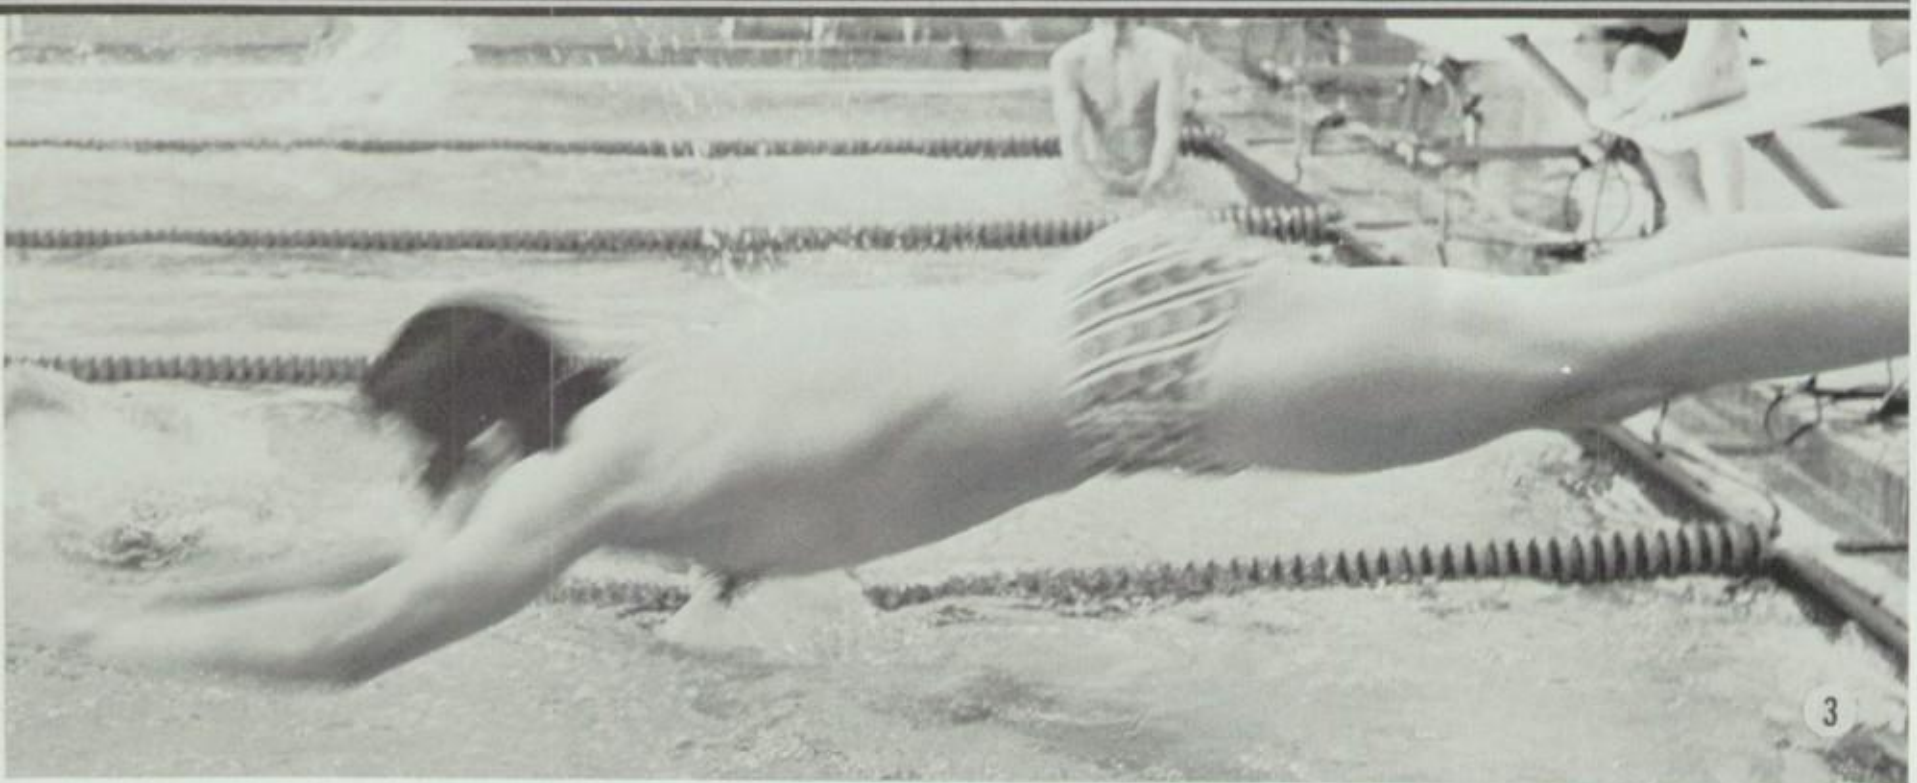

"We worked really hard before the 4A Invitational and did a good job. After that we slacked off and didn't do as well as we would have liked at State," said Roger Brickell.

"This was a building year and most of the squad will be returning next year," commented Coach Terry Westbrook. The team will lose only five seniors from their 25-man squad. Four of the five state qualifiers will be returning.

Led by State Champions Penni Wright and Nan Hanna, distance freestyler Sharon Collinge and Tracy Nelson, the Women's Swim Team had hopes of an excellent season. They hoped to achieve another 4A Invitational Title and wanted to improve on their fourth place finish at State. According to Coach Westbrook, "With almost everybody back, we have only two areas where we need help. If we can fill these vacancies, we'll be very competitive."

"We hope to have a 12-0 record again this year, but we'll be swimming against the top two 5A schools," commented Debbie Carder.

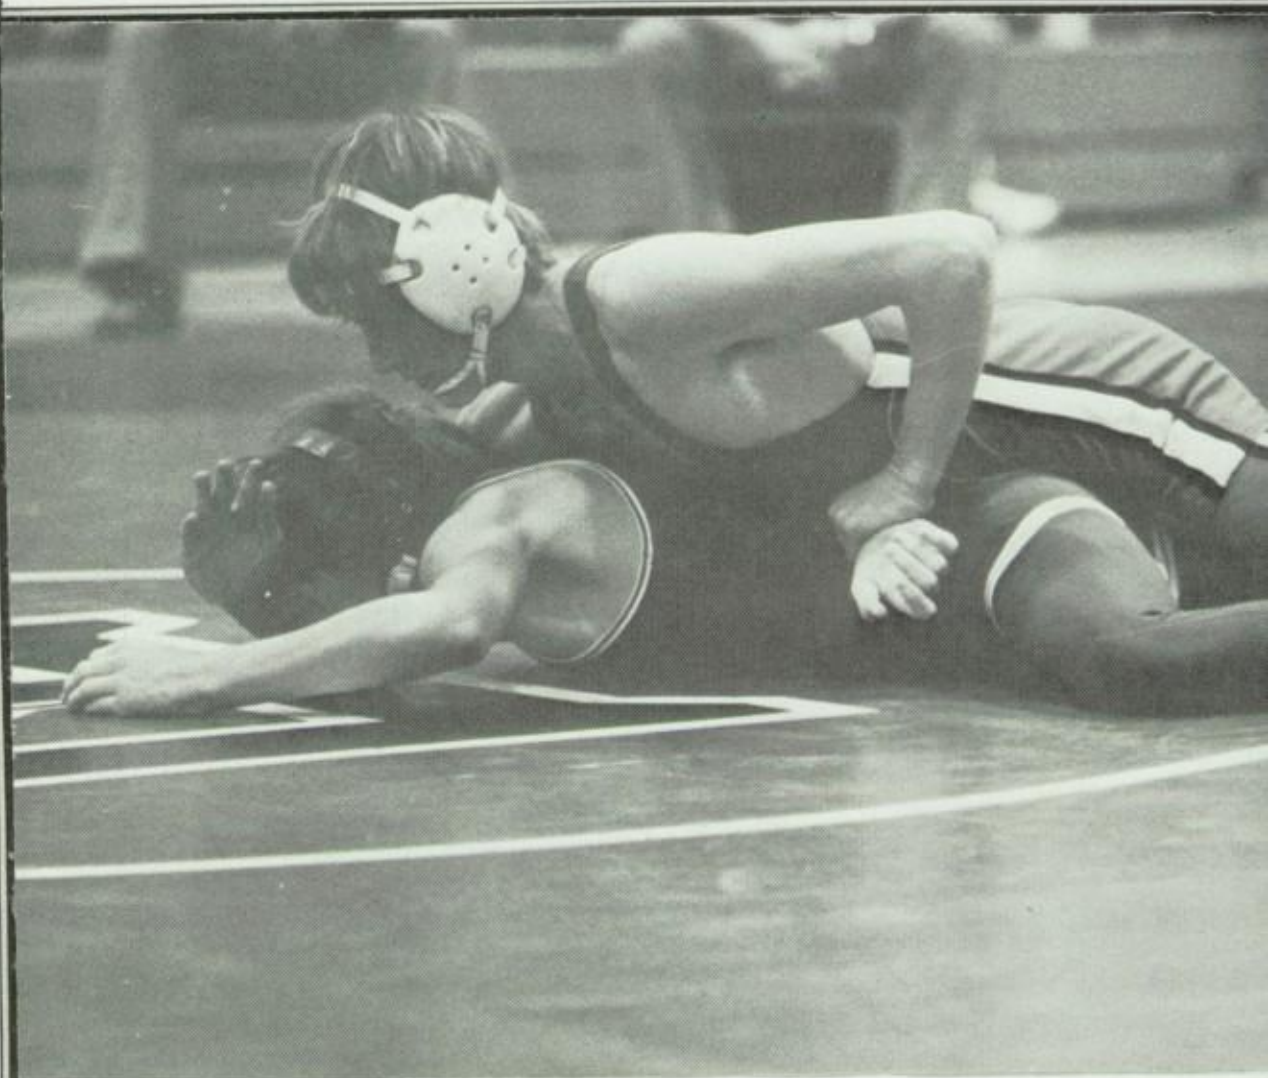

Wrestlers Master Centennial League

Conquering the Centennial League for the third consecutive year capped off a successful season for the wrestling squad. The Spartans seized the title with a score of 146 while the second place team had 132½. Mike Blazer, Mike Buckbee, Jerry Evans and Tony Ferrel claimed individual championships while two more Spartans captured second.

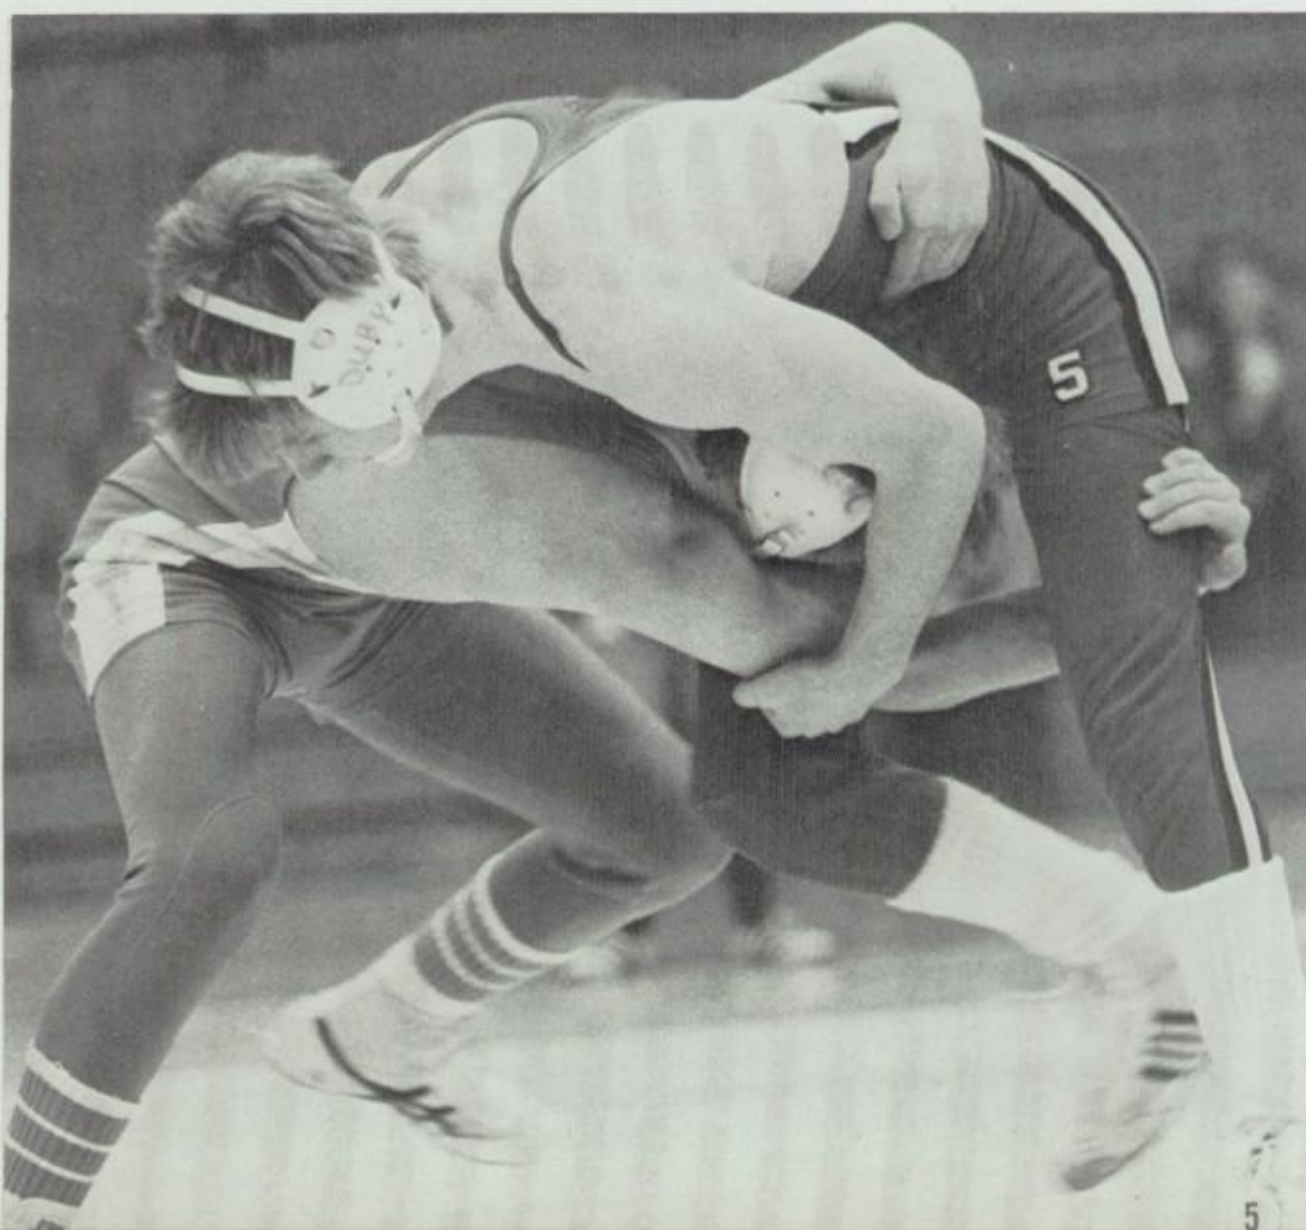

The wrestlers ventured to Hayden on December 14 and won the meet in the last four seconds. Mark Kraft scored a two-point near pin in the 138 pound match. Those 2 points gave Kraft a 6-5 victory and allowed Emporia to win the dual 29-25.

Easily winning the dual against Seaman gave the Spartans their 115th straight victory. Junior Jerry Evans had a major decision. Mike Buckbee, senior, pinned a Viking with 45 seconds to go in the second period of the 119 pound division. Combining their efforts, the wrestlers won the dual with a score of 30-17.

E-High's unbeaten wrestling streak came to an end at Leavenworth on January 20 with a score of 26-16. The Spartans had won 115 consecutive duals over the past 15 years. It was believed to have been the longest winning streak by an active high school. Coach Pat Sands commented, "The team gained a lot of experience. This was my first loss as either an A or B team wrestling coach." The matmen ended the season with a dual meet record of 9 wins and 1 loss.

Matmen Compile Winning Records

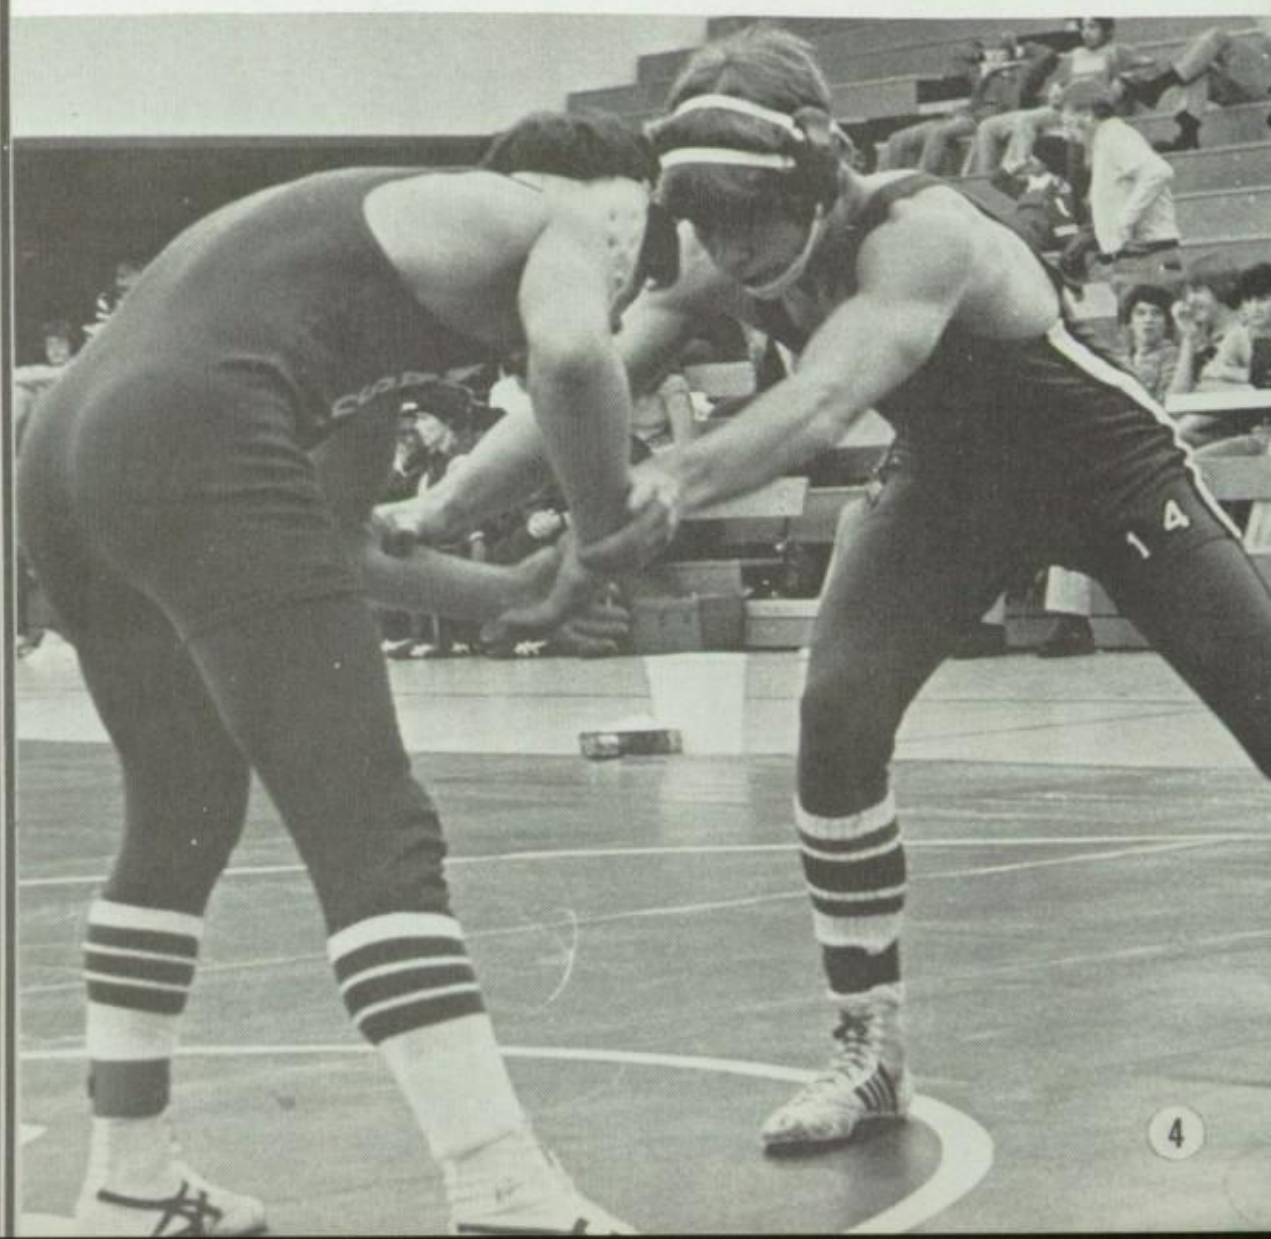

(1) Trying to pin his Seaman opponent by using the cradle hold is Senior Mike Blazer. (2) Attempting to gain control of Randy Lobough, his opponent from Junction City, is Senior Paul Dorathy. (3) Senior Mark Kraft concentrates on his next strategy before his first period begins on February 11. (4) Preparing for a take-down at Junction City on February 11 is Sophomore Robert Birk. (5) The referee raises Jerry Evans' hand, signifying a victory against Vince Martinez of Newton on February 11. (6) Success, disappointment and frustration all prevail while members of the Varsity Wrestling Squad watch a teammate perform at regionals.

Taking fourth in Regionals with 102 points and sending seven men to state topped off a successful season for the Wrestling squad.

Mike Buckbee claimed an individual regional championship at Junction City on February 11. He edged the Bluejays' Undray Rudolph of Junction City 6-4 in the 119-pound finals to remain undefeated.

Capturing second at Junction City were Paul Dorathy, Jerry Evans and Gene Noce. Paul Dorathy was defeated 7-2 by Don Krahn of Seaman. Jerry Evans dropped a 4-3 decision and Gene Noce was shaded 2-1. Tony Ferrel and Mike Blazer wrestled back to take thirds and Mark Kraft took fourth.

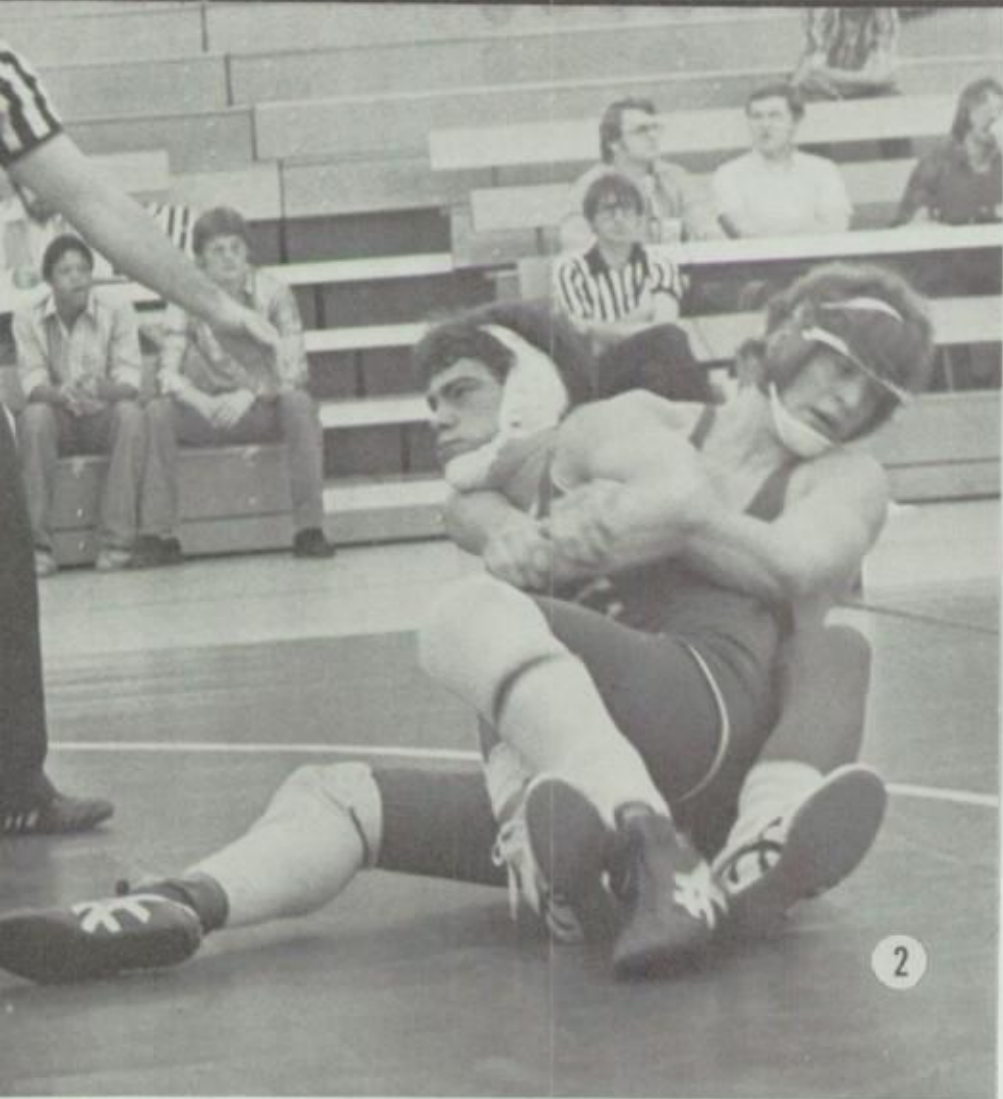

Seven Spartans ventured to Newton to participate in the State 4A Wrestling Tournament. Conquering second at state was Paul Dorathy. He lost a chance for state championship when he bowed 8-2 to Don Krahn of Seaman. All of Dorathy's losses came from Krahn. Dorathy had a 20-4-1 record for the season. He went from the JV squad last year to taking second in the state in the 185-pound division. "I was surprised at making state. It got me down when I kept losing to Krahn, especially after the second and third time. Krahn was a lot bigger. My mental attitude kept me going," commented Dorathy.

Placing fourth at 119 pounds was Senior Mike Buckbee. Buckbee had placed in three consecutive state tournaments. He was third in the 105-pound division in 1976 and third in the 119-pound division in 1977. Buckbee ended the season with a record of 21 wins and 2 losses.

Three Spartans were eliminated in the wrestle backs and all lost by one point. Junior Jerry Evans was defeated 6-5, Tony Ferrel lost 1-0 and Gene Noce dropped a 6-5 decision. E-High had a total of 40½ points, which gave them tenth place in the tournament.

Bringing home a record of 8 wins, 1 tie and 1 loss in dual matches, the Junior Varsity Wrestling squad topped their season by taking first place at the Topeka West Invitational. They won that invitational by 20 points.

In a disappointing 30-28 loss to Leavenworth, the squad marked their first loss in 185 dual matches.

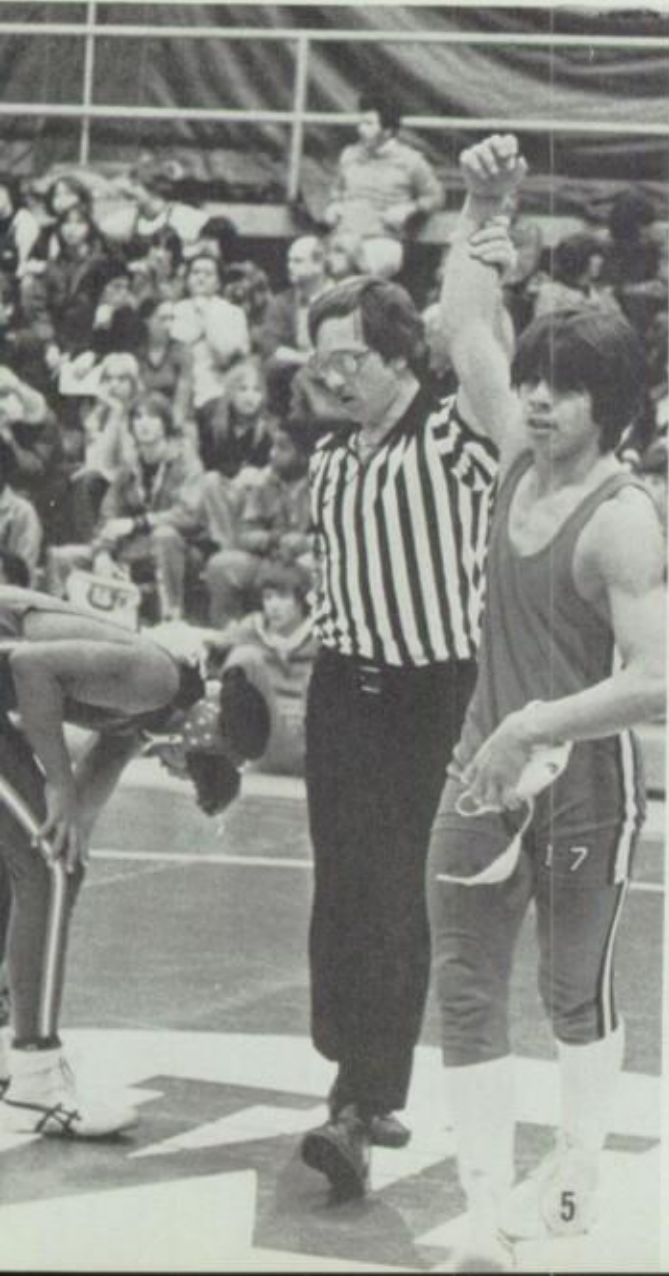

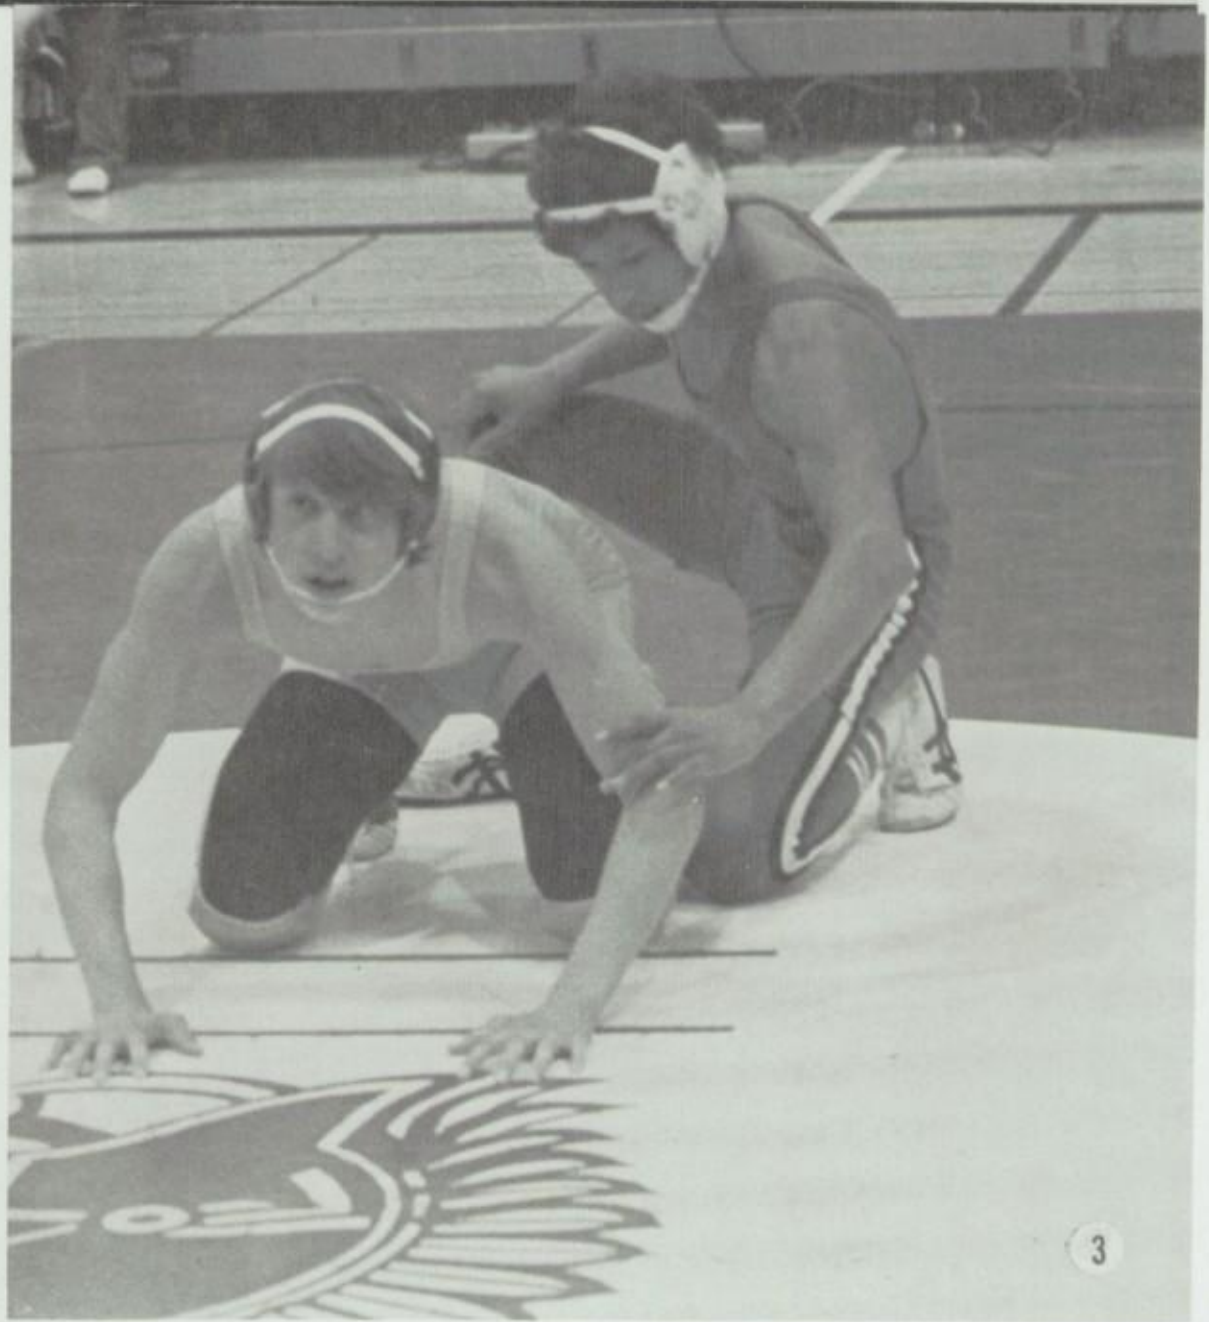

Coach Jay Ternes felt his team's performance was excellent as a team as well as individually. "I really enjoyed working with the wrestling program as well as with the kids associated with it," said Coach Ternes. The fact that the Junior Varsity was made up mostly of sophomores made their record even more impressive.

Freshman wrestlers took third place in the Hayden Invitational and third in the Manhattan Invitational. They ended their season with 2 wins and 3 losses.

Coach Carl Stueve, also a former Emporia High wrestler, commented that even though the team lacked experience they didn't lack desire and pride. According to Coach Stueve, the team improved as the season progressed and he indicated that there were many freshman wrestlers that were going to make outstanding varsity wrestlers.

"I wish more freshman students would take advantage of the opportunities that the sport offers and that greater participation can take place in the future," said Coach Stueve.

Cheerleaders Win Awards in Summer

(1) Jill Eudaley, sr., and Sarah Sunter, soph., raise the spirit of the crowd at a Leavenworth game held there on December 9. (2) Stephanie Goble, soph., and Jamie Logan, soph., move through the motions of the school song at a pep rally on December 21. (3) VARSITY CHEERLEADERS; FRONT ROW: Ursula Wilson, Jill Johnston, Sarah Sunter, Lennie Armstrong. SECOND ROW: Mari Armitage, Dawn Delevan, Jill Eudaley, Mary Spaulding. THIRD ROW: Tammy Stauffer, Becky Davis, Babette Balkenhol. FOURTH ROW: Julie Delevan. (4) JUNIOR VARSITY CHEERLEADERS; FRONT ROW: Kim Law. SECOND ROW: Jamie Logan, Stephanie Goble, Brenda Seaton. (5) Jill Johnston, sr., moves through the routine at an Ottawa basketball game held here on December 6. (6) Junior Varsity squad performs at half-time at the old senior high on December 1 for a basketball game with Seaman.

Capturing second in the finals at the International Cheerleading Foundation Camp in Manhattan, the Varsity Cheerleaders also brought the spirit stick home again.

The Junior Varsity Cheerleaders won some daily ribbons while at the camp.

According to Sponsor Pat Smiley, the girls expected to learn more by attending a different camp than in the previous two years.

In order to earn money for the camp, the girls planned bake sales, garage sales, car washes, craft sales, ribbon sales and they ushered for Emporia State University's graduation. "We depend a lot on money-making projects for camp money, more so than uniforms," explained Mrs. Smiley. Cheerleader budget money went for new uniforms.

Cutting the number of pep assemblies was a big change for the cheerleaders." It was disappointing not to have one every week," said Senior Cheerleader Jill Eudaley. The cheerleaders were allowed four pep assemblies for football and eight for basketball and wrestling. They tried to arrange the rallies for crucial games of the season.

Restrictions on the number of pep rallies were a result of administrative decisions, due to teacher complaints on loss of class time.

Revising their constitution was a major project. The constitution is a guide of rules, regulations and expectations of the girls.

Two groups of six cheerleaders each are formed right after spring cheerleader elections. The groups are divided considering personalities of the different girls. Each group then chooses a head cheerleader, who is usually a senior.

Groups Perform Various Routines

(1) Drill team members Wanda Finney, Robyn Brown, Amy Dumas and Pamela Haselhuhn present the colors before the Emporia-Seaman game on February 10. (2) DRILL TEAM; FIRST ROW: Lori Williams, Pamela Haselhuhn, Robyn Brown, Wanda Finney, Rita (Diane) Day. SECOND ROW: Amy Dumas, Kathy Clopton, Amy Havenhill, Merri Landwehr, Bonnie Donovan, Dana Ropfogel, Danielle Alvarado. (3) Performing a routine to Boogie Woogie Bugle Boy on 50's Day February 10 are Senior Robyn Brown and Junior Amy Havenhill. (4) Freshman Shana Bollinger cheers for the Emporia-Ottawa game on January 3. (5) FRESHMAN CHEERLEADERS; FRONT ROW: Shana Bollinger. BACK ROW: Kathy Parks, Becky Hawes, Sally Miller.

When the freshman cheerleader results were to be announced, the intercom didn't work and the girls had to be notified individually. Those selected were Shana Bollinger, Becky Hawes, Sally Miller and Kathy Parks.

The girls learned the words to cheers from varsity cheerleaders but made up their own motions so they wouldn't be exactly the same.

To raise money, a bake-craft sale was held on December 18 at the shopping center. Profits from the sale were $71.55.

"At first it was hard to cheer in front of upperclassmen," said Shana Bollinger. "I was afraid I would goof up and have everyone laughing at me. But then I realized that if my class had chosen me to represent them, then they must think I was good enough to do the job."

The group purchased new skirts and made their own hooded tops.

"They were a good group of girls who were generally full of spirit and enthusiasm," commented Sponsor Nadine Dolezal. "Each one was a credit to the freshman class."

Planning a car wash, a bake sale and selling concessions at basketball games enabled the Drill Team to purchase new uniforms.

The group attended a camp for flag teams at Emporia State University last summer. Everyone attended the week-long camp, where they learned basic flag skills and movements.

Traveling with the band, the team participated in the Lyon County Fair Parade, Emporia State University Parade and the Veterans' Day Parade.

Bob Aman, who had previously assisted with drum and bugle corps, worked with the team in writing the flag routines and helped them almost every day during football season.

"Overall we had a rather successful season. Our main problem during football season was lack of time. We had to prepare for two routines (flag and pom-pom) every week and didn't have time to put 'polish' on the shows," commented Sponsor Ann Clark.

Captain was Wanda Finney, Co-captain, Robyn Brown and Lieutenant, Pam Haselhuhn.

Clubs

New sponsors guided both Mexican American Indian Student Organization (M.A.I.S.O.) and Black Student Organization (B.S.O.).

Since the club received a new sponsor, Tom Fowler, this was a "building year" for M.A.I.S.O. "The kids really like to party, talk a lot, and just have fun," commented Mr. Fowler. Although the club was under re-construction, the 20 members planned several activities. M.A.I.S.O. members were part of the many groups which participated in the selling of concessions at the games as a means of making money. A spring party was then planned. Students worked on ideas for a community service donation to the Mexican American community.

MAISO Sells Concessions; Black Students Stage Play

An early fall disco dance was the main concern for B.S.O. At the dance, members also enjoyed playing pool and just being together. The first dance was so successful that another one was planned for early March. A spring carwash was the main money-making project. As new sponsor, Bob Spinner, observed, "The kids really want to show the school and community that minority students also want to contribute—and they are." Approximately 25 members made up B.S.O. Several B.S.O. members took part in the spring production "To Kill a Mockingbird" under the direction of Dramatics Coach Kent Chapman.

Key Club Assists Kiwanis; Black Market Works Sale; SAFE Changes Discipline

Officers of Key Club attended a training session in Topeka during summer vacation. "The officers were able to learn aspects in service projects at the convention which helped in the planning of new projects for our organization and community," commented Sponsor Gene Tibbetts. Key Club members participated in Pancake Day, the main money-making project for the Kiwanis Club. Money was raised by selling pancakes and sausages to community people in the spring.

Seven members from Black Market entered the Scholastic Art Show held in Wichita on February 11-26. Among the members who entered were Lois Barb, Debra Dunhaupt, Marty Foster, Kathy Johnson, Keith Marshall, Jeb Shafer and Mary Weaver. The group then took a bus trip to the show to examine the exhibitions. Black Market group members also participated in a sale at school. At the sale they sold pots, paintings and rocks they had made. Of the money that was made at the sale, 15% went to the club, with the remaining 85% going to the artist. The money the club received from the sale went towards a spring dance and a spring field trip. About 20 members made up Black Market. According to President Lyn Goza, "Black Market gives students an opportunity to further their ability in the field of art, having a chance to display their talent to the public."

Bringing in an outside photographer for senior pictures and changing the seventh hour policy were among the changes brought about by S.A.F.E. S.A.F.E., which stands for Student Administration Faculty Examiners, does ask many questions. "Even though the members are not able to take action about specific problems, they do share the information they gather with people who can take action against these problems, so that we are able to get things done," stated Assistant Principal Jerry Baumgardner. Only 14 or 15 S.A.F.E. members met for lunch at the Holiday Inn each month. The S.A.F.E. organization has been put together so well, according to Jerry Baumgardner, that other schools have asked how it was set up. These schools have copied the ideas and have come up with their own organizations.

Kayettes Win 1000 Points During Regional Conference

Once again, Kayettes brought home the 1000 point award for community service projects at the regional conference held at Omega High in Marysville.

One very important service was the annual fall Kayette Variety Show. Every year, students and faculty show off their talent to the rest of the school. Besides sponsoring the show for fun, the Kayettes were able to raise over $500 to donate to the American Cancer Society. Members also planned a spring disco dance for students entitled "Saturday Night Fever" on April 1.

The holidays brought about special activities for the Kayettes. Before Christmas, holly was sold to bring beauty to the coming holiday season. Members were able to successfully raise $380. Members also enjoyed caroling at Newman's Hospital to brighten the Christmas season for others. "I was really pleased with the interest our members took in our service projects this year such as caroling in the hospital," replied

President Debbie Mills. Although there was not a money-making project planned for Valentine's Day, there was a Heart Sister Week during which secret sisters received small surprises.

Throughout the year, members of Kayettes brightened many school activities. Flowers were placed on teacher's desks to welcome them back on the first day of school. Kayettes also helped with StuCo elections, orientation and building tours. Work was done for community organizations such as the March of Dimes and the Blood Mobile.

Kayettes enjoyed listening to guest speakers throughout the year. Kayettes' State Sponsor Wanda May Vincent was one speaker who was able to help the group in creating new service ideas.

Members Portray Santa; Club Moves Bleachers; Water Polo Helps at Meets

"Are you the Spartan Club secret Santa?" was the frequently asked question before Christmas vacation when the Spartan Club girls sponsored the secret Santa Contest. Along with the secret Santas, the club arranged for girls to dress in Santa outfits and walk in the halls to pass out candy canes.

Early in the year the girls sponsored a jeans dance at the newly opened Recreation Center. Students boogied to the sounds of "Night Song" to help add approximately 300 dollars to the club treasury.

Other money-making projects completed were the selling of buttons, pom poms, and valentine suckers. Money made by the girls was spent to buy the teams treats such as popsicles, tennis shoes for the cross country team and cup cakes.

"Everyone got very involved during the year to help support the teams and raise more school spirit," commented President Deb Carter.

Last spring the P.E. Club was formed to act as a governing body in the physical education area. Sponsor Mike Shane hoped the formation of the club would hold more "weight" with the administration. Major accomplishments of the club included moving the bleachers, and acquiring a dividing curtain to provide each P.E. instructor with a secluded teaching area. Members also worked on improving the behavior of students in the gymnasium. "I'm actually the Godfather and his soldiers," commented Sponsor Mike Shane.

Voluntary 6:30 morning practices during the off-season to condition swimmers and develop skill and knowledge of Water Polo were the main activities of the Water Polo Club. Members were trained to assist in the home swim meets, learned to time, and learned to be turn judges besides helping with other functions of the meets. Although the morning practices were voluntary, rules and regulations for each of the approximate 24 members to abide by were set up by President Gilbert Herrera and Vice-President Mike Greenlief.

Stuco Officers Attend Clinic; Math Club Wins Trophies

"It was a once in a lifetime experience for the girls," commented StuCo Sponsor Arvina Lumley. During the summer, StuCo officers Cheryl Stafford, Mitzi White, and Jill Johnston traveled to Boston for the National Conference. From 7 a.m. to midnight, they listened to guest speakers and attended workshops, discovering new ideas to apply to their own schools.

During February through April members traveled on a number of exchange trips to different schools in the area. These trips were for the members to see how other schools function and to exchange ideas with other StuCo representatives.

Twelve members attended the Regional Workshop at Topeka West. Members answered other representatives' questions about the machines commons and the officers' trip to Boston.

A new program was created to help new students here feel more at home. Each StuCo member was assigned a new student. He showed the new student around, introducing him to teachers, coaches and students. He also answered any questions the new student had.

During the Christmas season StuCo members collected food and clothing for a needy family. They also collected canned goods for the Salvation Army to distribute throughout the community.

Capturing two third place trophies in Algebra II and Trigonometry and a seventh place trophy in Geometry highlighted activities for members of the Math Club. In late fall, the Math Club participated in Math Day at ESU with 55 other schools. Sponsor Gene Tibbetts stated that the club is a newly formed organization "to provide enrichment concepts not available in the classrooms." Their goal was to increase student interest in mathematical ideas. Math Club members raised money for the purchase of a micro computer. Among the money-making projects were mum sales, a newspaper drive and concessions at games. College professors from ESU came to speak at several meetings on such topics as probability, non-Euclidean geometry and others.

Campers Travel to Colorado; Ind. Arts Visits Kansas City

Traveling was a major activity for members of the Conservation, Wildlife and Backpacking Club and Industrial Arts Club.

Twenty members of the Conservation, Wildlife and Backpacking Club traveled to Colorado last summer for the second year. Accompanying the members were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Nelson, Jim, Serena, and Anny Nelson, Fred and Brenda McCabe and Mr. and Mrs. John Harclerode.

During their vacation members experienced camping, hiking, and living off the land. Their trip consisted of a three-day hike in the mountains near Creston, Colorado. According to Sponsor John Harclerode, the hikers also got to experience the transformation from a desert environment, which contained very little visible life, up through a complex zonation of grassland, mountain forests and tundra. The complexity of these ecosystems was studied as well as interrelationships of the plants and animals that live in those areas. Hikers also toured a zoo and museum in Colorado Springs and the Natural History Museum in Denver. During the trip Mr. Harclerode felt that the members learned how to get along with other people and how to work together.

To make money, the members collected old newspapers and rolled them into logs to sell. Using the paper logs made firewood last longer.

Guest speaker Mr. Henry Wilson told the club of his experience as a Wildlife Conservation officer during the club's February meeting.

Traveling to Kansas City, Industrial Arts Club toured the Mid-America Canning Company and the Ford Motor Company.

Emporia hosted the State Leadership Conference in early December. About 35 members from Chapparral, Madison and Emporia attended the conference.

The majority of club members attended and participated in the competition at the Spring State Conference on March 25 at Madison, Kansas.

Contests which the conferences offered to the members were technical writing, safety posters, public speaking, parliamentary procedure, scrapbook, research papers and general chapter competition.

There were 12 members involved in the club including the four officers, Tim Mascareno, president; Juleen Finney, vice-president; Julie Fry, secretary-treasurer; and Steve Hudson, sergeant-at-arms.

More club participation and better student leadership made the year better for the Chess Club and Model United Nations Club.

Chess Club had the best participation in its five years of existence, according to Sponsor Ron Gould. Freshman member Ronald Hill said, "I like the Chess Club because it improves your game." Senior Mike Mills added, "I can go there and relax." The purpose of Chess Club was to meet during Activity Period on Fridays to play chess and to further abilities in the game.

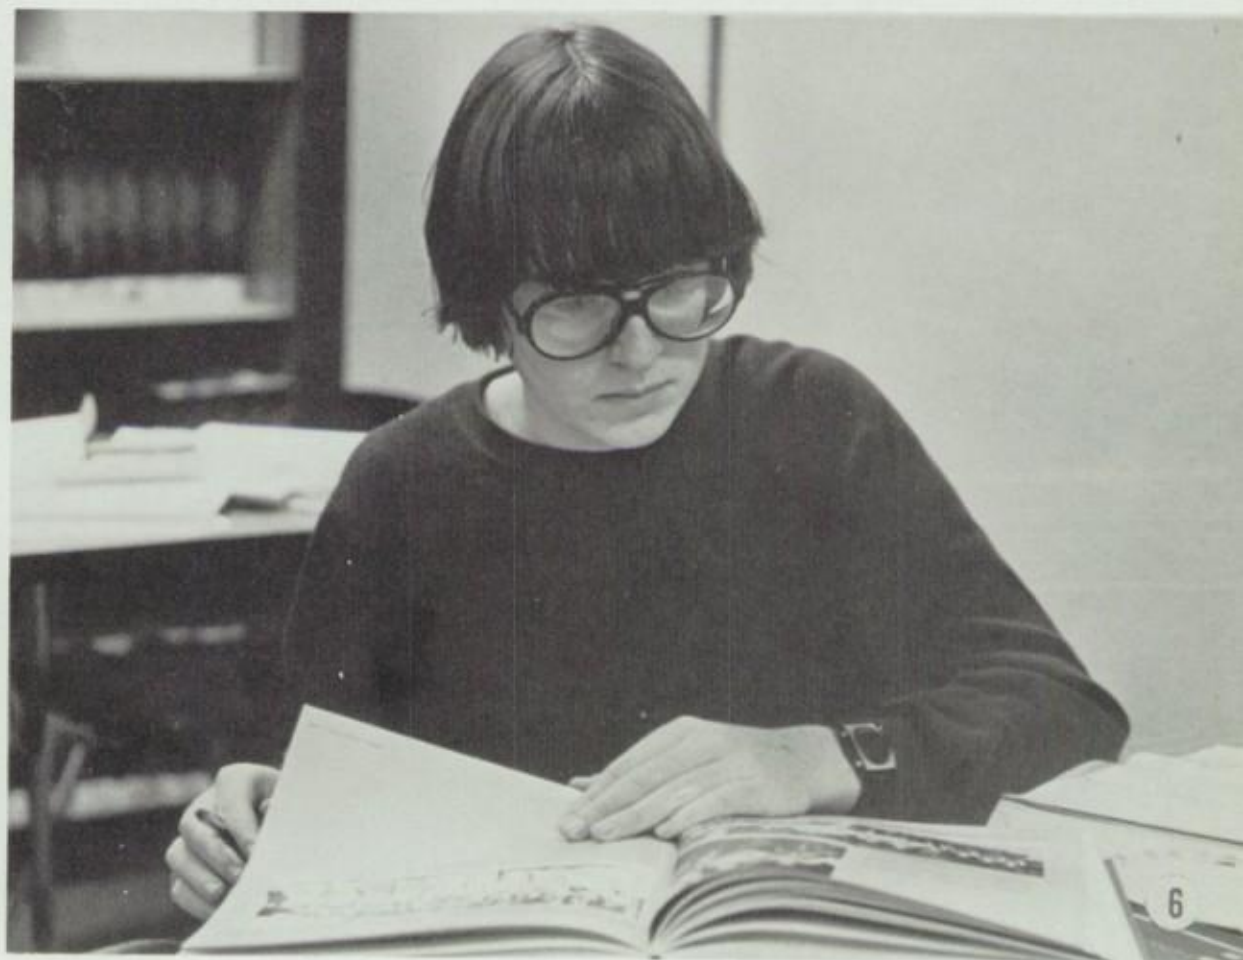

Winning Outstanding Delegates at the Emporia State University Model United Nations (U.N.) Conference in November topped the year for four members of the Model U.N. Club.

Conferences Highlight Year; Experiences further abilities

The four winners were Terri Kidwell, Wendy Woods, Danny Dicks and Steve Woods. The students representing Canada and Libya won Outstanding Delegations at the same conference. Representing Canada were Debbie Dennison, Lori Casey and Wendy Woods. Representing Libya were Amber Finlay, Janice Rother, Kelly Utley and Danny Dicks. "The year was one of their better years," explained Sponsor Lyle Brecheisen, "mainly because of the outstanding senior leadership." At a January conference at Wichita State University, Danny Dicks was awarded the State of Confusion award. Members also attended a Model U.N. Conference at Friends University in Wichita during March.

Debaters Capture Trophies; Forensics Gains Top Honors

Both the Debate and Forensics teams completed successful seasons, bringing home a variety of awards.

Debate's biggest win was on December 2 and 3 at Pittsburg and Great Bend. Members won first and third at Great Bend and second in sweepstakes with a first place and first in sweepstakes at Pittsburg.

Forensics members won the Grand Championship Award at Pittsburg. This award was based on performance in Debate and Forensics tournaments.

Each team member for both teams participated in five tournaments, which is the maximum allowed by the Kansas State High School Activities Association (KSHSAA).

Nineteen different debaters were part of the award winning efforts. Of the nineteen, twelve were underclassmen.

"The freshmen in the program were particularly outstanding as first year participants and with the good experienced juniors and sophomores, we should be strong for the next several years," commented Coach Al Higgins.

"Debate and Forensics has helped me to express myself and to feel at ease in front of people. It has also helped me to be objective in considering an issue," noted Debate and Forensics member Sam Samuelson.

Forty members made up the Debate squad and thirty was the total number of Forensics members.

FBLA Attends Conferences; Contest Winners Announced

Going to the Mountain Plains Conference on October 30 through November 1 at Crown Center in Kansas City was the highlight for 25 members of the Future Business Leaders of America (FBLA) Club. The students attended the conference to further their learning experiences by listening to National FLBA speakers "Tremendous Jones" and Ed Miller.

In an effort to promote free enterprise, FBLA members joined with local members of Phi Beta Lambda to post a sign which read "Future Business Leaders of America: Supporting our heritage of free enterprise" at the southeast corner of 12th Avenue and Commercial. Citizens National Bank and Trust Company made available their leased billboard for the promotion.

Echo Chamber members sponsored a contest for the student body during December. The members judged the entries of short stories and poetry themselves. The class winners were April Finlay, sr., Mike Holscher and Vanda Thomas, jrs., Becky Sayer, soph., and Chris Zorn, fr. The short story winner was Mike Holscher, jr. The class winners were announced February 7. The winning entries were published in the "Echo Chamber" magazine which came out in May.

Bird, Stauffer Share Duties; Staff Travels to Manhattan

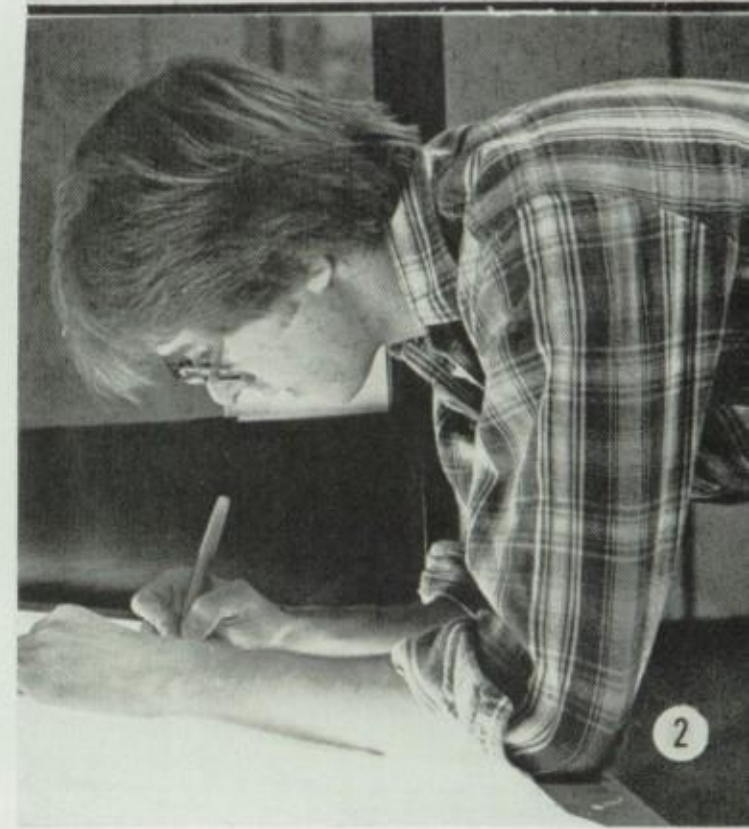

Revisions in staff organization changed the responsibilities of ECHO editors. A newspaper "first" saw Laura Bird and Brad Stauffer share editor duties as co-editors. "This way there wasn't so much pressure on one person," explained Sponsor Eileen Peoples. Both co-editors plus assistant editor Eric Johnson shared editorial duties. Each editor wrote an editorial for every third paper.

In another change, the sports page was designed by both a men's editor and a women's editor.

ECHO co-editor Laura Bird was chosen as editor of "The Kamper Kansan" during a two-week journalism workshop on the Kansas University campus. "The teachers at the camp were journalism professors from KU, so they expected a lot from us," said Laura. "We did a lot of writing and I think this helped me prepare for this year." Laura's expenses were paid by "The Emporia Gazette".

Ten of the eleven staff members entered the Kansas Scholastic Press Association (KSPA) regional contest at Manhattan February 3. Tom Gress captured first place in sports feature writing and Jill Bedner placed third in straight news. "The director of the contest said Tom's entry was one of the best they'd ever judged," said

Mrs. Peoples.

Taking a break from routine beats, the staff traveled to Topeka in December to tour Josten's American Yearbook Company and "The Topeka Capital-Journal".

New equipment added included a light table, wide angle lens and a flash unit. According to Mrs. Peoples, photographers were also glad to receive a hot plate for heating chemicals during the winter. "My room gets so cold we have to heat chemicals whenever we process film," said Mrs. Peoples.

Cartoonists Jerry Troxell and Keith Marshall, although not members of the class, brightened the editorial page with their contributions.

Staff members taped an Emporia Education Today program with Conci Denniston, public relations director for USD 253, February 10. Students explained the process for putting out the bi-weekly student newspaper.

With only five returning staffers, the yearbook class began a building year. The year had hardly begun when Senior Ken Peach moved to Colorado. Then Senior Sports Editor Kim Smith graduated at mid-term, leaving a staff of twelve girls and one boy.

All thirteen staffers entered the Kansas Scholastic Press Association (KSPA) regional contest at Manhattan February 3.

Visits on December 8 to "The Topeka Capital-Journal" and Josten's American Yearbook Company in Topeka highlighted the year. New staff members also attended a yearbook clinic sponsored by Inter-Collegiate Press on the Emporia State University Campus September 15.

Walker Attends Workshop; All Staffers Enter Contest

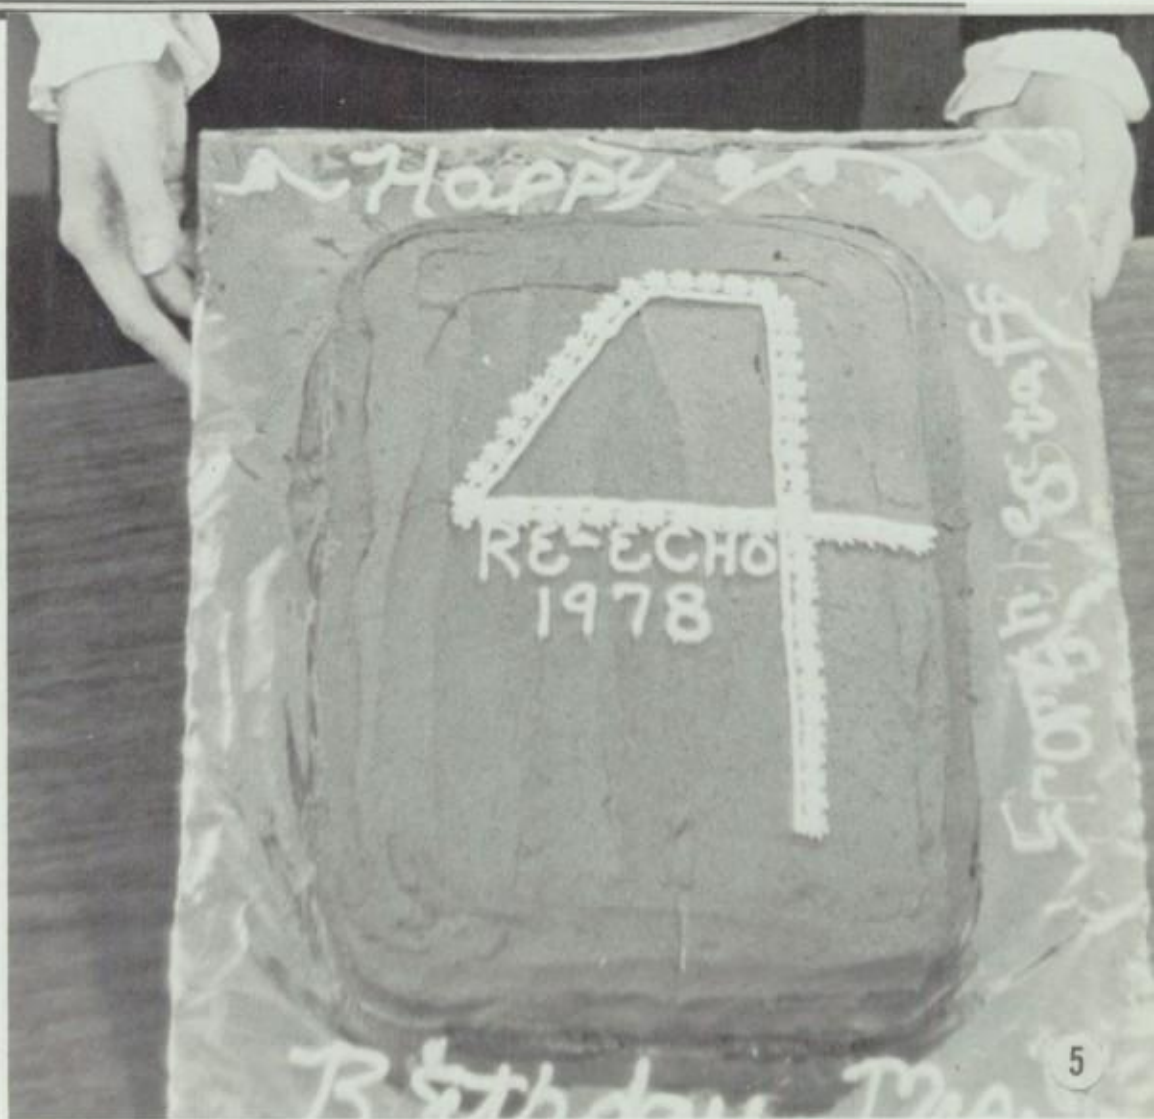

workshop gave Editor Rhonda Walker new ideas for the '78 yearbook. While at the workshop, Rhonda devised a layout design that would carry out the theme idea of "the first four years at the new high school."

For the first time, individual pictures for the yearbook were all taken in one day rather than two. Two photographers set up cameras on the stage to take the mug shots.

Staffers surprised Sponsor Eileen Peoples with a birthday party during sixth hour January 27. The birthday cake was decorated to copy the design of the cover of the '78 yearbook.

After much discussion with administrators and StuCo members, plans were tentatively set to bring in an outside photographer for some senior yearbook pictures the next year.

Well Hellapard,
 this is about my 3rd House this hour today, OH Well what can I say? Just think next year you'll have a blast cutting down the Freshmens. last year
 I told everyone that I would never cut down
 the Freshmen, but you do it any way. Maybe next year you can find some better Teachers (which wouldn't take much.) Boy just think, us poor soles, well have to manage without Mr. Lawrence.
 Do you think we can handle it? I know it will be hard. Maybe next year we can all have one class together
 but I don't think another teacher could handle all of us. Good Luck.

Boys Few in Concert Choir; Treble Uses Choreography

With only ten boys in the Concert Choir, music choices included fewer low voices.

Selections in the Fall Concert on October 20 included "Dream a Dream" and "The God of Abraham Praise."

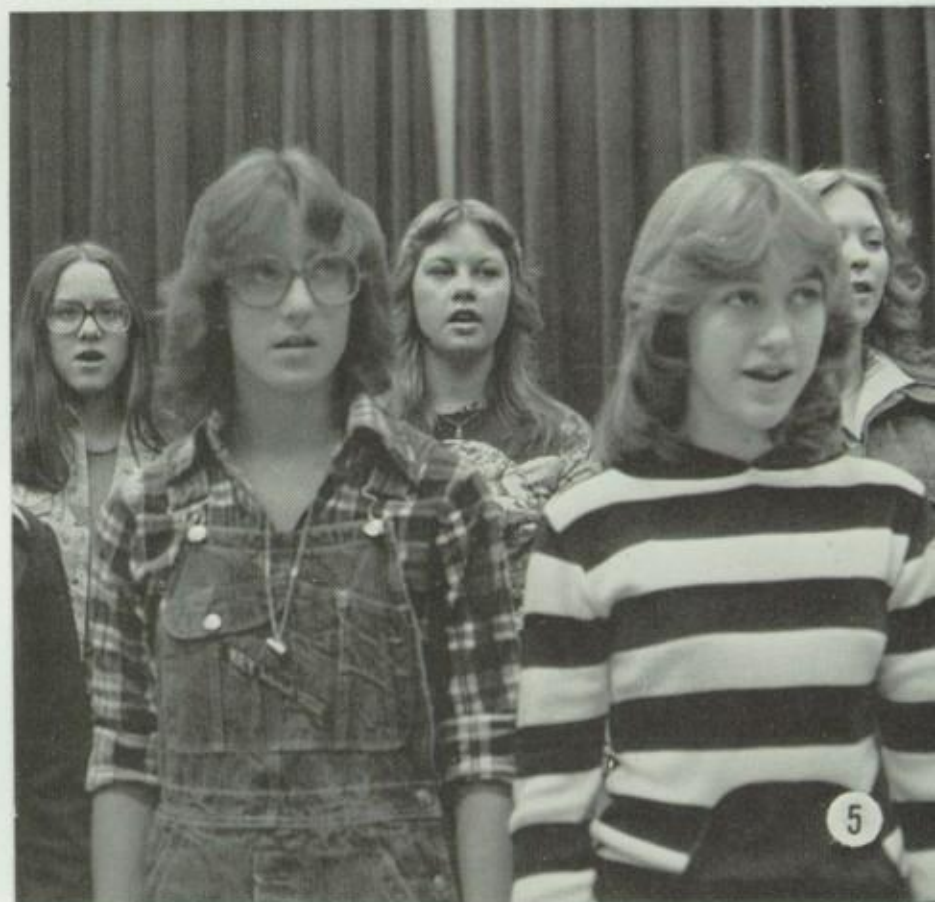

Members of the choir not only sang in concerts, but also presented special music at the Westminster Presbyterian Church.

Singing seriously was one of the main activities in Concert Choir, but students also took time out for caroling in neighborhoods during the Christmas season.

Treble Choir participated in the Fall Concert, singing "Dreams," by Jack Kunz and "White Wing," by Michael Kysar. They also performed for the Annual Christmas Program and Spring Concert.

Choreography used in the Fall Concert number, "The Kids from the Country," included the clapping of hands and the stomping of feet. Choir members also wore overalls for the selection. "Wearing the overalls was fun. It's not very often you get to wear something like that to a formal concert. We all enjoyed learning and doing the movements, too," commented one member.

While preparing for State Music Festival, the girls worked especially hard on good tone quality and balance.

Members Chosen to All-State; Ensembles Busy Performing

Singing in the Fall Concert, Annual Christmas Program and the musical were just a few of the activities in which the Chorale performed.

For many members, it was not unusual to sing on television during the Christmas season. One of the favorite Christmas melodies among the group was "The Jesus Gift," by Gilbert Martin.

Also, the Chorale had the opportunity to participate in the State Music Festival. The group was rated on a scale of I to IV on performance, tone quality, balance and other factors.

Ten members were chosen as All-State Choir members. They included Tammy Turner, Kathy Hoffman, Leona Fowler, John Graham, Steve Loewen, Paul Fredrickson, Willie Houghton and Jay Adkins. Lori Van Sickle and Todd Fredrickson were first and second alternates.

Chorale was not all work and no play. Members took time out to sing Christmas carols in the Flint Hills Shopping Center Mall and surrounding neighborhoods. Hot chocolate and fun were waiting at Susan Rees' farm after the occasion.

"This was a very fine and most pleasurable Chorale group," said Director Don Grant. "I also feel they have achieved some great accomplishments."

Mixed Ensemble and Girls' Ensembles were also busy performing in activities.

Invitations from clubs and organizations gave them the opportunity to perform new songs such as a Christmas carol, "Good King Kong Looked Out," by P.D.Q. Bach.

Christmas seems to have been the busiest part of the year, with 14 performances in December. One Mixed Ensemble member commented, "It was fun going to different places to sing for the people. Reactions from some of the audiences were most rewarding."

Mixed Ensemble chose new outfits for their performances.

Grant Chooses Double Cast For Female Musical Roles

Two major changes were made by Director Don Grant for the February 23 and 25 performances of Ogden Nash's musical, "110° in the Shade."

Double-casting was tried for the first time, enabling more girls to participate in lead roles. The two nights' performances involved two new actors each night. Lori Van Sickle as Lizzie Curry and Julie Beran as Snookie Updegraff performed the first night. Leona Fowler as Lizzie Curry and Tina Plank as Snookie Updegraff performed the second night. Mr. Grant was pleased with both nights' performances.

The other major change was dates of the performance. Ordinarily done on consecutive nights, the performances were changed to Thursday and Saturday. With this change, Mr. Grant saw big success in the crowd and acting. "Everyone did a great job," commented Mr. Grant. "We put a lot of work in it and it all payed off at the end."

The setting for the musical was the late 40's. Lizzie Curry was led to believe that she wasn't a pretty woman until Bill Starbuck came to the drought stricken town. There he prepared to persuade the townspeople that he could make it rain for only a hundred dollars. During the process of trying to make it rain, Starbuck made Lizzie believe that she was pretty and also a woman. File, the town's sheriff, realized how beautiful Lizzie was, and tried to win her back.

Rain finally came to the town and everyone, including Lizzie, was happy.

Although music students were involved in the on-stage show, behind the scenes were Kent Chapman in charge of sets and Willie Smiley in charge of choreography. The set design was created by Clark Greenlee.

"I enjoyed doing the show," said one Chorale member. "It made a lot of the members become more of a single unit, which helped in later performances."

Turntable Changes Scenes In Fall Drama Production

New equipment improved the mobility of the sets in the fall children's play, "Mrs. McThing," by Mary Chase on November 17 and 18. The new equipment allowed the stage crew to change the scenes quickly. A turntable with a scene on each side could be turned to create a new scene. Using wagons also added special effects.

Complications occurred concerning the turntable. While the stage crew was changing the scenes during the second performance, a coffee table was broken.

The story began when a little girl climbed over a garden wall to play with a lonely boy, Howay. She was sent away by his mother, Mrs. Howard V. Larue III. It just so happened that Mimi's mother was an experienced witch. In revenge, she took Howay and placed a stick boy in his place. Meanwhile, Howay was sent off to a life of crime at the Shantyland Pool Hall Lunchroom.

At first Howay's mother was delighted to find her stick boy was so perfect, but when she realized the truth, she set out to reclaim her son.

In the process of finding her boy, she again crossed Mimi, who promptly turned her into a dishwasher for the mobsters.

She became so frustrated that she took back her son on his own terms and let him play with the little girl.

"All the members of the cast developed and displayed their characters' parts well," commented Director Kent Chapman. Howay and Mimi were played by grade school children, Steve Ginavan and Jean Abbott.

Mr. Chapman was pleased with both performances. "As big as the show was, they all did a super job!"

Senior Todd Fredrickson, who played Dirty Joe, commented, "It was a well-written play. I enjoyed doing the show. The only thing that was a bit difficult was speaking with an Eastern accent. But as the show progressed, that became easier."

Fantasy classes in the Language Arts Department also studied the play.

(1) Saying "goodbye" to Mimi (Jean Abbott) is her mother, the Beautiful Witch (Julie Beran). (2) Gang Members, Poison Eddie Schellenbach (Jack Meyer), Dirty Joe (Todd Frederickson) and Stinker (Eric VanderVelde) discuss their plans for robbing the Larue Towers. (3) Telling Mrs. Howard V. Larue (Rita Woodworth) about his childhood is the chef (John Graham). (4) Poison Eddie Schellenbach (Jack Meyer) explains to Howay (Steve Ginavan) his plans to rob Howay's home. (5) Mrs. Howard V. Larue (Rita Woodworth) is reminiscing about the good old days. (6) The Lewis sisters, Maude (Mary Spalding), Evva (Rebecca Swinney) and Grace (Joi Ralston), are on their way to see a lady who they think is an imposter for Mrs. Larue.

Students Play at High Level For Orchestra, Stage Band

According to directors Don Kile and David Hodges, the Orchestra and Stage Band performed much better than ever before.

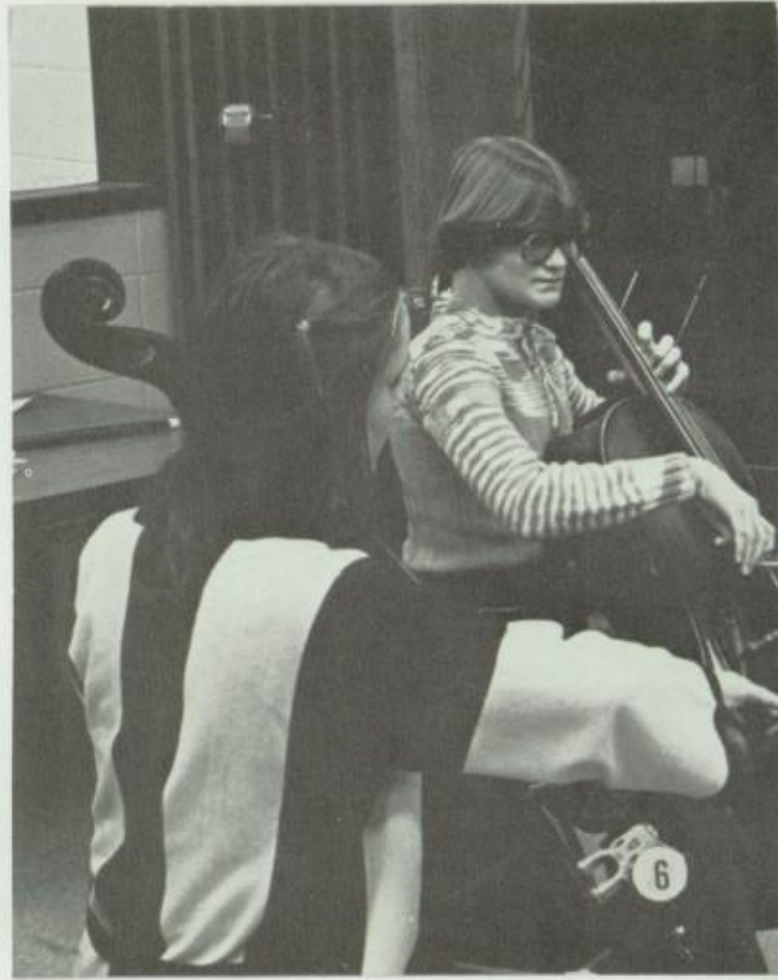

"We had a very high proficiency of string players," commented Mr. Kile. The Orchestra presented three concerts and participated in the Christmas Program, State Music Festival, Baccalaureate and Commencement. They also performed for various social and church groups and at each of the elementary schools.

Senior Jan Fleisher was Concert Mistress of the All-State Orchestra, which meant that she was first chair violin. Eight other members were selected for All-State, including Richard Wright as Principal second violin. Other members chosen were Katie Garcia, Steve Hart, Bruce Hart, Ellen Ciurczak, Patricia Hart and Paula Moore. Mike Holscher was a first alternate.

Orchestra and Symphonic Band were scheduled the same hour to make it easier for wind players to rehearse with the orchestra.

"The Stage Band played better because the kids were willing to give up their time and learn new ideas," said Mr. Hodges.

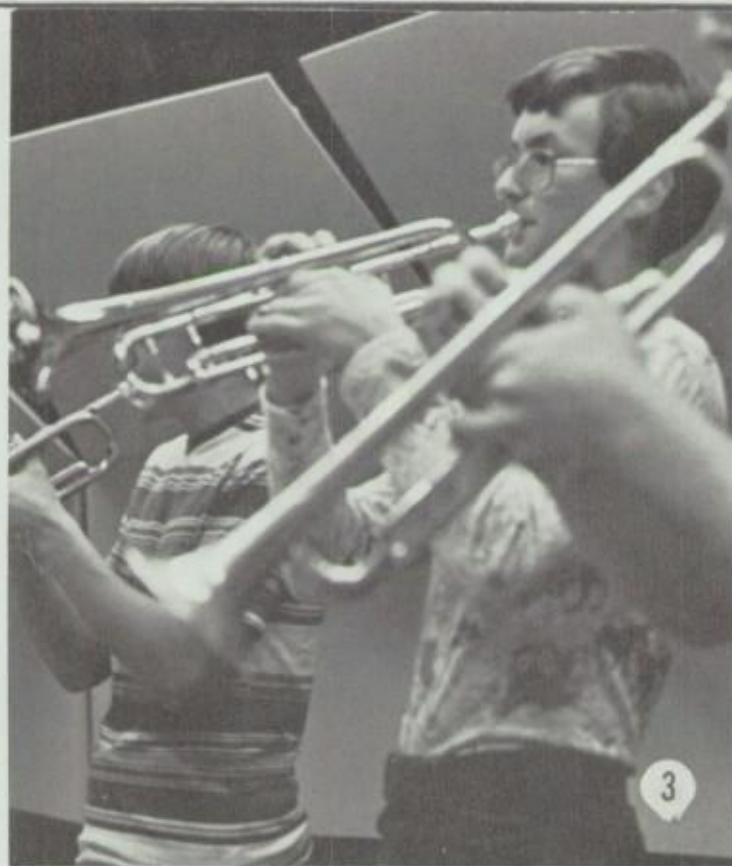

Performances were frequent during the basketball season. The Stage Band played for all home basketball games and pep assemblies. They were also invited to play for a Phi Delta Kappa banquet, Harvest Moon, and presented three concerts.

They attended a jazz clinic at Kansas University on March 18. They also traveled to KU on February 1 to attend a clinic and concert featuring Gary Foster, a professional wind player.

Several selections played by the Stage Band were arranged by Joe Lenigan. These included "You Light Up My Life," "I Want to Make it With You" and "Fly Me to the Moon."

New equipment purchased for the Stage Band included an electric piano.

Division of Band Challenges Both Upper, Underclassmen

For the first time, the Band was divided during the concert season. This gave advanced players a chance to play more difficult music while the underclassmen could improve their skills.

Performing at halftime of the Kansas City Chiefs' pro-football game highlighted the marching season. The band was one of nine bands chosen from several hundred applicants. The Marching Spartans also performed at all the home football games, the playoff game, Emporia State University Band Day and the Veterans' Day Parade.

Summer rehearsals gave the Marching Band an early start. The students memorized all their music, which improved both their marching and playing. According to Director David Hodges, the flag team was also much better, after attending a summer camp.

After marching season, the band was divided. The students were required to audition to determine which band they would be in. The Symphonic Band was balanced and made up of the more advanced players in each section. The Concert Band was made up of mostly freshmen and sophomores and was hoped to be a good feeder band in future years. "The attitudes of both bands are very good, more people are taking private lessons than ever before, and in general the program is much stronger," said Mr. Hodges.

The Symphonic Band was invited to be a guest band at Emporia State University's Band Clinic, February 14. They spent the morning working with Gary Garner from West Texas State. They also held their own band clinic and concert, March 15 and 16. Guest clinicians included Robert Foster, Director of Bands at KU, Harold Keen, trombone soloist, Jay Wanamaker, percussion soloist, and Bob Duffer.

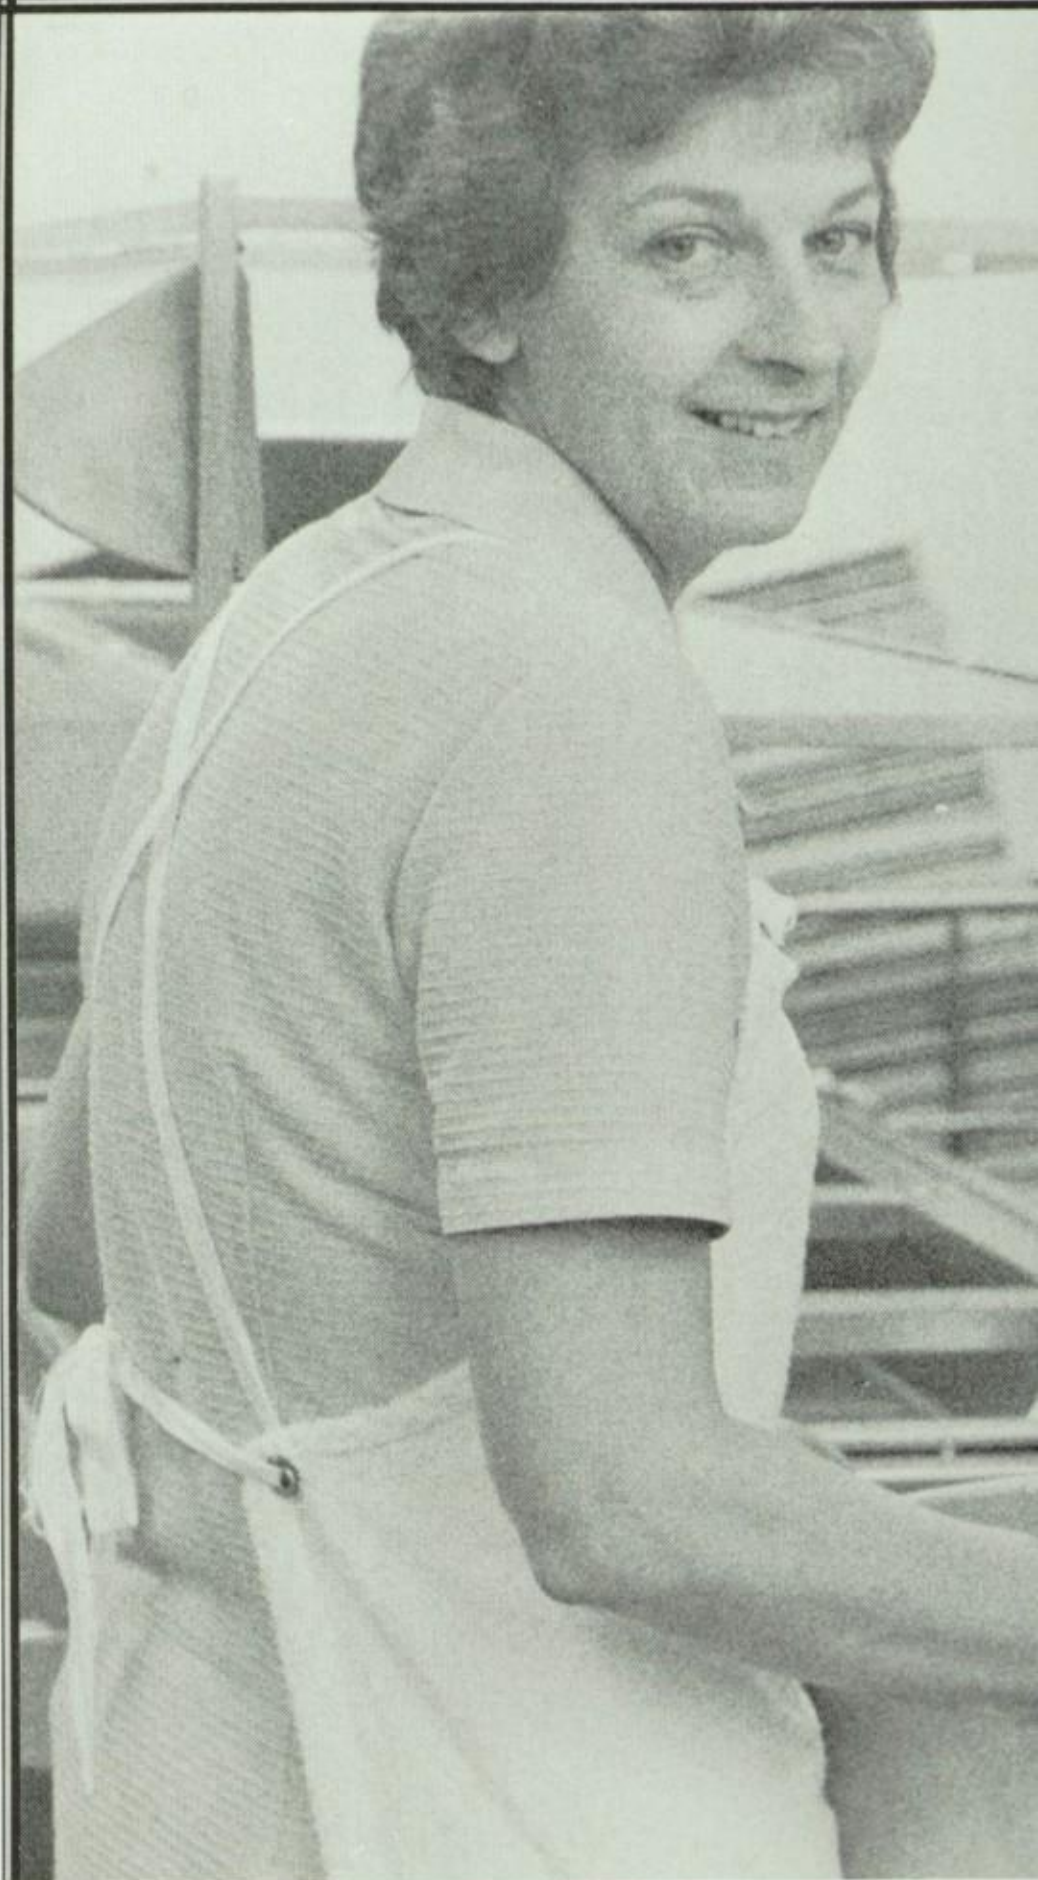

A Winter Concert was presented by both bands January 19, and a Spring Concert, May 4. The Symphonic Band also played for the grade schools and both bands participated in State Music Festival.

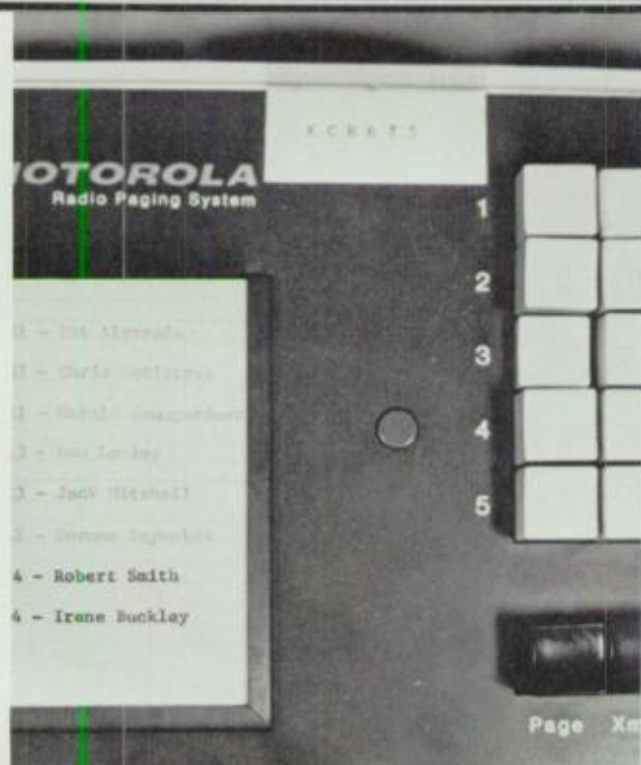

Seniors Jim Calvert and Joe Lenigan were selected for the Hall of Fame All America Band. Joe Lenigan, Jim Calvert, Amy Havenhill and Scott Schulte were included in the 1978 edition of Who's Who in America in High School Music.

We Were Freshmen Now We Are Seniors

We went through many things being the first freshmen in the new school building and having our share of being called names, but we finally made it to our senior year.

We were busy throughout the year having our pictures taken and exchanging them with friends, applying for scholarships, taking the ACT test and selling T-Shirts at noon to raise money for our gift to the school. Some of us met with various college representatives while others, hoping to obtain a good first choice of classes, pre-enrolled at ESU.

Perhaps one of our most cherished memories was "Grad Night" at Worlds of Fun in Kansas City.

Near the end of our last year we were busy addressing graduation announcements, which happened to be the same style as those chosen by the '75 seniors when we were freshmen.

Finally came graduation. We entertained all our relatives and thanked them for gifts before rushing off to celebrate with our classmates.

That last week of high school for us, Senior Week, found us sleeping late, watching television, reading, sun bathing, riding around and generally goofing off. Those four years in the "new" Emporia High School were over for us.

Juniors Await Future With Much Anticipation

"Who's the class that's so divine? Nothing but the class of 79!"

We couldn't believe we were finally upperclassmen!

Our most important job of the year was to plan the Junior-Senior Prom. We sold T-shirts, planned a Halloween bake sale and sponsored a theme dance to earn money for it.

Kill! Kill! was a common word heard from our coaches during the annual Powder-Puff football game. Unfortunately for us junior girls, we were again beaten by the senior women.

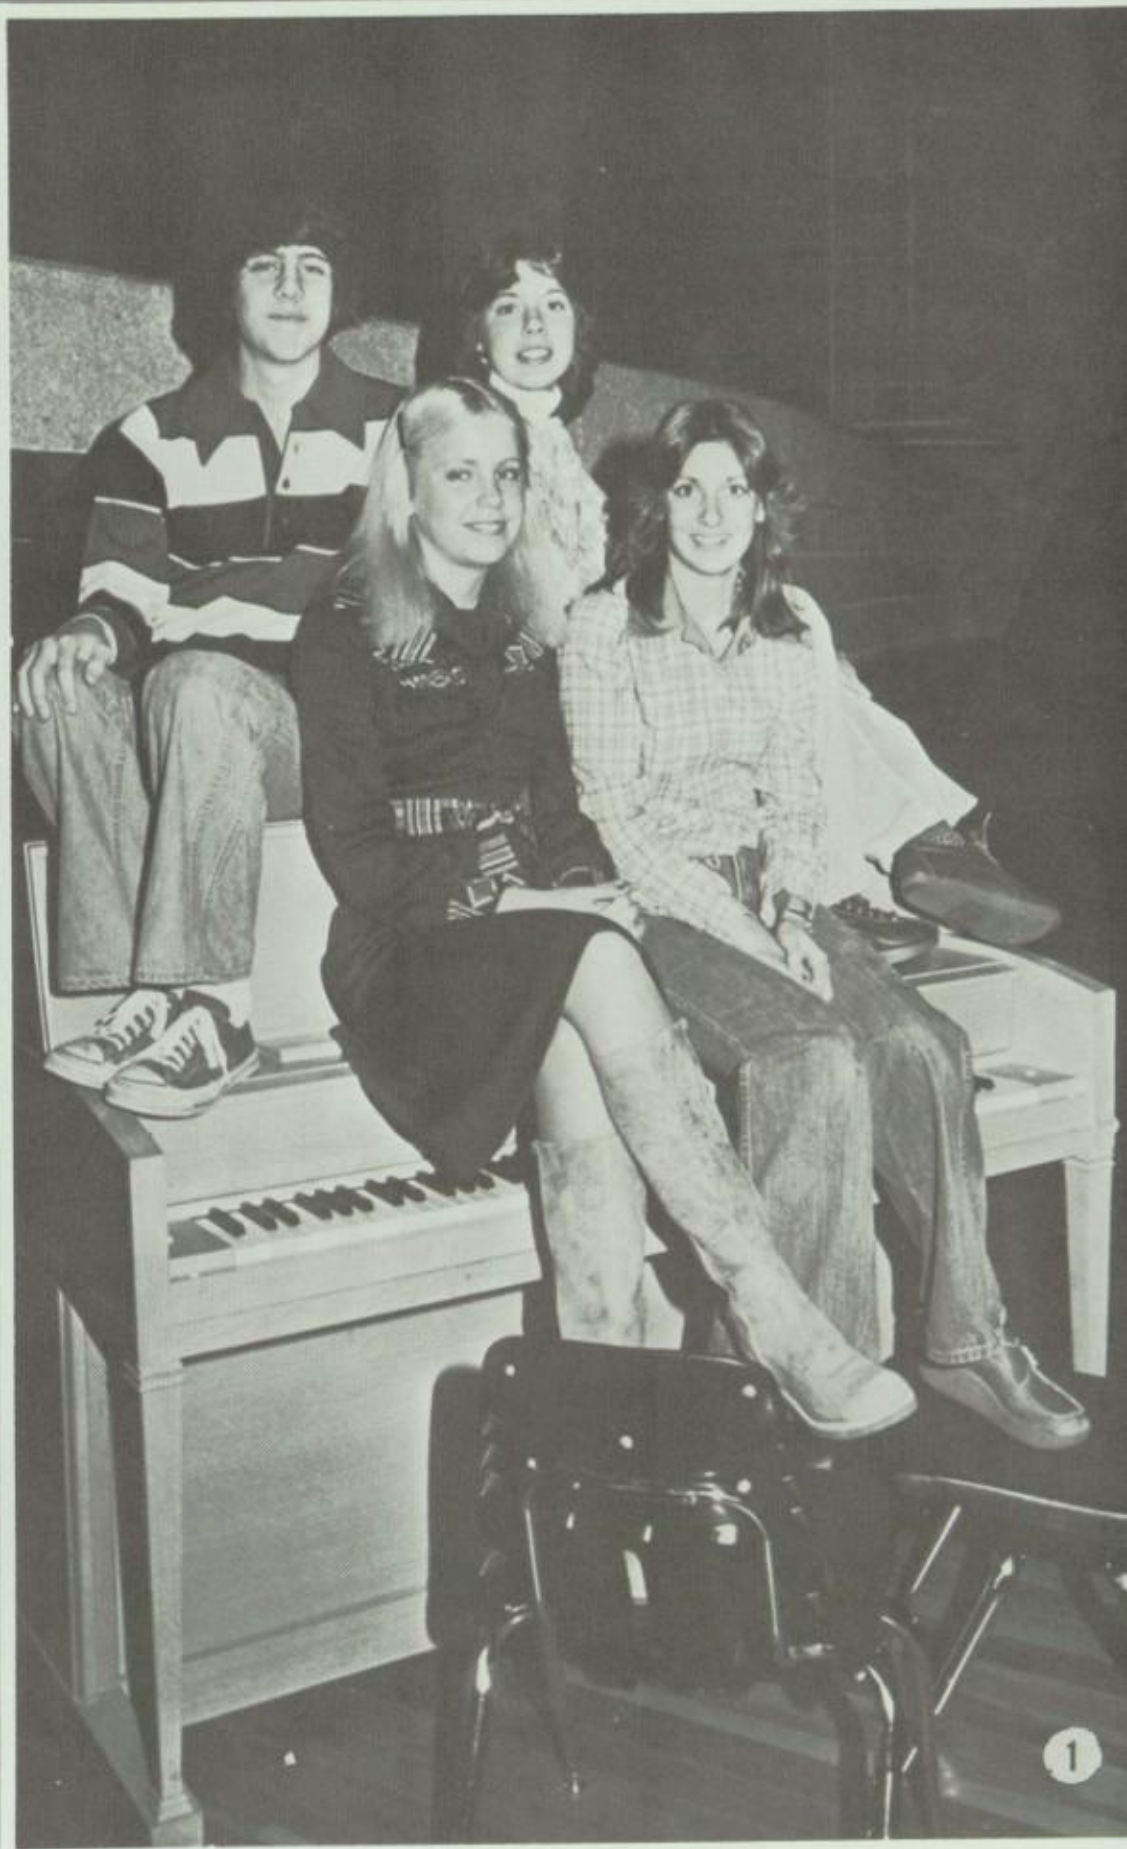

Many decisions of our class were made by the Junior Board, a group of juniors chosen to represent the class. Some of the decisions board members made concerned the types of dances we had and which money-making projects we should plan.

A great number of us were busy during the year in Algebra II. We studied the six functions of trigonometry and studied linear and quadratic equations. One of our teachers said, "I believe you are here to learn logical thinking and to develop a good problem solving technique."

Betty Crocker we are not, but many of us took a shot at it. While we girls were busy in Bakeshop making gingerbread houses and yeast breads, the guys were also trying their hand at cooking in Single Survival. Even though there were a number of burnt cookies and breads that wouldn't raise, we had lots of fun and even learned a few things.

Finally our junior year was over. We looked forward to being seniors and making 1979 an even better year.

We Now Look Ahead To Our Senior Year

It was a Great Relief Not to be the Youngest

"We are super, we are crazy. We are the class of 1980."

It was such a relief not to be the youngest class in the building. Finally we had a class to "boss" around!

As every class did, we tried our hand at money-making projects. We sold pennants during football season and planned a car wash at Long John Silver's in the fall.

Although our Christmas window won fourth place, we really stole the show in the Legs contest, with the legs of Joe Witten and Brent Smith taking first place.

Even though extracurricular activities were important to us, we did take time to attend classes. Many of us struggled in Typing I to learn the parts of the typewriter and especially the letters and signs of the keyboard. Our timed writings echoed throughout the typing rooms...a,s,d,f...j,k,l,i....

All of us took Physical Education, enjoying the games of basketball, buffaloball and bombardment but dreading the calisthenics right after roll call.

Biology was sometimes hard, but the films and trips which were a part of the class were bright spots in our days. We especially remember the trip to Cheyenne Bottoms, the slide show about the Backpacking Club's Colorado trip and the visit from Mr. Mike Long, Manager of the Flint Hills Wildlife Refuge.

Emporia High had finally become our "home."

Freshmen Support Basketball Games

"We are foxy, we are fun, we are the class of '81."

Where do I go? What's my locker number? Who is Mr. Reynolds? Why did we have to come out to this enormous building? Those were familiar questions that we asked the first few days of school.

As freshmen, it seemed like all the classes we took were required. Most of us took Algebra, Earth Science, Freshman Physical Education and English.

Our chanting in English class seemed to fill the halls: "Is, be, am, are, was, were, been...."

In gym class, the girls spent four and a half weeks on each sport. They had a blast bowling and swimming, but it seemed that square dancing would never end. And some still have scares from fencing. Although the boys' gym class mainly swam and worked on physical fitness, they also worked on the same things as the girls.

Looking toward next year, our class officers started raising money. They sold class buttons to each class and planned other projects.

Through all the trials of being picked on, being called names and being last to do everything, we successfully made it through our first year of high school.

Disjointed memories of our first four years in the new building came crowding back to us as some of us left our high school years behind. Highlighting that first year was the sell-out musical "South Pacific," which was held on our brand new stage, with new lights, new curtains and even a new orchestra pit. Besides a new building, we embraced a brand new curriculum with "mini courses" and occasional Smorgasbord Days. Memories of the Bicentennial year of '76 eventually floated into view. We had a new principal to guide our school that year and we were beginning to settle into a smooth routine of lessons, club activities and sports. Remembering sports, we saw visions of some of those weird costumes such as Spook 'Em Day costumes, which appeared during various spirit days. As those "ghosts" faded, dreams of football victories crossed our minds. Before 1977 we didn't really believe the cheer, "We Are the Champs," but in '77 we captured the 4-A State Football Championship, a first for Emporia High. Older memories were shoved aside as we recalled the "lice checks" of '78, which involved not only students and faculty, but also parents and members of the business community.

Those of us who made it through all four of those years in a new building had finally become the first freshmen to graduate from the "new" Emporia High.

Joe and Jim

We look at each other and wonder "why," if we were put here to live, then "why" must we die?

*Death's path works in weird ways; we could live for years, or only a few more days.
If we must die, why so young? For Joe and Jim, life had just begun.*

We never think of the friendship we have until it's gone; that's really sad.

It's an honor to be a chosen one, even though it makes many lonesome.

Now we look at you differently. You are, what sometime, we'll be.

From now on, you're with Him. But we'll never forget you, Joe and Jim.

all.
 I love
 looking at your armpits day in, day out;
 weak in, weak out, year in,
 year out. (I think you get my message.) (I hate writing to people who are close friends, because I don't know what to say.) I can't think of anything sincere to say that will sound sincere, so
 I'll stop writing.
 Love
 Kelly.

Nell, I've enjoyed having you in classes this year. You're real smart and nice to be around. Have a nice summer.

James

Nell,
 I just write something nice and sweet, just because you couldn't be serious. You are a real nice girl. I have enjoyed having you in English and I am sure you will continue to do so. I hope our friendship can continue to grow next year. Good luck always same without you. (good you were there, huh?)

 Next year, gym will be a blast! I hope we have some more classes together too!
 Have a wonderful vacation and summer
 I have to call you and we can do something together okay?! See you around
 Love
 Jason Zeffand

 you do. With

Neil,

I guess you already know what I'm going to say, but I need to say it anyway. I will never forget the times when I so sorely needed a sympathetic ear to hear me out, and I should thank you, Chris, to get me back to normal. I will always remember the times we went swimming, racket ball, biking out or just sitting and having a good heart-to-heart rap about anything and everything. The night of my party has lots of memories, but only because you helped to make it great. I have had lots of friends, and Dan, Bob and I are a three some, but never have I had such a friendship as with you. I want you to know that I have told you some very private thoughts + that only I could of been able to tell if you hadn't really cared how I felt about everything and anything. Neil, when we move please remember - that's there is always a Post Office and a telephone near by. I will write you I promise, I hope you realize just how special you are to little ole me. I think you are great, and you will always be the special person to me that you are.

Friends Forever

Chris Korn

P.S. Thank you so much for caring about me as a person. Best wishes Always. I love you D

Well, it's hard to figure out what to write in a yearbook or "Don't worry, I won't say 'Have a nice summer' because you're sweet." but don't things like "Have a nice summer" or "Don't worry, I won't say 'Have a nice summer' because you're sweet." Your Buddy Chris Korn
